of, being selected conference all-star on three separate occasions. At the conclusion of his playing career, Larry began his 20-year relationship with Saint Mary's in 1982, just a year later being given the head coaching position of the Huskies football team. During his fifteen-year tenure, Uteck racked up the honours, winning the AUAA coach of the year five times, the CIAU coach of the year twice and coaching teams to five Atlantic Bowls and three Vanier Cups. In 1995 he was named interim Athletics Director, and two years later he was formally given the job. In the same year, Larry was diagnosed with ALS, and felt that it was time to hand the reins over to a new football coach while he focused on his new position of Athletics Director. At the time Larry said, "Looking ahead I feel as though I can best serve Saint Mary's and the Huskies programs as Director of Athletics and Recreation." Larry continued to serve as the Director right up to his untimely death two weeks ago. Larry Uteck was great man whose influence on everyone at Saint Mary's as well as all of the Huskies teams, will be sorely missed.

October 1952: Born in Thornhill, Ont.

1970-72: Attended University of Colorado on a football scholarship.

1973: Attended Wilfrid Laurier University.

1974-1980: Played in the CFL with Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and B.C. A three-time conference all-star.

1982: Moved to Halifax and joined Saint Mary's as assistant coach.

1983: Named head coach at Saint Mary's.

1983-1997: Guided Huskies to seven Atlantic Bowls and three Vanier Cup appearances. Won five Atlantic conference and two Canadian university coach-of-the-year awards.

1989: Married Sue Maloney. Son Luke was born in 1990, followed by daughter Cain three years later.

1994-1999: Served as Halifax alderman and deputy mayor.

1995: Named SMU's interim athletic director. Formally appointed to the position two years later.

1998: Diagnosed with Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis.

1998: Appointed Blake Nill as head coach of SMU's football program.

2002: Named as a member of the Order of Canada.

Dec. 25, 2002: Died in Halifax.

The coaches, staff and teams have honoured Larry's memory by sewing butterflies on their home uniforms. To understand the significance of the butterfly, please take a few moments to read the following letter Larry wrote to his daughter Cain on her 9th birthday.

"Dear Cain,

It has been a long time since I wrote my last letter to you.

Every day when I see you I am amazed at how much you have grown. You are not my little baby any more. Every day you get prettier and prettier. You are also a very gifted girl. You are very smart, even though you don't realize it yet. You can run like a deer, you are tough as you rarely get hurt or complain and you also have an artist's vision which you are not afraid to express. Those gifts bring with them a cost. You have to work hard to develop your talents.

Never say you are bored because that is when you should practice. Nothing brings happiness like accomplishments, except helping others accomplish. So run, jump, play, draw, read, dream, think, work and write whenever you can. It will bring you so much in the end.

As always I really miss being able to talk and play with you, but I really enjoy it when you come and talk to me, telling me a story or what happened with your day. My being sick is very hard on everyone especially Mom because she gets stuck with all the work and the responsibility for being the bad guy who has to say no and dish out the punishment when you or Luke misbehave. I know that you won't be good all the time but it's important to try your best and to help Mom whenever you can.

I am doing fine. I look at my illness this way. I had a long, active and productive life as a caterpillar. Now I am more quiet and restful, kind of like living in a cocoon. I don't know how or when or even why, but when this stage is over I will be a butterfly. Won't that be something, your Dad, the butterfly.

I hope that you are feeling better soon.

Always give before you take.

Love,

Dad"

REMEMBERING... A Legend

Christmas is a time for friends and family, but tragically Saint Mary's lost a key member of its family in the early morning hours of Christmas day. Larry Uteck, who among other things coached the football Huskies for fifty years, and reigned as Athletic Director for five more, passed away peacefully on December 25th at the age of fifty, as a result of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis, a disease he was diagnosed with in 1997.

University President Dr. Colin Dodds said on Uteck's passing that he was an integral figure for Saint Mary's athletics, and one that can never be replaced fully. "Larry helped the program immensely, in terms of his knowledge of the rules and regulations and his vision for the future of Saint Mary's athletics. Few people know that all throughout Larry's illness, and in particular near the end, he was key to strategizing for the future of all of the athletics programs here at Saint Mary's. Just the fact that Larry was able to endure such a terrible disease and yet continue to come to work, and do everything else he possibly could, is such a tribute to the man as a whole and his character. He was a role model for us all – a role model for student athletes and one for us as individuals. He was a terrific man, and his loss will be felt throughout Saint Mary's University."

"I had the good fortune to know Larry for about fifteen years," reflects Chris Larson, Director of Development with the hockey Huskies. Larson, who was also a key member of the host organizing committee for the World Juniors, was busy with preparation for the tournament when he heard the news. "We were very busy getting ready and making final preparations, but when we heard it stopped us dead in our tracks. Out of everybody that knew Larry, I don't think anyone expected him to pass so quickly. To know Larry Uteck is to know a man of commitment, a man of passion and a man that truly loved Saint Mary's. Larry's personality before he became ill was one that created an aura everywhere that he went, and during his five-year fight with the illness, his character shone through day after day after day." Larson helped orchestrate a moment of silence for Uteck before the Canada vs. Sweden opening game on Boxing Day. In a moving moment, over 10,000 fans who were hotly anticipating an event two years in the making, all stood silently for the legendary Husky.

