

FOR SOME PEOPLE THE CAMPUS CAN BE A THREATENING OBSTACLE COURSE

This area under the stairs near the mini-mart in the Loyola Building causes anxiety for some students.

Those of us who can see take our sight for granted; walking from one building to the next is a simple, mechanical procedure. But there are eleven students at Saint Mary's who are either blind or visually handicapped. For them, the campus can be a threatening obstacle course. The students all agreed that Saint Mary's doesn't present them with as many problems as some other institutions. For example, the snow removal system at this University, the students say, is fairly efficient. That's important to them because snow covers landmarks.

But there are problem areas. One student says he has difficulty with the stairs near the mini-mart, and pay telephones that cover only part of a wall.

The area under the stairs near the mini-mart is hazardous because a person using a cane can simply walk under the stairs and into the wall.

Pay telephones represent the same kind of hazard. But there's a solution here—a large ashtray or planter placed under the telephone resolves the problem—because some of the students use sticks to warn them of objects in front of them.

Doors that open out of, rather than into, a room create problems—particularly when they're left open along corridors.

In many of the newer buildings the architects have solved this problem. But in the older buildings, such as the Main Administration building, the doors still present a potential hazard.

The Director of University Services, Guy Noel, has been informed about some of the problems and says he'll try to alleviate them as soon as possible. But the responsibility to help those who are blind or visually handicapped really rests with all of us.

Telephones that only cover part of the wall present a problem.

ENGINEERING STUDENTS' FIELD TRIP TO LUNENBURG

by D.G. Hubley

A clear highway, an air conditioned bus, an early morning departure from SMU, and approximately 20 enthusiastic students—free from class routine for the day of February 9th—journeyed to Lunenburg for a tour of National Sea Products Ltd. fish plant and the Lunenburg Foundry Company Ltd.

The fish plant tour commenced at the wharf where, in the crisp sunny clear morning three draggers were tied up and filled to capacity each with 400,000 pounds of iced, de-gutted fresh fish being unloaded, separated into their respective species, and held in cold salt brine tanks awaiting processing. Over 100 personnel stood at their well-lighted processing tables—four motions and the fillet was cut for the skinning machines—then each fillet individually examined over a light-table for contaminants, washed and packed in 5-pound boxes for the hotel and restaurant trade. The staff worked full-time until all the waiting fish was processed, flash-frozen and placed in cold storage. Quality-control personnel just have time to nod hello—no one idle—two to three hundred of the town's workforce had a vital purpose—some 350 different products could at designated times be packaged for the world markets—and when the students were informed that one-third of the gross weight of the fish was fillet, that a landed whole fish cost the plant 20 cents a lb., adding for filleters, skinning, quality control, packaging, flash-freezing, cold storage, obtaining sales, transportation in frozen state, storage and marketing at the retail level—in short, a pound of fresh frozen fillets at $2.20 allowing for reasonable profits was well justified from the practical view of the student visitors. The tour at the fish plant ended with an interesting discussion session with the chief engineer—and lunch—all each could eat of fresh scallop chowder and sandwiches specially arranged for by the hospitable catering manager.

Then to the other side of town—the Lunenburg Foundry—and quite a different kind of experience. A frame for the Queen's portrait was being poured of brass—a mixture of 85% copper, 5% lead, 5% tin and 5% zinc. The mixture varies for different products, but back to the portrait frame—it took one of the craftsmen 2 hours to prepare the mold—and less than 7 seconds for him and his appointed partner to pour the 1800°F yellow hot molten brass into the sand funnels leading to the heart of the mold. Machinists took the occasion in hand by chatting informally to groups of 2 to 4 students as they machined dozens of other products—ventilator bases to box car suspension parts for the Trenton Steel Works. Questions of metric conversion, nut and bolt thread standards, machinery tolerances and costs were discussed for over half an hour in the machine shop.

At four p.m. the cast iron pour commenced. Sparkling yellow hot 2500°F casting iron poured steadily for half an hour as 8 or more men in simultaneous action took ladles of sufficient quantity to just fill each mold that had been carefully made with moist sand and clay binder during the morning.

