

"SANTAMARIANS, LET'S HAVE A MEETING!"

Thirty-five Santamarians of the New England district convened at Towne Lyne House on June 18 in response to the slogan circularized by Jim McDevitt, Charlie Leonard and Paul Cusick.

The reunion was a splendid social success. Acquaintances interrupted since college-days were renewed. The retelling of campus escapades sparked conversation. Questions and answers about personal achievements since leaving Saint Mary's and plans for the future were inter-changed.

The evening was such a success that another meeting during the Christmas season was proclaimed imperative. Ron. Gomes couldn't wait that long and invited the boys to meet less formally at his summer cottage in August.

On the announcement of the McGill vs Huskies game Sept. 24 in Halifax, ideas popped about chartering a plane to attend.

Speeches were brief and restricted to three. Father O'Donnell reviewed campus activities of the past year but forgot his punch-line. Alumni President Gordon Mader, in speaking on the responsibilities of alumni, remarked that the initiative, organization and enthusiasm of the gathering proved that a New England branch of the Alumni was more than warranted. Edmund Morris rescued from oblivion the forgotten punch-line and described recent and projected developments at the University. Sustained applause interrupted his account of the rapid progress Saint Mary's is making.

A proposal was accepted that the Alumni executive name a committee to direct the activities in the New England area in its initial stages. After the unit is firmly established elections will be in order.

Snippets picked up at the reunion follow: Electronics Engineer Jules Boudreau, Paul Doucette, Engineer, now of Lowell, and Lennie Ouellette were the first alumni I met in the reception room. Jack Philbrick and Bobbie Shea were next. Bobbie is in Social Work and pursuing courses in guidance. Under his guidance I hope they won't learn how to tie a lantern to the top of a flag-pole. Jack is an industrial designer.

City Hospital's Paul Heafey and teacher Joe Santosuosso came early. Jack Budrew told us he had had a very pleasant visit with Dominicans Bill Cunningham and John Deeley in Chicago. Don't tell me no argument developed with that threesome.

Dental student Jim Cleary informed us he would be in Halifax a week later to marry Billy Mullane's sister.

Joe O'Sullivan is doing something in the Marines at Portsmouth, N. H. The something is either top-secret for military reasons or another forgotten punch-line.

John O'Sullivan (formerly of Lennox) is an accountant at Northhampton Beach. Jack McCarthy may quit insurance to become a teacher. Paul Cusick and Charlie Leonard are insurance claims investigators by day and law-students by night at Suffolk Law School. From the way they entertained I feel they would do better in public relations or the diplomatic corps. Tommy Tsoumas is a full-time day-student at the same institution.

Bill Roper is joining his father in the paint and wall-paper business. Pat Mahoney is teaching guitar and entertaining at a night-club in Waltham.

John Riley—M.A. in Accounting—was trying to persuade Dunc. McEachern and Tommy Tsoumas into sharing an apartment when he moves to Boston to take on a job. John resents the lack of publicity given his ability at playing Hearts. The resentment is hardly justified since he lost the one game he played against Father O'Donnell. He alleges that other games had preceded. Father either does not remember or does not care to.

Fred Briggs is an accountant in Manchester. Jack Lynch is deliberating about taking up Law. Bill Manning is working in Boston. Ron. Gomes is making the transition from S.M.U. to something as yet undetermined.

Sears-Roebuck is investing heavily in educating Tim Lyons. They should be informed that Tim is inclined to drop glasses.

Tom Trainor has applied to Dal. for post-grad. work in English. Dick Sheehan, formerly of Halifax and always a popular competitor in our Engineers annual amateur nights, is making a living out of electronics in Bedford (not N. S.).

Carroll Parker flew four hundred miles to attend. Cos. Marandos, Bob Routolo, Buzz McHale, Jack Peterson, Connie McCarthy, Tom McEaney are in various stages of completing their education. Doug. Fallon was also present but did not make known his occupation and plans.