"I think what must be said about Larry is that he was an individual, who genuinely cared about people," says football coach Blake Nill, who took over the reins from Uteck in 1998. "Here's a guy who cared about everyone, from his family obviously, to his players, his coaches and everyone that he was in contact with. He truly made Saint Mary's a better place while he was here. To me Larry was a confidant that I went to when I needed help. I enjoyed going to him and running things by him, having him tell me he felt they were good made me feel better. That's what I miss about Larry the most, just the everyday things." Basketball coach Ross Quackenbush was another person who had a relationship with Uteck for a number of years. "Larry was a unique individual, who was very intelligent, very compassionate, and a person who had a real sense of right and wrong and how to apply it judiciously. These qualities helped to make him an excellent Athletic Director. He's going to be sorely missed."

"I know that I'll make better decisions for the rest of my life, simply because of my admiration for Larry Uteck," says hockey Huskies Coach Trevor Stienberg confidently. "For the five and a half years that I knew him, his ability to be a leader stands out most of all. The thing that I most admire about him was his integrity and his desire for fairness. He was a man who stood up for what he believed in, and he was never afraid to stand up for right. I can only hope to have a little Larry Uteck in me."

Uteck attended the University of Colorado in the early 1970s, before transferring to Wilfred Laurier University in Ontario, in 1973. After a successful university career, Larry was given a shot in the CFL, a shot that he made the most

SMUSA President's Message

Dear fellow students,

Welcome to the beginning. For now is a time that new opportunities will cross our paths every day, when new relationships will be plentiful, when facing the unknown becomes the known reality, and when the memories of everything before today will serve as a foundation to your success, and will become more and more cherished as time goes on.

Many of us have taken very different paths through this journey of life. What seems to provide comfort to us all in this world is knowing that every once in a while we are able to share something truly special with others around us. And some how, despite all of our different academic interests, different social backgrounds, different skills and talents, and the different places the world will take us, the three simple letters "S-M-U" will forever unite us all.

Remember your days here at Saint Mary's, for they have come to be like a part of your family history. Your experiences here, classes you've taken, professors you've worked with, friends that you've made, activities you've been involved with, hard times that you've struggled through, and so much more have all played a part in shaping who you are and will impact what you will become. It is so important to embrace those experiences for the value they hold, and always remember where you've come from, for it will make figuring out where you're going that much easier.

As you flip through these pages, hopefully you will see faces, places, events, and other details that will spark your memories of this home to us all known as Saint Mary's University. I know from the first day of stepping on to campus during Orientation Week to that last day of walking across the stage at Convocation, there have been so many experiences in between that however; good or bad they may have been, over time will disappear from my everyday thought. But I look forward to that one day down the road, when walking past my bookshelf, a sparkle of gold foil reading "2003" catches my eye and from the shelf I pull this little time-capsule of a book and sit back and reflect. And despite the silly hairstyles which at the time may have been the "in" look or the harsh, photographic evidence of some of the wild and crazy things that people do in university, the contents of this book represent a part of you that you can never let go of - your younger, less experienced, more impressionable self. Remember it, learn from it, and build upon it, because who you are today is based on who you were yesterday, and prepares you for who you will be tomorrow.

This has been a place where we have learned so much, both in and out of the classroom, about lessons of life and of the world that come only from experience. But from all that Saint Mary's has given us, most of all it has given us perspective. After all the courses in the many different disciplines we've taken, after all the people we have met from so many different backgrounds and heritages, and from all the experiences we have lived through both rewarding and challenging, it is undeniable that each of us view life from a perspective that is that much more broad, diverse, and informed than when we first arrived. Use that perspective, and make sure to always let it continue to develop because as the old saying goes, you learn something new everyday.

It has been the mission of the Students' Association to provide the highest quality of life to our students by offering valued services, dedicated representation, and effective advocacy. SMUSA has meant different things to different students and many students may or may not realise all the work that the Students' Association has done over the years here at Saint Mary's. However in my case, I will forever be indebted to all that SMUSA has given me, both in my years as a general member and through my time of service in leadership. I would like to personally thank the many full-time staff who put in their countless hours of passion and dedication for their jobs, the student staff who on a daily basis are the upfront ambassadors of everything Saint Mary's is proud to be, the fellow student leaders who give so much of their time and effort in to making this institution a better place for all, and especially all the students I've encountered along the way who've touched my life and the lives of many others in their own unique ways, whether they knew it or not. But the work of the Students' Association is never finished because every year students are faced with new challenges and there will always be room for improvement of the status quo. However; that can only leave one with the comforting feeling that the "spirit of SMU" is alive and well, and will remain so for many years to come.

Thanks for sharing the best years of my life friends. I look forward to when our paths cross again.

President's Message

... to Members of the 2003 Graduating Class

First of all, congratulations on reaching this important milestone of graduation. You should be very proud of your success!

It is always a great pleasure for me, as an educator, to celebrate the achievements of our students. I always enjoy the Senate meeting at which the graduation list is approved and, of course, all of our Convocation events and the Graduation ceremonies themselves. This year is quite special as we still celebrate the University's 200th Anniversary.

I am sure that during your time at Saint Mary's University, you have been able to meet new friends. Please keep in touch with them and with us too – your professors, support staff, administrators and the alumni office. If we can help in the future, please let us know. Your future is very important to us.