For those who attended—the impressions of a proud people's lifestyle in the workforce will be a lasting one—and the Division of Engineering hopes that more of these experiences will be possible for incoming students in the future.

PHILOSOPHER-SCIENTISTS TO EXAMINE OUR FUTURE OPTIONS

The third international Banff conference on Man and His Environment, scheduled for May 15 to 17, 1978 at the Banff Springs Hotel, will be concerned with the nature of contemporary man, the identification of environmental problems, the challenge for the future and the practical options open to mankind.

Earlier conferences were concerned with environmental problems arising from air and water pollution (1968) and natural resources and the effects of technology on man and environment (1974).

The theme of the 1978 conference is Our Future Options. Sponsored by The University of Calgary, Alberta Environment and Environment Canada as well as a large number of private companies, it will feature, among others, sessions on What It Means to be Human, Sharing Our Resources and Basic Liberties.

The honorary conference chairman is Maurice Strong, the recently appointed chairman of the International Development Research Centre. Conference co-chairmen are U of C Chancellor Muriel Kovitz and Dr. M.F. Mohtadi of the U of C department of chemical engineering.

"In this third conference, we want to look closely at the rights, responsibilities and relationships between peoples in different parts of the world and between developed and developing countries," states Dr. Mohtadi.

"We are seeking answers to the questions: what can we do to live in peace and harmony with others and with the natural environment; are we running out of natural resources; and, must we share our wealth and well-being with the developing nations to avoid major catastrophies?"

"We will continue to look at problems which might occur in the near future unless we develop a new understanding of the relationships between human beings in different parts of the world and between ourselves and our physical environment," he comments.

To accomplish these aims, the organizing committee, composed of representatives from academe, government, learned societies and the private sector, has invited guest speakers from many walks of life—philosophers, scientists, engineers, moralists, humanists and planners.

Among the speakers are outstanding Canadian "philosopher scientists" such as P.D. McTaggart-Cowan, past president of the Science Council of Canada; Kenneth Hare, director of the Institute for Environmental Studies at the University of Toronto; Pierre Juneau, chairman of the National Capital Commission, Ottawa; and Pierre Dansereau, professor of ecology at the University of Quebec, Montreal. Others include Joseph Weisenbaum, professor of computer science at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Noel de Nevers, of the department of chemical engineering at the University of Utah.

Conference organizers are expecting some 300 to 400 participants, people both young and old, academic and non-academic, specialist and non-specialist. Ample time has been set aside for discussion of various issues by the participants.

Those interested in obtaining further details or registration forms should contact Dr. M.F. Mohtadi, department of chemical engineering, The University of Calgary, Calgary, Alberta T2N 1N4.

AIESEC—What's that?

If you're interested in a business career when you graduate, there's an organization on campus you might want to look at.

It's called AIESEC (Pronounced I-sec), the Association Internationale des Etudiants en Sciences Economiques et Commerciales or, in English, International Association for Students in Economics and Commerce. AIESEC is an international organization with more than thirty thousand members in fifty-five countries.

Its goals are to foster dialogue among students, academics and businessmen and to complement a student's theoretical business education with more practical management experience.

AIESEC came to Saint Mary's two years ago. Its membership is small but interest seems to be growing. Already the organization has set up a number of student-oriented programs. They include an international exchange of business students, seminars, career planning meetings and even social events.

Last summer, for example, Saint Mary's played host to a student from Greece under the international exchange program. The student spent the summer working for Maritime Tel. and Tel.

In return, a Saint Mary's student was offered a job in Iran. Unfortunately, the student had to refuse for personal reasons. But the program is excellent, and the Saint Mary's local of AIESEC hopes to play a bigger role in it this year.

One of the most popular AIESEC programs, however, is career day. Representatives of more than forty companies came to career day at Saint Mary's this term. The students who came got advice on what the job market was like in various fields, information about company-sponsored training programs, and an idea of what courses some companies like their employees to take.

The organizations represented at Career Day included Dunn and Bradstreet, Revenue Canada (taxation), Air Canada, and the Atlantic Association of Chartered Accountants.

