Briefs Registrar Notes

(a) Changes in Registration
Once a student is registered, any change, regardless of type, must be made on the proper Change of Registration form and filed with the Registrar. Such changes include: courses, sections, local address, phone number, etc. Only the student can initiate these changes; only the Registrar can officially process these changes. Changes made in any other way, formally or informally, or solely by arrangement with an instructor or another office, are not honoured.

The English Language Competency Test will be written on September 9 at 2:00 p.m. in MN 406 and on September 16 at 7:00 p.m. in S313. Further information is available from Dr. Geraldine Thomas, Department of Modern Languages and Classics. Failure to comply with this E.S.L. requirement will result in the cancellation of a student's acceptance and registration.

(f) Signatures
Students who require their signature witnessed on official documents (e.g. passports, affidavits, proxy ballots) may contact the Registrar, Elizabeth A. Chard, who holds an appointment as Commissioner pursuant to the Notaries and Commissioners Act, Province of Nova Scotia.

Interview with Ian Morrison

by Pat Taylor

I was sitting in the YearBook office expectantly awaiting Ian Morrison, the current vice-president of Administration. Ian, formerly station manager of CFSM entered hurriedly. He sat down, and after some small talk we began the interview...

Q: What duties does the Vice President of Administration perform to make his $1200.00 a term paycheque work for the students?

A: Well... as V.P. of Administration, I act as the deputy chief executive. That means that I fulfill (SMUSA President Whalley) Brad's duties in his absence, be it as illness, or even if he is on vacation or in his absence, be it as illness, or even if he is on vacation or out of town on SMUSA business. Most of it is on the spot crisis management because Brad would have completed most of the day to day work. As well, I chair many of the committees like the Health Plan committee, and the Entertainment committee.

One of my main duties is hiring and co-ordinating the SMUSA part time and full time staff. I am the main liaison between the staff and council. Besides that, I'm also in charge of keeping the SMUSA office in an orderly condition.

Q: What kind of work load does the V.P. of Administration maintain?

A: I'm taking three credits this year, a political science course to turn a minor into a double major and 4 commerce half-credits. Some of the courses are job-related like management and marketing. This year I'm fulfilling an interest I've had in commerce.

Considering the amount of work involved, three credits and my job as a V.P. will keep me quite busy.

Q: What are your goals for this year?

A: I have set two general goals for myself and the Students' Association. SMUSA has to reach out to the student body to inform them of the services we offer and to better market them. We want to take a more grassroots approach, even if it comes to talking to the students on an individual, one-on-one basis.

SMUSA has also undergone, since 1984 all the way up to 1987, a rapid growth in services. It is our policy to streamline the selection. To become more efficient and maximize the benefits to the students. In particular, we are taking a hard look at the Yearbook and the Handbook and discussing ways that we could improve on those services. There are infinitely better ways of doing the Handbook using a different format and utilizing newer, better technologies.

SMUSA has a large number of policies it will be implementing this year. SMUSA, and especially Brad Whalley, has worked hard to get a bus shelter on Tower Road, very important now that the inclement weather is approaching. We're working on getting a mailbox for the SUB lobby. We feel that the campus is big enough to justify a second one. We have also worked, and this is a pet project of mine, on turning the old liquor storage room turned into a meeting facility for societies... a lot of this summer has been devoted to overhauling the system.

Raffi Balmanoukian has been working on the constitution and will be revising any pertinent bylaws, work descriptions, etc...

Q: How about the rising tuition rates? What is our student association doing about that?

A: In the last couple of months, we have opened a lot of good lines of communication with our elected representatives. Most of the credit for this should go to Brad. We plan to use the contacts we've made to help the student financially. To do this we've had to work with the other student unions. We have found that the Students' Association is most effective in using itself as a lobby group. The direction for SMUSA is to use itself as a lobby base to call on government. This must be done through a co-operative effort.

Q: And with regards to the Student Union of Nova Scotia?

A: SMUSA is not a member of SUNS but we have frequently worked with them. During the past summer, we worked together with regards to AIDS education. As well, we co-sponsored a candidates forum during the last election with them.

It is SMUSA's policy to take a leadership role in all its outside dealings.