Enjoy the various events of Convocation and we'll see you at my Reception, which will include the presentations for the President's Hall of Academic Excellence and on Graduation Day too!

Sincerely,

*J. Colin Dodds, Ph.D.
President*

FROSH WEEK

The traditional picture of all frosh and frosh leaders, smiling for the camera, as a new year of memories begin.

Frosh Week 2002

Of my 4 years at Saint Mary's University, I have never been more pleased to have my name associated with anything like this year's frosh week. First off, SMUSA has never had more volunteers register to be Frosh Leaders in their history, so before I say anything else I want to tip my hat to all those who gave up food, drink and sleep for a week to help out with the cause. Your help was much appreciated and all the week's events went off without a hitch thanks to your help.

The week started out with the First year students moving into residence. You know that Frosh week is going to be a blast when the sun is blasting and students and their parents are in the parking lots participating in a nice round of SMU YOUR BUTT. This led to high spirits for the first event of the week, DRY PUB. We moved away from the traditional DJ's in the pub and invited a band to play for our students. Barnacle began the night with a high-energy rendition of "The Middle" capturing the audience and never letting them go until the night was over. I feel safe to say that Gorsebrook Pub sank maybe 3 inches that night thanks to a capacity crowd jumping up and down all night long.

With the energy of the night before, Frosh piled into the Grand Stand at Husky Stadium for their Frosh photo and the kick off to TURF BURN. The frosh were divided into groups where our highly trained frosh leaders led them through a series of cheers and games designed to get them comfortable with one another. Water guns were in high effect for these events as those not participating were welcomed back to their groups soaked from head to toe. Of everything, I must say, full field circle sit... nice job. The city wide scavenger hunt followed the Turf events finding frosh in public parks all over the city. This event allowed frosh to get closer and allow each other to come together as a group. And they did. Each group did a hell of a job finding all the items (even those they were not suppose to find) and getting themselves noticed by park security.

With turf burn over, it was time for the Travel Cuts Casino night. Students came out to win money and earn the chance to bid the hard earned funny money on prizes and their favorite frosh leader. This proved to be good times for most as they got their chance at revenge over the water gun wielding frosh leaders. As Monday ended, Frosh anticipated greatly the night to come. Our big Ticket Concert featured the punk rooted MudMen from Ontario. Their mix of bagpipes, electric guitar and high energy stage show proved to be just the thing to kick the night off. The crowd went nuts over their performance and it only opened the doors for their response to headlining act, David Usher. From the opening note, the crowd sang danced jumped and screamed as David and his band rocked out to the wee hours of the morning.

Wednesday found ourselves in the middle of a rainstorm, not the ideal weather for a harbour cruise, but we went anyway. And for those who participated, we had a great time. Music, open water, and dancing. We had a blast, which carried over to the party at East Side Mario's where we were greeted by the Plugs who played a set of high-energy music to get everybody dancing. And Oh did they dance. And the dancing continued into Thursday morning when the gymnasium was over run by frosh that just wanted to get down and shake the moneymakers. Coca-Cola sponsored a very well received dance party that found every frosh and their friends from all shakes of the campus dancing until they tore the speakers down and security had to kick them out.

As the first week of classes ended, we welcomed our friend and SMUSA president, Paul Deveau, and his comrade Jeff Britton, to our newly renovated student cafeteria, for their motivational talk. This raised the spirits of the Frosh as they prepared to participate in the first home football game of their university careers, and they were not disappointed. The Huskies put on a show, and the first year students who cheered their hearts out to rally their squad to their first home win of the 2002-2003 season.

For the final event of the week, we bussed the frosh out to MacDonald beach where we were welcomed by a hospitable staff and clean water lake, beach volleyball nets and a Glow Pro inflatable obstacle course. The sun was shining and we were treated to ground zero front row seats to the amazing Air Show put on by Twelve-Wing Shearwater. There was not an enormous turn out for this event but those who took part had more fun than they ever had at a beach before.

Frosh week 2002 was the most memorable week of my life and I know that it wouldn't have been possible without the help of some key figures who helped me with the planning and the booking of events. My facilitator crew was the best ever; you all know who you are, so thank you and good luck. Also, thanks goes out to the women and men of SMUSA. I only hope that next year will find a bigger and better week than I had.

David Usher was no doubt one of the week's highlights as they rocked the energetic frosh during "big ticket concert" night. Every year SMUSA searches long and hard for a great band to entertain the frosh at the Tower.

Frosh Leader Camp

This year, as in years past, we held our frosh leader training camp at Camp Lone Cloud in Waverley Nova Scotia. It started enthusiastically as frosh leaders began to show up at 8:30 in the morning. Spirits were low to start but the high energy began soon after lunch and didn't let up until the end of frosh week. Facilitators led the new frosh leaders through icebreaker activities as well as high-energy cheers. The final campfire was sparked and the talent less show began with song, skit and cheers.

Student Life at Saint Mary's

Saint Mary's is a second home to many students. It is easy to get absorbed in the life of a student with all the activities going on. Whether cheering for our varsity teams or relaxing in the newly designed Student Centre lobby and cafeteria, a sense of comfort is surrounding us. Life at Saint Mary's cannot be cloned and leaves it's mark in everyone's memory.