There seems to be a general feeling that any student who gets involved in AIESEC gains something, whether it's a chance to travel, a summer job, a career after graduation, or just an opportunity to gain a little more practical knowledge about the business world.

If AIESEC sounds interesting, you might want to attend the organization's second annual wine and cheese party, and chat with some of the members. There's no charge and everyone's welcome but if you'd like to go, please call the AIESEC office before March 10th and tell them . . . so they can make sure there are enough refreshments for everyone.

FRENCH CLUB PROVES POPULAR

The French Club formed last year by students at Mount Saint Vincent and Saint Mary's Universities had a busy first semester. And plans for this spring include more films, speakers and other activities.

So if you're studying French and are interested in improving the way you speak the language, why not consider joining.

The Club's objective is simple: to complement classroom learning by giving you a chance to use French in all types of social situations, and to have a good time in the process.

Two weeks before Christmas, for instance, the 40 Club members organized a special dinner. The main course was coq au vin and there was plenty of wine. The dinner was held at the home of Dr. Paul Bernard and Irene Mailhot-Bernard. Dr. Bernard teaches French at Saint Mary's; Mrs. Bernard teaches at Mount Saint Vincent University. Hopefully, the dinner will become a tradition.

But while Club activities may be casual, members aren't allowed to relax the "French only" rule. It's enforced during all the meetings and social activities.

Films are also an important part of the Club's activities. And there's an attempt to provide some sort of balance between films made in Québec and those made in France.

Dr. Bernard says the members have also talked about bringing in people to discuss topics such as job prospects for French majors, and the special problems faced by language students. All lecturers would speak only French, of course.

But the program is flexible. "We haven't yet decided exactly what it will consist of", Dr. Bernard says. The Bernards act as advisors but the student club members actually draw up the schedule of events. Three members—R. Scott Rogers and Lorraine Traynor of Saint Mary's and Paula Dunn of Mount Saint Vincent—make arrangements for most of the activities.

Possible future events include a tour of a local brewery and a skating party. The Club's activities are discussed at the general meetings, held every other week. The meetings end with music and a sing-a-long. The meeting dates are posted on the bulletin board in the Modern Language Department.

One of the reasons the French Club is so interesting, Dr. Bernard says, is that a wide variety of people have joined. Some are university students who have studied in Europe or plan to do so; others are high school French teachers who are taking evening courses at Saint Mary's.

And French teachers from both universities occasionally drop in.

"People who want to become fluent in a language really need to listen to many different people speaking the language," Dr. Bernard says. "So often students become accustomed only to one voice—the teacher's—and the different inflections, tones and pitches of strangers can baffle them."

So if you have a basic knowledge of French and would like to improve your conversational skills, call Dr. Bernard at Loc. 273. Bonne chance!

COMMITTEE TO STUDY ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The Senate of Saint Mary's University has formed an Ad Hoc Committee "to study the University's Athletic Program and its relationship to, and impact on, all aspects of the academic operation of the University; that as a result of such a study the Committee recommend a policy for athletics that is consistent with the academic goals of the University, and that the Committee's report be delivered to Senate no later than November 1, 1978".

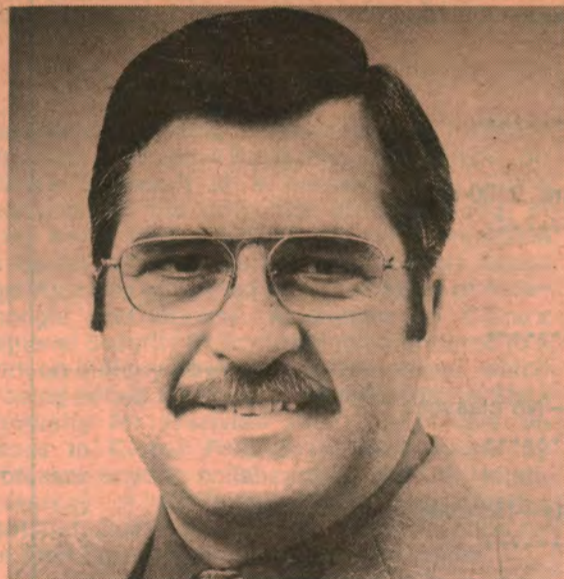

The Committee is now beginning a wide consultation with interested members and groups in the University community. Any individual member of the University who would like to make a submission on any aspect of the athletics programs at Saint Mary's (intercollegiate and intramural) should do so in writing and address it to Dr. C.C. Bigelow, Dean of Science and Chairperson, Ad Hoc Committee on Athletics. The Committee would like to receive briefs as soon as possible, but in any case by March 31, 1978.