We have no plans to renew membership with SUNS this year.

Bare Bum Gets Student Handbook Seized

MONTREAL (CUP): Concordia's student council has impounded this year's student handbook because of an anti-French editorial and a nude photo.

The council kept all 19,000 copies of the handbook when it arrived in the last week of August and decided at an emergency meeting to remove an editorial written by handbook editor Mike Sportza.

Councillors then spent two days tearing the editorial page out of 9,000 advance copies.

Council is also ripping out a page in the Fine Arts section of the handbook which features a pair of bare buttocks because it is "tasteless and offensive to Fine Arts students."

Sportza's editorial alleged that French "radicals" were attacking the English language in Quebec.

"At some French institutes of post-secondary education there are roving bands of language police who look out for the use of the English language in personal conversations," he wrote.

About 20% of Concordia's students are francophones.

"The editorial offended the French-speaking people of Quebec," said council co-president Andrew Madsen. "It's not even constructive criticism. It's like something you would read on a bathroom wall."

Removing the naked buttocks is "blatant censorship," Sportza said. "They [council] see a bum and they preach morals and pure values."

According to council executive Hernani Farias, the photo could compromise relations between council and engineering students, whose section appears on the opposite page.

"It's our product and we can remove or put in anything we want," Farias said.

Students Erase Own Fines

TORONTO (CUP): At least two students have used University of Toronto library computers to erase their fines.

Students can use terminals to look up book titles. But the computers, installed last year, allow anyone who knows the password to go right into the library's fine records.

A fourth year student at U of T's Victoria College learned how to get into the system after a friend watched Sigmund Samuel library employees erase fines.

"He went up to someone and asked to see his fines and then watched to see what keys she punched," the student said. "It was then just a matter of getting past (the reference program) on the terminals."

Another student in their fourth year at U of T's University College, admitted that an employee of the Engineering Library erased her fines although she had not paid.

The password has now been changed, and the terminals' access to records will be cut off.

"We weren't aware that this was going on," said U of T Associate Librarian Peter Clinton. "Normally the security of any computer is only as good as the people who know the password."

One of the students who has cracked the system says he thinks it happens regularly.

"I just asked someone who worked at the library and she gave me the password quite freely and without hesitation. She said it was quite common."

Clinton and Cozzi refuse to estimate possible lost revenues, but Clinton remains confident that any loss is minimal.

"We haven't seen any pattern of change in fine revenues," he said.

Residence Security Gets Facelift

by Jennifer Hatt

The familiar white jackets of Residence Security personnel will be seen once again this year throughout the halls and behind the desks in residence, but some vital changes are being made to this particular student body. Firstly, the term 'desk clerk' has been made obsolete in favor of the term 'Residence Security Force', a phrase said to more accurately describe the job and one that promotes a better image of the student security. As well, the force this year is made up entirely of full-time security staff, as opposed to other years where dons and floor coordinators were employed. This new full-time security staff will have a new supervisor.

These changes to the residence Security Force were several years in the making, but, says Mr. Clay Fowler, Director of University Residences, "The time was right this year. We had the go-ahead from the university to hire a full-time supervisor, and we received enough qualified applicants to compose the full-time security force to back the system up". There had been concerns raised in the past, both by students and security staff, about the amount of responsibility placed on the shoulders of student security.

After hours and on weekends the entire operation lay with the students working the desk. In a survey of residence students last year there was much dissatisfaction with the degree of visible security and the lack of someone other than a student to be accountable after hours. This situation could not be amended with the existing full-time staff.

The position of assistant director in charge of security was filled at the end of the summer by Mr. Brian Hurst. Mr. Hurst, a graduate of Ryerson University with a degree in Hotel, Restaurant, and Institutional Administration, and in addition to various other positions, was formerly the manager of the Grand Hotel in Yarmouth. He is a student of Saint Mary's working towards the completion of a Bachelor of Commerce degree majoring in Personnel and Industrial Relations.

Mr. Hurst's job will involve all aspects of residence security, including supervision of student security and the operation of the control desk. He will also be handling emergencies as they occur, investigating and preparing reports for the director concerning discipline of residence students, working with dons and floor coordinators in areas of residence security, providing supervision for the night cleaning staff, and providing ongoing reviews of security problems.