Beach Night @ The Gorsebrook

The Gorsebrook always is always looking out for the students of Saint Mary's and when the cold Winter comes along Beach Night is just around the corner to take our minds off the cold temperatures. The bright colors come out and light up the lounge as students dream of warm sunny places.

HALLOWEEN AT THE PUB

EVERY YEAR THE PUB HOSTS A HALLOWEEN PARTY AND THE STUDENTS OF SMU PUT A LOT OF THOUGHT INTO THEIR COSTUMES. FROM AVRIL LAVIGNE TO A TUSKEN RAIDER FROM STAR WARS, THIS YEAR'S COSTUME BASH WAS A COMPLETE SUCCESS.

THIS YEAR'S PARTY HAD NO SHORTAGE OF SUPERHEROS AND CARTOON CHARACTERS.

St. Patrick's Day

This year's St. Patty's day started off just like every other one before it. The seats were full, glasses were raised, and the Irish spirit was glowing throughout the Gorsebrook from when the doors opened till the time came to call it a night.

International Night 2003

International Night is an event for Saint Mary's University's large population of international students to celebrate the diversity of cultures and traditions on campus. This event is held every year and always has great success. The celebration begins with entertainment and a meal. Members of the Saint Mary's community perform through music and dance to express their culture to their peers. Traditional costumes are often worn and fill the night with colour.

After formal speeches, the tables are cleared away and an evening of dancing begins. This fantastic night gives students from far away a chance to feel at home.

Above: Lester keeps the glasses full, and the Bailey's always ready for those ready to put down the green beer.

Top left: This group of Gorsebrook regulars poses so nicely for one of many candid moments on this fine night.

Ha ha

This was the first thought that sprung to my head when I found out that the Dalhousie Gazette did not get their referendum question passed recently, which would have increased the current levy of $4 per student to $7.50 per student. Why such an unsympathetic and mean-spirited reaction to a fellow school newspaper's misfortune? The reasons are many, but mostly I'm just lowering myself to their level; for those that don't keep up with the Gazette (and I'm sure you all number in the thousands), things have gotten a little personal in their last few issues, with some undue hits below the belt where SMU is concerned. It started with their incredibly biased and unprofessional survey of Santamarians, blatantly stealing Rick Mercer's "Talking to Americans" format from This Hour Has 22 Minutes, in very much the same manner they copied our ever-popular G-Spot with a substandard sex column of their own. Seriously, who knows, or more importantly, even remotely cares about, the Queen mom's age? And when 94.5% of Santamarians did get a question right, the Gazette opted to print the skewed view of "5.5% of Santamarians got this question wrong" instead, just to make themselves look more clever, and us dimmer. We had some reactions, mostly from people asking us not to lower ourselves to their level. We abstained (mostly), and let it go. But that wasn't enough for the Gazette, so when they distributed leaflets advocating a levy increase, they used their oh-so-cool and original "What's Hot and What's Not" column format. The second HOT thing was 'voting YES for our levy' and the second NOT that went with it was 'the SMU Journal'. It was the third direct dig in as many weeks, and we at the Journal did not appreciate it.

However, looking more closely at their leaflet, we found more untruths and inconsistencies in the information presented to the students of Dalhousie. The most glaring is their claim that their current levy of $4 per student doesn't even cover their print bill. Hmm...let's do a little quick math here. The Journal also gets $4 per student. Both the Gazette and the Journal use the same printer for our newspapers. The costs for producing each paper would be very similar, and though their paper is often longer than ours, they also have more advertisers to offset that cost. So, we get $4 for each full-time student, which SMU has 5,500 of, and $2 for each part-time student, which we have 3,000 of. This brings in a total of approximately $28,000 in student levies for the year, and admittedly, money is tight, but obviously, a newspaper can be successfully run on this budget. Dalhousie, on the other hand, has 11,500 full-time undergraduate students, up to 5,000 graduate students, and up to 14,000 more part-timers. Assuming that graduate students also pay the $4 fee, and that part-time students pay $2, the Gazette's total levy comes to $76,000. But even if we calculated their levy based only on their full-time undergraduate students, it still comes out almost twice as high as our entire levy, at $46,000. What conclusion can be reached from these numbers? The staff at the Gazette is comprised of incompetent boobs who are grossly mis-spending their budget, or whiny money-grubbers who just want to line their pockets a little more thickly. The second theory becomes more viable with another inconsistency in the leaflet: the leaflet claims that the levy raise would be $3.50, yet the referendum question read $3.50 - $4. On the one hand, you can't blame the Gazette for trying to slip that one past the voters. On the other hand, I know I would have noticed that, and it would have definitely turned me off voting in favour of the levy increase. That kind of inconsistency could only get past the dumbest of the dumb, which, I suppose, is why they tried it at Dal, but it turns out their students are actually smarter than that. Yet another point of intrigue on the leaflet was the claim that the $3.50 increase is "less than half the cost of lunch in the Grawood." That means that the Gazette staff are paying over $7.00 for lunch in their pub; no wonder they can't budget the newspaper's money, they can't even go to a pub and find something to eat at lunch for $5. So maybe they are just having massive budgeting problems after all, but chances are it's a mix of idiocy and greed.