...AND A STUDY ON CONTINUING EDUCATION

The Senate of Saint Mary's University has commissioned a study on the future of continuing education at the University. The study will involve four phases. First, a general invitation has been extended to all interested parties to submit written briefs. On the basis of these briefs and the committee's own research, a position paper will be prepared and submitted to the University community. Following the discussions, a final report will be prepared and submitted to the Senate. The committee expects to have all phases of the study completed by the end of April, 1978.

Last year, both Dalhousie and UNB were involved in continuing education studies, and Memorial University underwent some marked changes in Extension Services.

NEW POSITION FOR PERSONNEL OFFICER

Fred McKellar, Personnel Officer for Saint Mary's University, will be taking a new position with the Nova Scotia Civil Service Commission. His new appointment becomes effective on March 20th.

Mr. McKellar was born in Galt, now called Cambridge, Ontario. He attended school there, and the University of Western Ontario, before joining the Canadian Armed Forces. After spending 25 years in the Navy, mostly in the Halifax area specializing as a Communications and Electronic Technician, he retired as a Chief Warrant Officer.

After his retirement from the Services, he joined Electrohome Ltd. in Stellarton as the Personnel Manager. Mr. McKellar joined the Saint Mary's Staff in November of 1975, and was the first full-time Personnel Officer.

In his new position in the Research Division of the Civil Service Commission, he will be engaged in all aspects of salary administration and research, development of managerial personnel policies and practices, the collection and analysis of data prior to negotiations and pay determination for provincial civil service employees.

Mr. McKellar leaves his position at Saint Mary's on March 17th.

ERIC! ERIC! WHO?

The Patrick Power Library has recently acquired a portion of its ERIC collection, which is housed in the Multi-Media Centre; it is the only Halifax library to own this resource. ERIC (Educational Resources Information Centre) is the largest collection of Education documents available in the world and includes all U.S. government-funded research.

The Library will receive its ERIC files—both historical and contemporary—on microfiche. Of the 155,000 items ordered, 55,000 are now available for use. The research information found in ERIC commences in 1966. With the exception of the 1970 documents, which have yet to arrive, the Library collection covers 1966 to 1971. Further materials to bring the collection up to date will be arriving at regular intervals, with 1977/78 materials delivered in monthly batches of about 200.

While the library's files are on microfiche, ERIC materials may also be obtained in paper form. The Library will supply purchase information and advice to those who need it.

The Dialog Service (part of the computer information retrieval system) will supply the patron with a list of references for any subject contained in the ERIC collection. Persons in need of this service may enquire at the Information Desk.

With ERIC, the Patrick Power Library takes another step to bring the best of up-to-date service to its community.

COMMERCE SOCIETY TO PRESENT FOURTH ANNUAL BUSINESS DINNER

An important event sponsored by the Commerce Society is its annual Business Dinner, and this year's guest speaker will be W. Earle McLaughlin, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the Royal Bank of Canada. He is a Director of a number of companies including Canadian Pacific Limited, Algoma Steel Corporation, Genstar Limited, Power Corporation, Ralston Purina of Canada Limited, Allied Chemical Canada Limited, Textron Canada Limited, and in the United States he serves on the Boards of General Motors Corporation, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Standard Brands Inc. He is also a Director of L'Air Liquide of Paris, France.

Mr. McLaughlin received an Honorary Doctor of Letters from Saint Mary's at last year's Convocation, and spoke at the Convocation exercises.