In addition to these regular duties he will be given special projects, including studies of the residence security system as a whole, analyzing both staff and the physical environment, and making recommendations as needed.

The new assistant director is living in the family housing section of the Loyola Residence, making him available around the clock. In addition, he will be working the hours of 8 pm to 4 pm, Tuesday to Saturday, and during these hours he will be found either in his office, L210, behind the Loyola control desk, or patrolling the Residences.

Counsellor Returns

The Saint Mary's University Counselling Centre recently hired a new fulltime counsellor, Heather Ferguson. Heather, who graduated from Saint Mary's University with an honours degree in Psychology, completed a Master's in Clinical Social Work at Columbia University in New York City. After two years in New York, she is glad to be back and to contribute to the quality of student life at Saint Mary's University.

Heather first became interested in work with university students while serving as a student counsellor at Long Island University in Brooklyn, N.Y. She helped students with a range of concerns from making the transition from high school to college, adjusting to residence life, developing new relationships, coping with academic difficulties, and making career decisions. This experience heightened her understanding of student issues.

This past year Heather worked with disadvantaged families in a clinic in the Brighton Beach area of Brooklyn near Coney Island Amusement Park. In her two years away, Heather gained a greater sense of the word "street smarts" and, as a drummer, developed a fondness for salsa music. She also admits an increased appreciation of the civility of Halifax.

Heather would appreciate feedback from students regarding interest in establishing discussion groups in the residences or support groups on campus.

Heather welcomes students to visit her at the counselling Centre (4th floor of the SUB) to discuss any concerns, large or small, or to call for an appointment at 420-5610. All information shared is strictly confidential and remains within the confines of the counselling offices.

New Smoking Policy at Saint Mary's

by Jennifer Hatt

In late Sept. 1987 the Saint Mary's University Occupational Health and Safety Committee conducted a poll of faculty, staff, and students to determine opinions concerning smoking and the possibility of a smoking policy. This survey was conducted out of concern for a healthy work environment, as smoking has been identified as Canada's most serious public health problem.

Of the 600 questionnaires distributed, 64% were returned. Of those returned, 40% were staff, 30% were faculty, and 30% were students. Various questions were posed, and the responding group consisted of 81% non-smokers, 17% cigarette smokers, and 2% pipe or cigar smokers. It was found that over 70% of the sample objected to all types of tobacco-related smoke.

When queried about smoking in various locations on campus, 93% opposed smoking in the classroom, 78% opposed smoking in washrooms, 77% opposed smoking anywhere in the library, and 57% opposed smoking in the cafeterias. Smoking in private offices was opposed by 53%. Based on these results, and recommendations from Health and Welfare Canada, the Lung Association, the Canadian Cancer Society and the Canadian Heart Foundation, the Smoking Policy Committee of the Saint Mary's University Occupational Health and Safety Committee recommended the following policy: Effective September 1, 1988, smoking is prohibited throughout the university except in designated smoking areas identified by "Smoking Permitted" signs.

Smoking Permitted areas on campus are as follows:

Student Union Building: Gorsebrook Lounge, gamesroom, Alumni Lounge (except during 9-5 Mon.-Fri., unless otherwise stated).

McNally: All existing staff, faculty, and student lounges, a section of the Theatre Auditorium lobby, the outer lobby of the library.

Loyola Building: One-third of "Orange County" in the collonade, designated areas within the student lounges, the open lounge area on the South Side of the Second Floor.

Burke Education Centre: designated section of the first floor lobby, designated area of student and staff lounges.

Arena: An area of the lobby will be designated, as will a lounge.

Private Offices (including the Oaks and 5907 Gorsebrook): may be designated by the occupant. It is strongly recommended that they be designated "no smoking", but if smoking is permitted, it is asked that the occupants refrain from doing so in the presence of a non-smoking person.

This policy has been developed in concern for a healthy environment for all, and everyone, including staff, faculty, students, and visitors are expected to comply with this policy. All areas will be clearly marked, either with a green sign (smoking permitted), or with a red sign (no smoking). Ashtrays will also be removed from all no smoking areas.