Whatever the Gazette's reasons for wanting really badly to get a levy increase, they didn't get it, and personally, I'd like to think it's a karmic kick in the ass. Up until recently, we had a working professional relationship with the Gazette; it's no secret the papers have been rivals in the past, just like anything that involves Dal and SMU, but things had been calm and respectful. I can speak from experience that running a student newspaper isn't the easiest job in the world, and the last thing any paper wants to deal with is their peers slugging them in their own publication. But the Gazette felt the need to start something with all that garbage, and then tried to get more money by denouncing us on their leaflet. I'd say those guys got exactly what they deserve: a steaming pile of squat. On a final note, I would like to point out that when the Journal ran a referendum question to receive $4 per student in order to be autonomous from our student government, it passed with approximately 70% of voters in favour. The facts don't lie; looks like the Journal is definitely hot, and the Gazette obviously not.

Retro Night

Above: The pub could have been mistaken for a Hollywood night club with these stylin' couples working the dance floor.

Below: Scott and Jess are smiling SMUSA employees as they take the night off to have a little retro fun.

Below: No one held back, and everyone dug out funky outfits from the back of their closets to style it up at The Gorsebrook.

What would another year at the pub be without the famous night that everyone steals their parents' clothes that just could not be thrown out. That's right, Retro Night was huge success again this year! As one of several theme nights, Retro night sent The Gorsebrook on a trip down memory lane when mini skirts and tight pants were trends all over campus.

Right: Our own SMUSA executive are sporting those funky clothes and have the boys from "That 70's Show" a little jealous! But Graeme, we could use a little more school spirit!

Below: The outfits were not the only signs of Retro Night. Many styles of dancing we now laugh at were reincarnated on that crazy Thursday night.

Above: The pub's favorite 'dancing SMUSA executive' put on a show of their own. Paul was busy teaching incoming president, Tyler, a thing or two of what he learned this past year!

The Journal started off the year with a frontpage make-over which strayed away from their traditional look, to a modern, eye-catching cover. The crew published 25 issues that covered everything from the Huskies back-to-back Vanier Cup coverage, to some very strong opinions on all kinds of topics, to great business tips. Don't forget our Halloween maddness of 125 horror movie reviews. Our staff worked hard to provide quality reading week after week and had a lot of fun doing so. With the average print night being 15 hours in length, we all became great friends in no time. This led to many laughs, games of Hero Clix or Chez Geek, and of course the year long Starcraft marathon. There were some serious moments, many of which involved the crashing of one of our Mac computers. All in all, the Journal had a great year and looks forward to many great years to come.

SAINT MARY'S UNIVERSITY • HALIFAX • NOVA SCOTIA

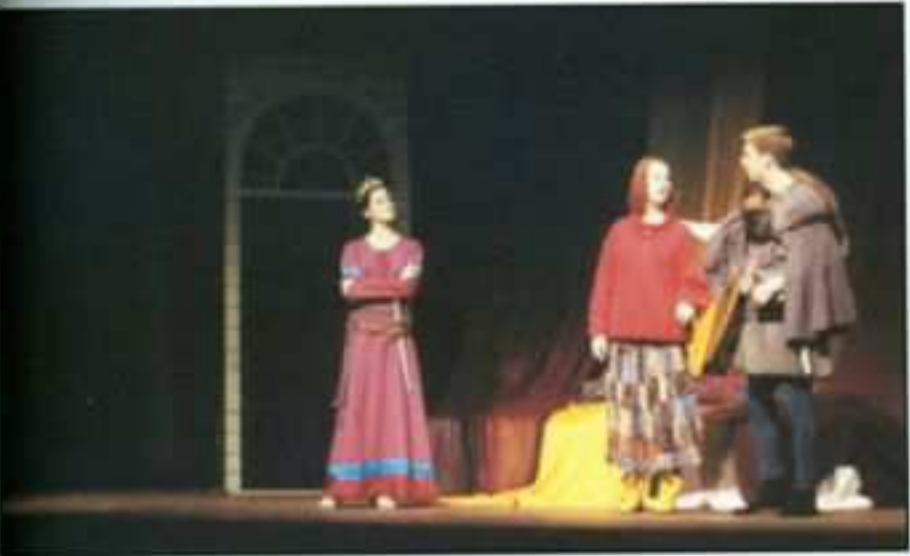

Saint Mary's University Drama Society

This was a great year for SMUDS. Celebrating 50 years of theatre at Saint Mary's University, we produced two mainstage plays for the first time in five years. From feng shui power central on the fifth floor of the Student Centre, SMUDS valiantly coped with room booking dramas, the tragedy of spontaneous lock changes and the comedy of acquiring the rights to various plays. Despite these setbacks, we soon figured out that anything is possible when you have enough black paint (and sometimes, a little bit of grey paint.)

The SMUDS Executive: President Ann Foster, Treasurer Shannon Power, Secretary Luke Malone, Technical Director Adam Wheeler, External Member at large Colleen Johansen, Internal Member at large Jarvis Googoo, and Moderator/ Photocopy King Darrell Yates.

We kicked off the year old-school style with a November production of Craig Lucas's early 80s comedy-drama "Blue Window." The cast featured Davida Morris as Emily, Dan Nightingale as Tom, Colleen Johansen as Libby, Maryann Moffitt as Boo, Jonathan King as Griever, Luke Malone as Norbert, and Charity Bryant as Alice. The ties were skinny, the hair was big, glasses were flying and everything was painted black. Directed by Ann Foster, technical director Adam Wheeler, lights Lenny Langton, sound Kariann Wellington, props and front of house Shannon Power.