The original purpose of this dinner when it was started four years ago was to provide an evening of informal conversation between students, faculty and the business community. Besides fostering this kind of communication, many students have expressed the view that it has enabled them to see businessmen in a different light.

Students are given a chance to see their future employers in friendlier circumstances than formal interviews. Many students have said that at previous dinners they were able to build just enough confidence while talking to a businessman at dinner to help them to speak intelligently at interviews. Some students have even been given job opportunities by the businessmen they spoke with at the dinner.

In past years, guest speakers have included Donald MacDonald then Minister of Finance; R.K. Vaughn, then Vice-President of Air Canada, and Struan Robertson, Chief Executive Officer of Maritime Tel and Tel.

A large crowd is expected for this year's Dinner, and more businessmen have been invited than ever before. If you're interested in attending the Dinner, there's a table set up near Room L277, the Commerce Secretaries' Office, where tickets are available. Anyone interested, as well as Faculty and Alumni are encouraged to attend.

NEW CANADIAN RESEARCH GROUP FORMED

In March 1977, the Maritime provinces of Canada witnessed the formation of an interprovincial research group. The Governments of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island sent representatives to Halifax to contribute to the membership of the Maritime Committee on Archaeological Co-operation (MCAC). The mandate for the Committee came under the authorization of the Council of Maritime Premiers.

The Committee's constitution outlines its objectives as being "to investigate and report to (the) Council on possible action with regard to the need and potential for regional co-operation in archaeological research and program implementation in the Maritime provinces".

The Committee has had several meetings and has investigated and reported to the Council on a wide variety of topics. These have included a status report on the state of archaeology in the Maritimes, the need for greater public awareness through education, and most recently, the need for stronger legislation and penalties to protect the heritage of the Maritimes.

Professor Stephen Davis, of Saint Mary's Anthropology Department, is a member and Secretary for this Committee, and its next meeting will be held at Saint Mary's University.

SAKAKKE: TEXTILE ART FROM WEST AFRICA

An exhibition of textile art from West Africa will open in the Art Gallery on March 28th.

"Sakakke" is the title of the exhibition; it is a Hausa word meaning "that which is woven" or "textile".

The exhibition was assembled by Barbara and Bill McCann over a two-year period. It has visited various North American cities, including a highly successful six-month showing at the African-American Institute in the United Nations Plaza in New York.

Barbara McCann, who is originally from London, Ontario, developed an interest in African ethnography during a visit to Ethiopia in 1971. Since Mrs. McCann had studied weaving with a prominent Toronto artist, she was especially interested in textiles.

Barbara first met her husband while he was teaching in Tunisia. Since they got married, Barbara and Bill McCann have travelled more than 28,000 miles, and they've paid their own way. To amass the collection, they've relied on all types of transportation, from trains and buses, to a springless Toyota pickup, to a smoking Berliet crowded with onion sacks and villagers on the way to market.

From Tunisia they went to Morocco; then travelled by sea to the Canary Islands. They visited Sierra Leone, Liberia, Ivory Coast, Ghana, Togo, Benin (Dahomey), Nigeria, Mali and Upper Volta.

Most of the materials in this exhibition, only a portion of the whole collection, were bought by the McCanns directly from the village craftsmen who made them. Most of the textiles shown are of recent vintage. But the Kereka blanket and the bark cloth are thirty to forty years old.

The most difficult part of the trip, according to the McCanns, was transporting the materials they'd collected. Imagine carrying a number of baby wrappers, a wool blanket, a few women's wraps and a hand-spun cotton riding bou-bou, together with all the other necessities for a long trip, in a rucksack.

The McCann's odyssey ended with an eleven-day trip across the Sahara in a truck. Although they sometimes had difficulties, both Barbara and Bill believe they appreciate West Africa and its people in a way that would never have been possible through more conventional means of collecting.

Mrs. McCann is currently completing her B.A. degree in Fine Arts and Anthropology from the University of Western Ontario, and plans to enter the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design in the spring for an M.A. in Art Education. The McCann's make their home in Halifax. Mr. McCann works for the Social Planning Department of the City of Halifax.