Among those sending messages of regret for not attending were: Myles O'Malley, who was married June 26; John Kelleher in Rochester, N. Y. on a course; Dick Hurley on assignment in Arizona; Oliver Blakeney, by coincidence in Halifax; Art Collins in waters of South Viet Nam; John Burke with Social Welfare, Halifax; Walter Bossidy putting glass in S.M.U. new Library; Bob Healey, marrying next morning; T. Walsh involved in same wedding; Gerald Dugas, Mike Fleming and George Isaac.

AMONG OUR AUTHORS

Arthur P. Monahan, chairman of Saint Mary's University Philosophy Department, has recently published the first in a series of books designed for use in undergraduate Philosophy courses.

On the Confines of Two Worlds. An Introduction to the Christian Philosophy of Man, embodies a new approach to the teaching of philosophy.

Its use at Saint Mary's makes our alma mater one of the first Catholic institutions in Canada and the U. S. to adopt a thoroughgoing revision of its philosophy curriculum.

Dr. Monahan's book is available in Halifax bookstores, and through the St. Francis Xavier University Press, c/o P.O. Box 266, Armdale, N. S. on a vast scale during the industrialization of Soviet Russia, has just been published by Oxford University Press.

Before the last war the author was Professor of Political Economy in the University of Vilna and was one of the leading Polish experts on Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. Rejoining his old regiment in 1939, Professor Swianiewicz was taken prisoner by the Russians, and narrowly escaped the Katyn massacre of Polish officers. He spent the years 1940 and 1941 in Lubianka Prison in Moscow, where, he writes in his preface, 'The ideas expressed in this study germinated Among my fellow prisoners were several senior members of the Soviet political and economic administration, several outstanding technical experts, and a few university students, active members of the Komsomol. Every night some of us were taken to the premises of the N.K.V.D. for investigation, but in the daytime we were free to read and discuss; and this was as if one was participating in a permanent seminar on the problem of revolutionary transformation of the national economy. (My) thanks must therefore go to the changing membership of that stimulating seminar.'

The Soviet authorities, treating Professor Swianiewicz's pre-war activities in economic research as tantamount to espionage, sentenced him to eight years forced labour, but he was released as a result of the Soviet-Polish agreement of 1941. He went to Jerusalem as Head of the Polish Research Bureau for the Middle East; after the war he held various teaching and research positions in Britain and with the United Nations, and was Professor of Economics at Gadjah Mada University in Indonesia before coming to Saint Mary's in 1963.

SPRING CONVOCATION 1965

A total of 149 students, the largest graduating class in the 125-year history of Saint Mary's University, received degrees and diplomas at convocation.

Eight master of arts, two master of social work, 58 bachelor of arts, 14 bachelor of science, 35 bachelor of commerce, 19 bachelor of education degrees, 10 diplomas in engineering and three diplomas in journalism were conferred by Right Reverend W. H. Smith, Vice-Chancellor of the University, at the convocation ceremony, held in the university auditorium.

The honorary degree of doctor of civil laws was conferred on Air Vice-Marshal Edwin M. Reyno, a 1936 graduate of Saint Mary's, until recently chief of staff, Fourth Allied Tactical Air Force, North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Europe, and now at Canadian Defence headquarters. The honorary degree of doctor of letters was conferred on Canon H. L. Puxley, former president of the University of King's College and now director of the Canadian School for Missions and Ecumenical Institute.

By M. J. O'Donnell, S.J.

Convocation 1965 fell on a warm Spring day—the first this year. I enjoyed Canon Puxley's humane address to his fellow-graduates. Any man that quotes Horace commands my applause. He tossed high-rise apartments into the sky and tunneled subways under lawns and split-level dwellings with sparkling humor that engendered confidence in man's ability to remain self-possessed in the turbulence of exciting change.

Leo Hart graduated in Commerce. He became another alumnus with sons at Saint Mary's, — three of them. Nice to see Father get to the goal first. Son Tony may be due in the Fall, Barrie follows and Doug. has just finished Freshman.