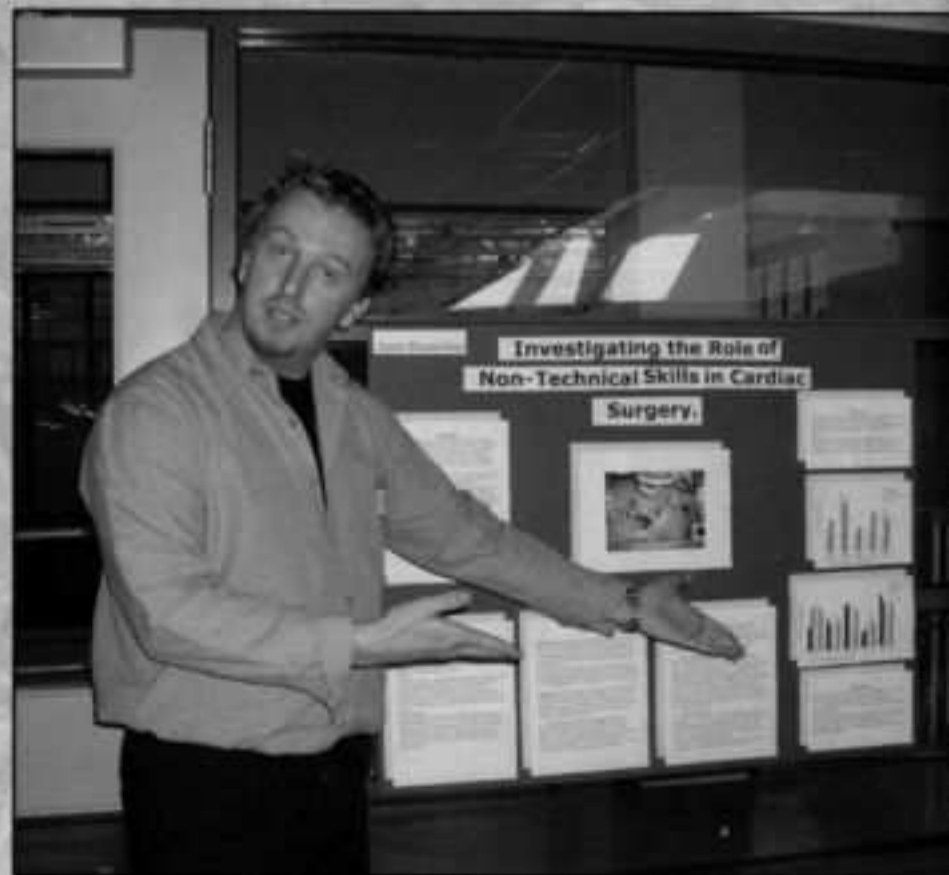

For our March production, we brought in the incomparably lovely Leana Todd to direct "Goodnight Desdemona (Good Morning Juliet)" by Ann-Marie MacDonald. The cast included Sam Madore as Ramona/Desdemona, Matthew Dudka as Othello/Mercutio/Professor/Knight, Shannon Power as Jill/Juliet, Patrick Daigle as Romeo/Iago, Charity Bryant as Constance, Heather Mayne as the Chorus/Ghost, Kelly Seymour as the Soldier of Cyprus, Randi Livingstone as the Servant, and Robert Watt as Tybalt/Nurse.

This was a show with everything: breathtaking swordfights (choreographed by Robert Seale), crossdressing (by both genders!), groping, butt-grabbing, flying testicles, and yes, more black paint. Assistant director Ann Foster, Stage Manager Kariann Wellington, Technical Director Adam Wheeler, Lights Lenny Langton, Props Kim Hill, Sound Corey Janes, Costumes Laura Legere.

Psychology Conference

The Ziemer-LaGuff team, supervised by Super-Cameron, made this year's event a success that was praised by many. All started with the poster presentation, for which Amy Matthews won the prize for Best Poster. A buffet-style lunch accompanied this to fill our bellies. The Honours Students' presentations followed, and then the Master Student's. Recognition was awarded to the best oral presentations at the undergraduate level (Katie Ziemer) and the graduate level (Bernadette Gatien). Good job by all, you made us proud. And of course, our guest speaker, Dr. J. Don Read, enlightened and entertained us on the various "empirical studies" done in the field of subliminal messages, and on what happens when such research is conducted by people having only a three-letter word in mind... The end-of-the-year banquet was next, and various awards were presented. Congratulations to the lucky winners of "The Most Threatening Office Door" Award (Dr. Catano), the "Superhero" Award for "He Who Never Gets Upset" (Dr. Cameron), the "Smiley Face" Award, the "Energizer Bunny" Award, the "Red Ink" Award (accepted by Dr. Day on behalf of Dr. Stinson), and the "Yuk-Yuk" Award (Dr. Parliament). An evening at the Gorsebrook topped it off, and allowed some to "wipe the slate clean" and others to realize that no matter who you are, you can't get people in without ID's.