SAKAKKE: Textile Art From West Africa, will be on display in the Art Gallery from March 28th until April 23rd. There will be a lecture and slide presentation at various times during the Exhibition.

NOTEWORTHY NOTES

DR. WILLIAM LONC (Physics) presented two papers at the recent meeting of the American Association of Physics Teachers, entitled: "Radio Astronomy on Small Budgets" and "The Langevin Equation: An Experimental Verification".

DR. DAVID DUPUY (Astronomy) has been invited to serve as the external member of the Scientific Advisory Committee for the Mont Megantic Observatory. This committee will establish policies and priorities for operation of the new 1.5 meter telescope in Quebec, which is expected to be in operation by summer. Dr. DuPuy will be serving a second three-year term as a member of the National Research Council Associate Committee on Astronomy. At present this committee is concerned primarily with progress with the 3.6 meter Canada-France-Hawaii telescope, and with plans for the International Astronomical Union which will meet in Montreal in 1979.

PROFESSOR WAYNE GRENNAN (Philosophy) has been notified officially by Oxford University of the successful completion of his doctoral studies in Philosophy. D. Phil. degree will be conferred formally at next convocation.

PROFESSOR HERMANN SCHWIND (Management) and PROFESSOR NATHAN KLING (Marketing) have co-authored a paper "Psychometric Rating Characteristics of the Behavior Description Index", which will be presented by Professor Kling at the annual meeting of the Adult Education Research Association in San Antonio, Texas, in April.

PROFESSOR GAVIN BOYD (Political Science) gave a paper on Trans National Activity in China's East Asian Relations at the International Studies

Association meeting in Washington, February 22nd-25th. Professor Boyd also gave a paper on China's Statecraft at a conference on China sponsored by the University of Hong Kong, in Hong Kong, December 12-18th, 1977. An article on Soviet and Chinese Policies Towards South East Asia was published in the Fall issue of Asian Thought and Society. A chapter on China's Regional Security Policy is being contributed to a work on Military Power in the Third World, which is being edited by Sheldon Simon, Arizona State University for Westview Press. A volume on Issues in Global Politics is being edited by Professor Boyd in collaboration with Ole Holsti, University of California, Davis, and Charles Pentland, Queen's University, for publication by the Free Press, New York, next year (1979).

ADVICE FOR COMMERCE STUDENTS

by Susan Helpard

For years, students and faculty members at Saint Mary's have talked about the need for a better system to help Commerce students get advice about what courses they should be taking, and about planning a study program.

During the past few months, a special committee was set up in the Commerce department to see what could be done. The committee, made up of students and teachers, has come up with a student advisory program it thinks will solve the problem.

The program will work something like this: all Commerce students at Saint Mary's (except graduating students) have been assigned a faculty advisor.

A three-page information letter outlining the system has been mailed to every student. All the student has to do is fill out a form outlining the courses he or she has taken and draw up a tentative schedule for their remaining academic years, including summer school.

The forms are available outside room L277 (the Commerce Secretaries' office).

Then, the student makes an appointment with his or her faculty advisor. During that meeting they'll get advice on everything from course sequence planning to workloads.

Once the student and the advisor agree on the tentative schedule, it's run through the computer to ensure a conflict-free timetable. The student doesn't have to accept the timetable. But once he or she does, that's all there is to registration until September, when fees have to be paid.

Students who participate in the advisory system get first priority for class seats.

There's a general feeling that students and teachers will benefit from the new system. It's expected to cut down on the number of class transfers and dropouts. It will mean fewer headaches for Commerce students and faculty members during registration week. And it will give students and teachers a chance to talk to each other outside the more formal classroom atmosphere.

COMING SOON — "SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER"

Rehearsals are underway for SMU Dramatic Society's spring production of She Stoops to Conquer. The play will open on Wednesday, March 8, and run to Sunday, March 12, in the SMU Gym.

She Stoops to Conquer is directed by Faith Ward. It is her tenth production at Saint Mary's. Mrs. Ward last directed "She Stoops" in 1966 when, as head of Drama at MSVU, she staged a joint production of the play with the Saint Mary's Dramatic Society. Mrs. Ward will be returning to her native England later this year.