Of the six awards presented three went to graduates of our former High School.

Lorenz Friedlander won the Governor-General's Medal. (Kevin Clancey won it last year). Guy Pothier took the Medal in Arts and Kevin Clancey the one for Science. I recognized 16 names of graduates from the same High School. Two have summa cum laude, three cum laude, and one honours English.

An interesting feature about this year's class is the large number going into Post-Graduate courses. Very few students regard the Bachelor's degree as the termination of formal study. A few years ago high school graduates hesitated about going to university. But when 149 graduate from university, one begins to think the attitude has changed.

Three alumni became medical doctors at Dal. this year. Ron. Beazley (yes, a nephew), Gerald Burns and Martin Hogan. Two days later Martin married Diane Rage and headed for practice in Newfoundland.

THE SILENT SPECTATOR

By Ron Wallace

Talk about a shock!

I had been sitting in the back pew minding my own business when all of a sudden the roof fell in. This started me thinking (another minor miracle): The Vatican had exploded its first bomb! Bingo! And not a fallout shelter in sight! It was my first experience of a Mass attack.

Millions of words have accompanied the explosive changes in the Catholic Church. As an average uninformed member of the club I was asked to comment. In preparation I studiously avoided reading the explanatory literature, missed the series of lectures at the Parish Center, and refused to discuss the subject with my wife. All this qualified me as an unbiased amateur observer of the changing scene.

The Editor asked me to fill one column and I may have to do a subtle shift in mid-stream, mixing metaphors as I go and splitting a few infinitives. Fortunately Religion is a broad subject including even eccentric sects like Black Muslims.

Now that we are discussing the recent Clay-Liston fight you may be interested to know that Liston, an adult delinquent, earned $10,000 a second for a total of $600,000 in one minute. And so, as the Jesuits always say, a Saint Mary's University education is not always indispensable to success.

And now to get back on more familiar grounds. Participation of the laity is a good thing. (I divide all things into good and bad, black and white). This apparently means the laity are free to criticize the clergy. And many priests say that criticism is a good thing but they all say that "It is better to give than to receive".

Participation also means we have suddenly lost our reserved seats high up in the bleachers and no longer are the silent spectators. They want us to get in the game! This is going to take a lot of practice especially for us old-timers. Participation also means giving a helping hand in the choir and other things which I prefer not to discuss.

Participation does not mean selecting the architect for the new church, redesigning the parish hall or writing the Sunday sermon. This is Interference and differs in definition from Participation. Participation means personal involvement in the actual act of Sacrifice.

Contrary to opinion the altar has not been reversed. The priest is still in front of the altar. The Faithful have shifted around to face the priest. This confrontation encourages our participation.

The only things we are asked to change are our erroneous opinions. The only habits we are asked to forsake are our previous bad ones. We are all involved now in an everchanging movement towards the Truth—as pure as it was 1965 years ago.

And so, would you rather be a participant or a silent spectator? Well, man, ask Sonny Liston, ask Cassius Clay!

(This is the first of a two-part series on Boxing by Ron Wallace who spent four years at the old Saint Mary's fighting with the Irish Christian Brothers.)

NEW FACULTY APPOINTMENTS

Saint Mary's has announced the appointment of Bernard S. Sheehan, B.E., S.M., Ph.D., a native of Halifax and one of its own alumni, as Associate Dean of Arts and Science.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Sheehan, 6436 Edgewood Ave., Halifax, Dr. Sheehan attended College and Oxford Streets schools and the former high school department of Saint Mary's University.

Following matriculation, he studied engineering at Saint Mary's, graduating with great distinction in 1955. N. S. Technical College, where he studied under auspices of a Nova Scotia Government scholarship, awarded him its Bachelor of Engineering (Electrical) degree with honours in 1957, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology its Master of Science (Electrical Engineering) degree in 1961.

After still further post-graduate studies, and teaching of graduate and undergraduate courses in feedback control, systems and computers, Dr. Sheehan was awarded his Ph. D. degree by the University of Connecticut in May.