The Right Thing To Do, And The Tasty Way To Do It

I smoke about a pack of cigarettes a day. So, last year, when I started hearing rumblings of a new smoking policy to be implemented here at SMU I got a little nervous.

What was I going to do?! Having a cigarette before class had become a time honoured tradition with me. And I don't mean a cigarette at home before leaving for class. I mean a cigarette on the way to class. That cigarette before class was always delightful but that surge of nicotine after a two hour lecture has got to be up there with the first cigarette of the day and the one after supper.

Sure, I'd wheeze into class rather than breeze in but that little psychological crutch was worth it to me. Second hand smoke be damned.

Now, all that's been taken away from me. I guess I should be upset, but I'm not. In fact I think this policy is overdue. After all we've known the dangers of second hand smoke for almost as long. It should have been educational institutions that led the way in introducing no smoking policies. Instead it was restaurants and the like that made the first move.

So, now that Saint Mary's has done the right thing, I'm not going to gripe (much). I may not join the majority but if a little inconvenience on my part will save some lives then I'll go along.

Besides, it might save me some money.

Filler

BY SUZANNE METHOT

This, my first column for this school year, will be one of introductory and explanatory nature. The main things I wish to make clear to all Journal readers at this point in time is that this column is one of editorial nature: the editor of the Saint Mary's Journal has graciously allocated me some white space to fill with totally subjective viewpoints concerning news around campus, around Halifax, and the world, and to discuss, get angry at, or herald as victories any problems, events, or ideas encountered in our lives and today's world. The main purpose in this exercise is not merely to allow me to sputter on about things and spew out subjectively annoying comments just to satisfy any personal aspirations to journalistic stardom - it is to provide a forum in which a viewpoint may be offered that makes you, the general public, think. Yes, think. Use that grey matter, in other words.

In creating some sort of atmosphere for discussion, be it hostile or friendly, I hope to help to cure what ails a large portion of society, be it campus society or society in a larger perspective: I want perspectives to enlarge and audacity and temerity to take the place of inactivity and placidity concerning issues both close to us and those not directly affecting or concerning us, at least not in this stage of our life. I say "us" because I, too, am certainly guilty of ignoring important issues which need addressing and ideas formulated around if we, the next generation to make contributions to society, are to be influential thinkers and, above all, doers.

This forum is my chance to address minor and major issues, and in doing so, I accept any and all responsibility for viewpoints concerned radical or otherwise. I'm sure my personality will show through my writing; stubbornness and bluntness notwithstanding. In other words, I will piss a great deal of people off. Good. That's what I want to accomplish. Write a letter to the editor of the Journal, write me a letter c/o the Journal, or write your MP, complaining or voicing concern over an issue I raise. Above all, do something. This may all sound lofty, arrogant, and boring, but trust me: I'll create some great discussions, and certainly some fun, for I won't always discuss dry, abstract treatises. Let's get off our butts and try to make this lazy world a little better through intellectual exercise. So tune in, same place, September 22.

Sorry Alexa, Not This Time . . .

The recent poor showing of the New Democratic Party in the provincial election came as no surprise to many, including some party members and supporters. Even committed socialists who called for a vote for the NDP had no illusions of an electoral victory.

The primary reason for this analysis is the realization that there has been a distinct rightward shift in political thinking in the general population in this region. The factors leading to this shift towards conservative thought are related to the current economic conditions in the area, as well as the low level of class struggle and organized labour activity in recent times. There is a tendency among the majority of the population at present to regard themselves not as workers but rather as "middle-class", even when, on the basis of their relationship to the means of production, they are clearly working class.

The reaction of the NDP party bureaucracy to this conservative trend is not to hold their ground on traditional stands, such as the NATO question and nationalization, but rather to follow the lead of other social-democratic parties worldwide and shift further and further towards the right. At present, the NDP is virtually ideologically indistinguishable from the other two mainline parties, having become only mildly reformist in nature. In fact, it is the lack of any clear ideology or coherent theory that has led to the present "cult of the personality" surrounding Ed Broadbent, as well as Alexa and the other provincial leaders. Rather than emphasizing the importance of the rank-and-file worker, or the members of the affiliated union locals, the party bureaucracy prefers to emphasize the importance of the leadership of one man (or woman if that be the case). From this comes the ridiculous situation of having slogans such as "Vote Alexa and (local candidates name goes here)".