Commerce Business Dinner

The 29th Annual Harold G. Beazely Commerce Society Business Dinner, held on March 26th, was co-chaired by incoming Commerce Society President Marcel Dupupet and VP External Jonathan Bellot. The event attracted 250 of the top business professionals in the greater Halifax community, members of government including the minister of education Hon. Angus McIsaac and MLA Sue Uteck, as well as faculty, administration, staff and students of Saint Mary's University.

The keynote address was delivered by David Yellowlees, president and CEO of Reebok Canada and Latin America. In what was both an informative and entertaining speech, Mr. Yellowlees delighted all in attendance with an audio visual presentation which encompassed Reebok's strategy as a competitor in the global marketplace and the importance placed upon maintaining ethical business practices.

Dr. Barry Gorman received the full-time professor of the year award as voted by the members of the commerce society, and professor Scott McMillan received the part-time professor of the year award. External Affairs officer Chuck Bridges received the outstanding contribution to the society award.

The Gold sponsor was CGA Nova Scotia, Silver was Burke & Associates and Bronze sponsors were Xerox and Thompson Associates.

Marcel and Jonathan are especially grateful to the contributions of all the businesses in attendance who made the evening a memorable experience. Many thanks are due to Dr. Dodds and the entire university community for showing their tremendous support at an event which marked the culmination of another successful year for the Commerce Society.

Women's Night

This year marked the first Women's night celebration. The night was full of food and entertainment by talented women throughout the Saint Mary's community. After this year's success, Women's night may become an annual event on campus.

Caribanza

Caribanza is an event that is held to expose the Nova Scotia community to Caribbean culture as well as promote unity among all Caribbean persons residing in Nova Scotia. Caribanza is an opportunity for people to witness firsthand what the Caribbean is all about. Caribanza consists of a dinner where Caribbean food is prepared and enjoyed, a show filled with Caribbean culture displayed in skits, songs, poems and dances and we end the night with a dance where Caribbean music is played and everyone can fellowship further. Like all past Caribanza's, this year's night was a huge success and all who attended took a little mental vacation to the white sandy beaches and warm golden sun.

STAFF TRAINING

Although the following pictures of this year's staff training and orientation might suggest that all that took place was fun and games, that was not the case. This year's edition of the Saint Mary's University Students' Association's staff spent two fun filled days that included a very amusing CPR and first aid session, and a treasure hunt to familiarize the staff with new parts of the campus, but more for the managers amusement. To top the training off the full-time staff and newly hired part-time managers and staff headed out to Hatfield Farms. These pictures are very self explanatory on how the night went.

The after party that was held annually at the Gorsebrook, is a chance for friends and co-workers to celebrate and enjoy the good times had by all during their past year at Saint Mary's. This night also provided some SMUSA employees with the opportunity to show some of their co-workers the side of themselves that they didn't all year.

Functions Department

The Functions Department has had another very busy year, serving their ever so thirsty patrons at events all over the campus. Seeing and more often hearing their trolleys cruising around the University means that oh yes, the Functions Crew is once again heading to serve the faculty, staff, or our great classmates. Also known as Liquor Services, the Functions Department is responsible for any and all liquor served at Saint Mary's outside of the Gorsebrook. Some of the year's events include the Frosh Week's concert with David Usher, Football beer tents, Alumni Lounge, Christmas parties on campus, the Resident Banquet, and the hypnotist: Tony Lee. The Functions staff also graciously collects money at the Gorsebrook door on thursdays night. From all of us on the 2002-2003 edition of the Functions staff, we would like to thank all of our clients and patrons for making this even better than the last!

This year the Marketing Department got creative with much anticipated Photoshop training and a brand new digital camera. They mastered the art of doctoring photos for their favorite friends and managers. Aside from designing posters and advertisements the department managed to share some quality time together. What-a-evil Weather! It was bonding over the marquee sign or cleaning paint off the windows they proved that time flies when you're having fun! If you can't find staff members in the office to scan your photos you can find them in the job sporting the latest grass skirt collection or singing "I Will Survive" at SMU Idol. After a very merry Christmas Party bash the Marketing staff looks forward to our final adventures together on Charter Day. And remember boys... YOU'RE FIRED!

Fighting over who has to change the marquee sign and then Rob finally dressing up for the daring task

Saint Mary's students were so spectacular this year that I got to do a lot of sheering! I visited with students around campus to tell them about different events like the Halloween Party and the SMUSA information session. The highlight of my year was definitely traveling to Toronto on a bus to see the football team win at the Vanier Cup! Back to back Vanier Cup champions and I was right there on the field at the Skydome... what a rush! Let's go HUSKIES, let's go!

Students' Representative Council

The SRC was formed by the Students' Association so that the Saint Mary's student population would be represented. Along with the SMUSA Executive, thirteen students form the council. Each student represents a different group of students. These groups are: an Arts, Commerce, and Science representative, an Engineering representative, a Graduating representative, a Freshman representative, a Residence representative, an Off-campus representative, a Mature Student representative, a Part-time Student representative, an International representative, and a representative for students with disabilities.

The SRC meets monthly to discuss important issues that involve the student population. Each rep position is elected by the student population and the council serves during the academic year.

Yearbook Department

Yearbook Editor
Lianne Nixon

This year's designing of the Santamarian was full of surprises, laughs and long nights. Our department worked hard all year long to try and capture the best of what Saint Mary's University has to offer. This was easy as Saint Mary's has friendly faces everywhere you turn.