Besides academic studies, Dr. Sheehan has had considerable practical experience in engineering. While a student at Saint Mary's, he was employed summertime with the Public Works Department of the City of Halifax and the Northern Electric Co. Ltd., Montreal. In 1957-58 he worked on the design of atomic reactors with Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. at Peterborough, Ont., and 1958-59 lectured in engineering and served as first manager of the computer centre at Saint Mary's. While studying at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology he also taught in its electrical engineering department and was engaged by Boston engineering consultants on network theory.

His special fields of research at the University of Connecticut included determination of the optimum trajectory for atmospheric re-entry of space vehicles and state space synthesis of passive systems.

He is a member of the Engineering Institute of Canada, the Society for General Systems Research, the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers and Eta Kappa Nu, the Electrical Engineering Honor Society. He is also a commissioned officer on the retired list of the Royal Canadian Navy Reserve.

Dr. Sheehan is married to the former Nancy Mary O'Hearn, daughter of Mrs.

NEW ADMISSIONS POLICY AT S.M.U.

The Senate of Saint Mary's University has approved a new policy of 'Early Admission' of students to the University.

Students will now be accepted without having to wait for the results of their final matriculation examinations. This will be done on the basis of the recommendation of the student's principal or teacher, along with his total high school record up to and including mid-year results in matriculation year.

Very Reverend C. J. Fischer, S.J., President of Saint Mary's and chairman of the University's Senate, in announcing the new policy said:

"With rapidly growing enrolment and increasing difficulty in recruiting appropriate teaching faculty, we need a clearer indication of the number of freshman students and their faculty and course registration before provincial examination results become available in late summer.

"Saint Mary's classroom, and more especially laboratory, facilities are limited and it is becoming necessary to divide some freshman and sophomore classes into three or more sections. Early admission of students will give the Registrar's office more time to sort out the complications of class scheduling and to assure the maximum use of physical plant.

"We hope also that our new policy of 'early admission' will help to break down the rigid formalism of the student's transfer from high school to university. During the last months of his matriculation year the student should now give more serious attention to the choice of his program where he can still receive the mature guidance of his counsellors and teachers. The guidance officers of the University will also be available to advise him.

"To put this policy in practice, the Registrar of Saint Mary's will require the cooperation of high school principals or teachers in completing the student's application form. This form will be as simple as possible and based on the excellent records now kept by high schools and the Department of Education. The key point of information will be the principal's or teacher's judgment of the student's ability to complete successfully a university program. This evaluation will become a part of the student's university record as the prime basis of his admission.

"In order that both the schools and Saint Mary's may gain experience and accuracy in this new procedure, for the first few years the student's acceptance will be subject to review by the Admissions Committee if he does not achieve minimum requirements in provincial examinations. He may then be advised to return to high school for a better foundation, or some conditions of additional or remedial work at the University may be imposed. The University will continue to use the final provincial matriculation results in the acceptance of doubtful or borderline students."

The profession of Law will be enriched by the addition of four: Art Donahoe, Jed. Hawco, Dan. McGrath and Andy Osyany. Ervin Doak received M.A. in economics and sociology.

At Tech., Ernie Chiasson won the Royal Canadian Engineers Memorial Scholarship, and a degree in Mechanical Engineering. Sing Kok Chua and Gerald Lethbridge obtained Master's degrees. David Borde, Bill. Dyer and Dick Sheehan took their Bachelor's in electrical; John Currie and Eric Morse in mechanical; Dave Campbell, Tony Look-Tong and Camille Nadeau in chemical. Kwang Hui Kho of Sarawak, won his civil engineering degree with honors.

Holy Heart Seminary produced Stephen Carew for the Halifax diocese and Callistus MacNeil for the Antigonish diocese. Ordinations in the Society of Jesus in June included John Matheson from Italy Cross, suburb of Bridgewater, and Peter Larisey from downtown Dartmouth.