Set design for She Stoops to Conquer is by Commander C. Anthony Law, Artist-in-Residence at Saint Mary's. Set construction is supervised by Rev. W.A. Stewart, S.J. Costume design is by Doris Butters.

IMPORTANT NEWS FOR THOSE STUDENTS STUDYING ON A STUDENT VISA

Recently the Department of Immigration notified Saint Mary's University that on approximately April 1, 1978, revisions to the Canadian Immigration Act are expected. While the precise details have not yet been made known, it is anticipated that one aspect of the revision will directly affect anyone currently on a student visa and studying in Canada. Henceforth if such a student expects to continue with his / her studies beyond the expiration date of the visa, the student must obtain the necessary visa renewal prior to that date. Hence if you are on a student visa and if you intend to pursue courses at Saint Mary's University either during the summer months or during the 1978-79 academic year, you are urged to contact the immigration officials in Halifax and learn precisely what the revisions to the Canadian Immigration Act are likely to be.

COLLEGIATE PARTICIPATION

The University of Waterloo has challenged the claim of the University of Victoria that it has the greatest number of joggers of any university in Canada. The contest, to be run between January 23rd. and March 19, will determine which university has the larger percentage of staff, faculty and students participating in jogging 24 miles at the rate of three miles per week.

Would Dalhousie dare take on the Saint Mary's joggers?

NEW CHILDHOOD RESEARCH CENTRE AT UBC

An interdisciplinary Centre for the Study of Childhood will be established within the faculty of Graduate studies at The University of British Columbia. The centre will coordinate research in fields such as medicine, sociology, education, psychology, law, nursing and librarianship and will not be restricted to researchers at UBC. A committee headed by Peter Larkin, UBC dean of graduate studies, will manage the affairs of the centre which will rely heavily on outside funding for its projects.

A.C.U. PUBLICATIONS

New editions of the 'Commonwealth Universities Yearbook', 'Awards for Commonwealth University Staff', 'Financial Aid for First Degree Study at Commonwealth Universities', and the 'Schedule of Postgraduate Courses in United Kingdom Universities' are now (or soon will be) available for reference in the Registrar's Office or for purchase from the Association of Commonwealth Universities, 36 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0PF. (The Yearbook, however, may be obtained from the AUCC, 151 Slater Street, Ottawa K1P 5N1 at a reduced price of $32.50).

SCIENTISTS' MESSAGE TO TRUDEAU AND CARTER

In an unprecedented move reflecting the dismay of scientists in Canada and the United States at the dwindling federal support of fundamental biochemical research, the Presidents of the Canadian and American Physiological Societies have jointly sent a statement to Prime Minister Trudeau and President Carter.

The statement, co-signed by Dr. Olivier Héroux of Ottawa and Dr. William Ganong of San Francisco, points out that there are now many incurable diseases which cannot be treated until scientists understand fully the normal functions of the body organs, tissues and systems involved. It also points out that in the last fifty years the main breakthroughs in therapeutics and preventive medicine have come most often from basic investigation of biological processes.

Considering the role of basic research in maintaining standards of excellence in research, in providing background information for solutions to future problems and in contributing to the world pool of knowledge, Canada and the United States cannot afford to continue the low level of financial support that is presently provided and projected for fundamental biomedical research, the statement says.

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE NEEDED FOR SMALL UNIVERSITIES

A consultative group, appointed by the Canada Council to study the needs of scholars at small universities, has recommended three new programs to assist these institutions. The group concentrated on those institutions with fewer than 3500 students, new institutions, isolated institutions and some small departments in larger institutions. To combat the common problem of isolation from other researchers and sophisticated facilities, the group recommends: 1) a program of research visits to allow scholars from small universities to visit other institutions where their research can be more effectively carried out; 2) research workshops for the discussion of research methodology and common problems; and 3) a program to allow leading scholars to act as research consultants in the smaller universities. The group identified 21 universities that would benefit from these programs by improving their success rate in obtaining research money (44% of all money for research in the social sciences went to universities with enrolments over 10,000 in 1973-74). The group was headed by E.F. Sheffield, former chairman of the Higher Education Group, University of Toronto. Copies of the report, Needs of Scholars at Small Universities, are available for $2.00 from the Canada Council, P.O. Box 1047, Ottawa K1P 5V8.