The New Democrats do not present any challenge to the present capitalist system in any way. There is not even so much as a call for nationalization. Groups such as David Somerville's National Citizens Coalition with their right-wing, pro-capitalist views have nothing to fear from Uncle Ed.

However, as a socialist, I still call for a vote for the New Democrats. The NDP is still the only party which has concrete links with the mass labour movement and the workers's of Canada. It is the only major party with no financial links to Canadian capitalists and large multi-national corporations. It can only be in the interest of the workers to vote with their class and against the two mainline parties of big business and capitalism. An electoral victory for the NDP will bring some minor reforms which will help the workers and oppressed in this country, but cannot be seen as a magic cure-all which would significantly change the economic conditions of the mass of Canadians.

The only way to attack the basis of the capitalist economic system is to organize within workplaces and create a mass revolutionary socialist party which can smash the capitalist state and put worker's power in it's place.

Orientation '88

The Time of Your Life??

By Nancy Duxbury

Orientation 1988, optimistically named The Time of Your Life, was the focus of SMU life last week, featuring over twenty scheduled events.

Attendance was very high, beyond the expectations of many of the organizers.

Ian Morrison, Saint Mary's University Students' Association (SMUSA) V-P Administration is "glad SMUSA was able to succeed in its goal of orienting new and returning students to each other as well as to the university community as a whole. I feel the week was a tremendous success."

Thursday, society tables at Scoop on SMU gave new students their first glimpse of extracurricular life on campus and many signed up for membership. The Commerce Society is already boasting over one hundred members.

That evening, while Mature and Part-time students toured and attended a reception, many others danced, destroyed balloons, and limboed at the Beach Party. Also, the newly-renovated Gorsebrook Lounge was reopened.

An unscheduled tug-of-war contest against a nearby Dalhousie crowd resulted in a quick victory for the SMU team and rapid disappearance of the Dal students afterwards.

Mark Croft was awarded the Frosh Award for the greatest participation of all frosh in Orientation events.

Orientation began on Tuesday with Student Buddy meetings, campus tours and the movie Three Men and a Baby played to a full theatre.

Saturday's pre-football barbecue was dampened by rain but went on all the same, students arriving wearing raincoats and carrying umbrellas. Fortunately, the rain stopped before gametime and the stands filled with loyal Huskie fans. Their enthusiastic cheering spurred the Huskies onto an exhilarating 27-21 victory over the Mt. Allison Mounties. The Tree's Extravaganza, Saturday night, was attended by 1100 students and marked the first dance to be held in the Tower.

Subway Day in the Park, a seaside excursion to Point Pleasant Park Sunday afternoon, featured entertainment by folksinger Brian Maxwell, free com-on-the-cob and six-foot-long submarine sandwiches. Volleyball and football games combined with frisbee and baseball throws, and led to crowded field conditions and some unexpected excitement as playing areas overlapped.

A Commerce Freshman Assembly at the Courtside Lounge was well-attended by both students and professors on Friday. In the evening, a Harbour Cruise on board the Harbour Queen attracted about 200 students, while many tired Orientation Committee members and residence dons took time to rest and recuperate from a hectic week.

Playfair, an energizing, active sequence of games and activities, returned to SMU on Wednesday. Radio Saint Mary's and SMUSA held open houses in the afternoon, visited by about two hundred students. Later, Casino Night featured gambling booths sponsored by various societies, Huskie money, and an auction with highly-contested bidding.

Student Employment

Whether Saint Mary's students are looking for a permanent job or a summer job to help pay tuition, the Canada Employment Centre on Campus (CEC-OC) is available to help students find suitable employment.

Although students should register with the Centre in September, CEC manager Bruna Caracristi says it's never too late. Students can register with the CEC by filling out an information sheet that asks for their name, address, telephone number and degree program.

The CEC has boards displaying permanent, part-time, casual and summer employment opportunities. It is the student's responsibility to check the boards and supply the necessary information, such as a cover letter and resume to potential employers.

As a resource centre, the CEC also offers employment counselling, job selection and referral service, resume assistance, job search technique information, and information on labour markets, occupations, and employers.