The Pugwash twins are still studying. Doug. Leahy took his Master's in Meteorology at McGill and will go after a Doctorate. Steve has his Engineering degree but will turn to Queen's for a Master's in Business Administration.

Gary Baker and Robert Reardon flew in from Summerside to attend the annual meeting. The latter remarked that the $25,000 Alumni pledge to the construction of the rink was a cause that he would like to support. I imagine it will appeal to many of the old-time hockey players. There ought to be no difficulty in realizing our objective. Incidentally a member of the provincial grants committee was impressed and uplifted when he heard of the alumni contribution. "What are your alumni giving?" is a question that comes up invariably when appealing for donations. Last winter a Montreal industrialist put the question. Our representative was amazed that the same gentleman was favorably disposed because he had heard about our football team.

Since our last issue I have found two more sons of Alumni. David Flinn has since graduated in Commerce. He is the son of the late Ed. Flinn. Michael Coolen who graduated May 10 in Arts, is the son of Michael Allen Coolen. Maureen Mullins, B.Ed., is the daughter of Pictou accountant Ed. Mullins.

Tom Smith is leaving shortly for Ottawa. I met him at the graduation. Father Stewart had a card in February from Art Collins in Iwo Jima.

Frank Cronin will be teaching philosophy next year at St. Thomas University on the campus of U.N.B.

John Leydon is now living in Houston, Texas. He is production manager for United Salt Corporation.

Captain Francis Romo is now stationed in Egypt.

Robert Swindles is with Allis Chalmers in Montreal.

If my references were of any help Denis Cato and Frank Pottie will be teaching for the Montreal Catholic School Commission next year.

The "Tribute to Brother Garvey" written by Chris. Grant for our last issue was reproduced in the Iona Alumnus, New Rochelle, N. Y. in the April issue. My poor Snippets haven't merited reproduction yet.

F. X. O'Connor has been promoted to district sales manager with Pepsi Cola in New York.

Frank Wallace is with Great West Life, Halifax.

Bob Anderson is to be married shortly. Simeon Macharia married a Kenya girl, Perpetua Kamumia, in Montreal, June 26.

Bernard Miller, Jr., is an economic analyst with Air Canada. Married, with two children, lives at 46 Maple Circle, Dollard des Ormeaux, Quebec. One of his neighbours is Fred Coyle, B. Comm., 1961.

Captain Angus MacGillivray promoted to Major. Now stationed at R.C.E.M.E. School, Kingston, Ont.

James A. Boylan, Jr., formerly of Bridgewater, now living at 99 Church Street, St. Catharines, Ontario.

Glenn Walker has moved from Montreal to Brampton, Ont.

Captain J. T. Heenan now stationed at Calgary, Alta., attached to 1 Signal Squadron.

S.M.U. MOVING TO GRADE XII ENTRANCE

The Senate of Saint Mary's University has approved in principle the requirement of Nova Scotia Grade XII, or equivalent, for entrance by September 1967.

This entrance will be followed by three years for a general Arts degree and by four years for an honours degree.

No decision has yet been made concerning the number of years that will be required for degrees in the other faculties although it is expected that the same pattern may well be followed.

Studies are now underway on the necessary adjustment of courses and degree programmes.

HUSKIES TO HOST MCGILL REDMEN

S.M.U. athletic director Bob Hayes has announced that the Atlantic Bowl Champion Huskies will meet McGill University Redmen at Wanderers Park in Halifax on Friday, September 24 at 8:00 p.m.

This game should rate as one of the top football attractions in Halifax this fall. Training camp for the Huskies will open September 1. Two games have been tentatively scheduled with Maritime teams prior to the McGill encounter.

Saint Mary's will open their regular schedule in the new Bluenose Conference on October 2 against Mount Allison University in Sackville.

All teams rate definitely stronger this season but Coach Hayes feels that the final tilt with Saint Francis Xavier on November 13 in Antigonish may well decide the conference championship.