AUCC BRIEF ON COPYRIGHT

The AUCC has submitted a brief to the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs in response to the Keyes-Brunet paper entitled Copyright in Canada—Proposals for a Revision of the Law. The brief was prepared for the association by the McGill Committee on Copyright chaired by Stanley Frost. Recommendations in the brief emphasize the special position of universities and other educational institutions as both owners and users in relation to copyright issues and suggest flexibility in the implementation of any new regulations. Areas which the brief identifies as requiring flexibility include the use of photocopying and the reproduction of non-print materials in teaching and research, the relationship between professors and the university in copyright ownership and the discretionary powers of librarians in the reproduction of materials. The brief recommends representation of the educational community on any tribunal established to enforce the new copyright law. Copies of the brief are available from AUCC Publications, 151 Slater Street, Ottawa K1P 5N1 at $1.00 each.

ALICE ARTZT

Internationally acclaimed classic guitarist Alice Artzt in concert in the Art Gallery at 8:30 p.m., Sunday, March 12.—Tickets $3.00; Students—$2.00

FOCUS ON PORTUGAL

Next in the KNOW YOUR WORLD series, sponsored by the International Education Centre of Saint Mary's University and the Multicultural Council of Halifax-Dartmouth, will be FOCUS ON PORTUGAL.

This event, organized by the Portuguese Society of Nova Scotia, will take place in the Burke Education Centre at Saint Mary's University, on Saturday, March 18th, 1978, starting at 2:00 p.m.

Featured among the events of the afternoon will be displays of traditional Portuguese art and handcrafts with demonstrations of some of these traditional skills by local Portuguese crafts people. The Portuguese are specially noted for their unique crochet patterns for example, and the onlookers will be shown how these designs are constructed.

Another popular item will be the afternoon tea with home cooked specialties, served in the International Education Centre by members of the Portuguese Society.

In the foyer of the Burke Education Centre, the boys and girls of the Portuguese Folkloric Group, who range in age from six to twenty, will be dancing many of their lively traditional dances. The skill of their dancing, the bright colour and gaiety of their costumes and their obvious enjoyment of their performance makes for an unforgettable experience for the onlookers. The lively and rhythmic music for the dancing will be supplied by a band of Portuguese adults dressed, like the children, in traditional costumes.

Films or slides of Portugal will also be shown continuously.

The officers of the Portuguese Society are Manuel Ribeiro (President), Joaquim Leitao (Vice-President), Jose Manuel Santos (Secretary), Maria Pacheco (Treasurer and Representative to the Multicultural Council), and Matilda Ferreira (Coordinator of Cultural Events). Mrs. Ferreira, with the aid of her committee, is arranging the program for FOCUS ON PORTUGAL.

Admission is free and the public is warmly invited to attend.

For further information please phone Jonie Billard at 422-7361 Local 254, or Helga Malloy at 429-7304.

Forthcoming in the KNOW YOUR WORLD SERIES:

April—Ireland

May—Scandinavia

June—Phillipines

THE SIXTH COMMONWEALTH CONFERENCE ON SPORT, PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND RECREATION

Edmonton, Alberta—July 31, August 1 and 2, 1978.

In conjunction with the Commonwealth Games, the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation, University of Alberta and the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation (CAHPER) are pleased to invite and welcome you to the Sixth Commonwealth Conference on Sport, Physical Education and Recreation.

THEME: PARTICIPATION FOR ALL IN SPORT, PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND RECREATION

This theme will be developed through three major sub-themes: participation through sport, participation through physical education, and participation through recreation programs. In order to sharpen the focus, five broad interest areas have been identified which could cut across each of the three sub-themes: administration, professional preparation, coaching, special groups, and women's programs.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Commonwealth Conference 1978, Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation, University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2H9.