The CEC advertises permanent positions for graduates starting in September, while in November summer jobs are posted. Part-time jobs are posted early in the year and allow students to take advantage of on-campus positions.

The CEC, open 9:00-4:30 Monday to Friday, is located on the fourth floor of the SUB.

What I Did Over My Summer Break

by Michael Donoghue

What I really was going to write was an article on the best places in Halifax to go for beer, used books, movies, and food. Alas, the first page of my copy got lost, and deadline is coming up VERY soon. So, I'll just ramble on how I spent my Summer.

As I was duly elected Entertainment Editor, I decided to have a fun time. I ran up a large bar tab, and owed many movie complexes free reviews. THEN, they told me I didn't have a summer budget. I could have killed the Journal execs. Alas, they were my roomies, (well, three of them were).

Phase two: I had to find a (yuck) job. Soon, I found employment with a company that was immoral enough to exploit me with unpaid and overworking. Boy, oh-boy, was I ever happy.

There were some highlights, however: I always landed good locations at rock concerts. When Def Leppard came to town, I had better seats than the front row (A.K.A. "stage duty").

Not being one to let a chance slip by, when the buskers came to Halifax, I made sure that myself and our photo-editor "Al" (who may have looked a little different in her brown hair and King's I.D.) were in attendance at the grand opening. This invite-only affair provided free food, and enough local public figures to look like a campaign rally. It also provided a chance to speak with the Buskers and the organizer, Dale Thompson, of which I took advantage. Watch for a follow-up article in the near future.

I saw some DAMM good films at Wormwood, like "Withnail and I" and "The Unbearable Lightness of Being". Also, I am happy to print that they have brought back midnight shows, and I am quaking with joy over the chance to see such classics as "The Return of Killer Tomatoes" and "Dogs in Space". Hey, the mind can only take so many head trips, oops, I mean thought-provoking films.

I moved a lot too! In four months I had a total of four addresses. While this has confused the collection agencies (remember all those bar tabs?), I often have trouble when someone asks where I live, or for my phone number.

I also did the basics with regards to the bar scene, having found that the offerings of Pub Flamingo much to my liking. I followed up on the party scene, a bit subdued, however, finding myself not as keen as years gone by.

Well this is it folks, I have a class in circ. 2 minutes on Children's Lit. I had a good summer all-in-all. And I hope to have a good fall-winter-spring, now that I can start lobbying for a alcohol bar fund for myself as a business expense. Hee-hee.

Huskies down Mounties in Exhibition Play

By T. Paul Woodford

Saint Mary's quarterback Chris Flynn may not be an engineering student, but the 6'0", 185 lb Buckingham, Quebec native certainly has a knack for engineering game winning drives. With less than three minutes remaining and the Huskies trailing by 4 points Flynn marched the SMU offence 78 yards downfield to score what proved to be the game-winning touchdown as the Huskies downed the Mount Allison Mounties 27-21 in AUFC exhibition action Saturday.

Mount Allison had people wondering who the defending AUFC champions were when they dominated play for the first 20 minutes. The Huskies did not have possession on the Mount Allison side of half until the second quarter. Although the Mounties soundly outplayed SMU in the opening quarter they could only manage a 23 yard field goal which gave them a slim 3-0 lead at the end of the opening quarter.

Mount Allison increased its lead to 6-0 early in the second quarter before the Huskies offence finally got on track. Jerry Foster opened the SMU scoring with a 31 yard field goal five minutes into the quarter.

Two minutes and thirty two seconds later Chris Flynn hit wide open Brian Smith who scampered into the endzone for a 50 yard touchdown. The half ended with the Huskies leading 10-6.

The Mounties closed the gap to one point midway through the third quarter when Mark Bukich booted his third field goal of the game.

Backup quarterback Bill Scollard started the second half for the Huskies. The versatile Scollard, who also punts and plays wide receiver, looked comfortable at QB although he only attempted four passes. The Huskies increased their lead to 17-9 at 1:05 of the fourth quarter when Scollard hooked up with Ian MacDonald for a 24 yard touchdown.

Just three minutes later former AUFC rookie of the year Richard Thompson plunged into the endzone from one yard out. The Mounties missed a two point convert attempt and trailed 17-15. The Mounties continued to move the ball and took over the lead with 2:52 remaining when Grant Keaney capped a 70 yard drive by scoring on a 2 yard run.

The Huskies regained possession on their own 32 yard line trailing 21-17 with 2:45 remaining. The Huskies drove the ball to midfield but a penalty left them facing a third down and thirteen situation with 1:58 remaining. Coach Larry Uteck's third down gamble paid off when Flynn completed a 31 yard pass to Brian Smith. Flynn capped the game winning drive with an 18 yard TD pass to

Michael Donoghue

Phil Matzat with 1:22 remaining in the game. Jerry Foster padded the Huskies lead with a 45 yard field goal with 7 seconds remaining in the game.

The Huskies gained 155 yards on the ground compared to the Mounties' 122. SMU gained 217 yards passing while the Mounties accumulated 194 yards through the air.

Chris Flynn completed 8 of 19 pass attempts for 188 yards, 2 TD's and 1 interception. Flynn's favorite target was tight end Brian Smith who hauled in 5 passes for 135 yards.

Both coaches used the game as an opportunity to see their rookies in action. Many rookies saw more action than they will likely see again this season. Several SMU rookies had impressive debuts. First year running backs Mike Caron and Anthony Williams look like they may give the Huskies a strong running game for the first time in several years. Williams, a recent graduate of Prince Andrew High School, showed flashes of brilliance while gaining 38 yards on 8 carries. Caron gained 39 yards on 6 carries and looked impressive while returning five punts.

The Huskies begin their quest for a second straight AUFC title this Saturday when they meet perennial rival Acadia Axemen at Huskies Stadium at 2:00 PM.

Huskies Favored to Repeat as AUFC Champs

By T. Paul Woodford

The Saint Mary's Huskies are in an unfamiliar position entering the 1988 AUAA football season. They are favored to win the AUFC title for the second straight year.

The Huskies have only lost two key players while they have gained several rookies who should have an impact on the league. SMU quarterback Chris Flynn is a year older and a year wiser. Last year's AUFC rookie of the year is expected to be even better this season. Flynn has also got an old friend on his side this season as Matt Nealon, who played with Flynn for six seasons in Quebec, will be playing wide receiver for the Huskies.

The SMU ground attack should also improve as coach Larry Uteck has recruited several impressive ball carriers. Anthony Williams and Mike Caron were so impressive in Saturday's exhibition win over Mount Allison that at least one will likely find himself in a starting role when the season begins.

The Huskies boast the best kicking game in the AUFC. Veteran placekicker Jerry Foster can always be counted on from inside the forty and has the strength to score from midfield. Punter Bill Scollard can be counted on to keep the Huskies in good field position as he usually sends the ball at least 40 yards downfield.

Despite the loss of all-Canadian defensive lineman Peter Curwin the SMU defence is stronger than a year ago. The Huskies will combat the running game with a cast of veterans including Greg Curwin, Rob Brennan, Doug Mackenzie and Jim Fitzsimmons. Opposing offences will also have trouble passing against SMU as well. Barry Richardson and Mike O'Brien lead a group of hard hitting deep backs.

The Acadia Axemen have been weakened by the losses of AUFC MVP Paul Masotti and defensive standout Chuck Wust. Without Masotti catching passes or Wust returning punts Acadia will have trouble creating game breaking plays the way they did last season.

The Mount Allison Mounties gave up 177 points last season, the most on the AUFC. Coach Steve Bruno has improved his defence and feels the Mounties are ready to challenge for the league title this season. The Mounties offence should be strong once again this year under the guidance of veteran signal caller Andrew Allison. If Mount Allison's defence has improved as much as coach Bruno says it has then the Mounties should beat out Acadia for the final playoff spot.

The St. Francis Xavier X-Men won only two games last season and occupied the AUFC basement. The once mighty X-Men have lost 14 starters from last year's team and it is doubtful they will fare any better this season.

Saint Mary's should repeat as champions based on their wealth of talent and depth. Acadia and Mount Allison will likely be locked in a dogfight for second place leading up to the final weekend of the season when the two teams meet.