Editors Lianne Nixon and Mark Joudrey spent many long hours selecting photos and designs and when the time came to party, they were always ready for the dance floor.

The Yearbook department would like to thank everyone who kindly posed for our camera and to those who submitted photos and articles for the book. Special thanks goes out to the Marketing Department staff who were always happy to help us out and to the SMUSA full-time staff who pointed us in the right direction when we were lost. It has been a great year and we hope you enjoy the book.

Husky Patrol is one of the many services offered by the St. Mary's Students' Association in co-operation with Campus Security. With two vans operating from 6:30 to midnight, Sunday to Friday, Husky Patrol's main goal is to get students, faculty, and staff who are working late home safely. Since the service has started in 1995, we have delivered more than 95,000 safe rides home. All Husky Patrol drivers are trained professionals. We have all taken a defensive driving course as well as staff training. We would like to thank all of this year's drivers and to all of our sponsors for making this another successful year. We also look forward to servicing next year after those late nights at the library.

COMMERCE SOCIETY

The goal of the Commerce Society is to add value to students' education and experience while at Saint Mary's through its various social activities and formal events. It is steeped in tradition and is the oldest society on campus dating back to its inception as part of the Commerce faculty in 1934. It is officially known as the Harold G. Beazley Commerce Society named after the former Dean of Commerce who served various roles at Saint Mary's from 1936 until his retirement in 1979.

With 250 members, the 2002-2003 year was filled with social activities such as the famous "Fall Crawl", brewery tours, annual skydiving trip, paint-ball, rock-climbing and ski trip. The society also plans formal activities such as the Wine & Cheese and Career Expo that offers members and other students the chance to network with individuals in the local business community as well as professors. The society's premier event, the Business Dinner, gives students the opportunity to acquire knowledge from leading business professionals and faculty gathered at a typical business function.

The 2002-2003 Executive:

Ryan Black, President

Jonathan Bellot, VP External

Marcel Dupupet, VP Finance

Marc Julien, VP Administration

Cathy Pitman, Social Director

Tracy Turner, Wine & Cheese Coordinator

Tiffany Rushton, 4th Year Rep

Anthony Skoke, 3rd Year Rep

Dan Roach, 2nd Year Rep

Sascha Dupupet, 1st Year Rep

Aian Bardsley, Bookkeeper

Todd Samson, Wine & Cheese Coordinator

Special mention to Greg Dickie, the President for 2001-2002, who offered an invaluable amount of time and advice to help the executive chart a brand new course for 2002-2003.

The society wishes everyone in the graduating class all the best in their future endeavors.

CHINESE CHRISTIAN SOCIETY

The Chinese Christian Society is a group of Chinese youth that gather to have fellowship with each other. We are a Christian based society that meets weekly on Friday nights, usually at the Halifax Chinese Alliance Church. Our meetings are held in Chinese and English, aimed toward university and high school students.

The programs always have Christian theme and content. Sometimes our programs are devoted to learning about God's words with meditation time, and other times we may devote our time to worshipping and praising God through songs and hymns. There are programs that let students get their minds off studying, like gym nights and movie nights and picnics. Programs that were held in the past year include craft nights, dumpling making, guest speakers, a musical concert, spiritual sharing and many others.

During December of 2002, the society was able to plan a Gospel retreat. It was a great chance to develop closer relationships with the students, grow spiritually and to spread the gospel to non-Christians.

Some goals of this society are, to develop closer individual relationships with God, learning how to become a faithful Christian and sharing the gospel to non-believers. We hope to accomplish these goals, among others, through our wide assortment of event and programs mentioned previously.

We have a diverse group of individuals in our society, with international students from Hong Kong, China, Taiwan, Malaysia and students from different parts of Canada. New comers are always welcome!

CARIBBEAN SOCIETY

This year has been a great year for the Caribbean Society as always. The board members for 2002-03 were Monique Ward, President, Manika Munroe, Vice President, Farrah Pickstock, Treasurer, Richette Turnquest, Secretary, Christopher Bowe, Personal Relations Officer and Lashonda Seymour, Caribanza Coordinator.

The Caribbean Society is known for it's unique flavor in doing things and hosting events. This year we started off with a basketball tournament against the Caribbean Societies of Dal/Mount and Acadia. The guys of the societies competed with a result of Acadia winning the tournament followed by SMU and Dal/Mount.

As always we had several great Caribbean parties featuring reggae, calypso and soca rhythms. At these parties, students were able to enjoy the wonderful fellowship of each other's company, and get a taste of party life on the different islands.

We also participated in the International Society's cultural fair by offering 'A Taste of The Caribbean' to the SMU campus. This event was an extreme success, we were able to offer curry chicken, peas and rice, jerk pork, conch fritters, potato salad and baked macaroni to those persons walking the hallways of SMU. Members of the Caribbean Society prepared the dishes themselves. We were able to show off one of the greatest assets of the Caribbean, which is fine cuisine. SMU and Dal/Mount Caribbean Societies also hosted a potluck in the Gorsebrook lounge featuring authentic good tasting, finger licking, Caribbean food.

Speaking of fine cuisine, who can forget CARIBANZA, our annual Caribbean banquet. Caribanza is an event that is held to expose the Nova Scotia community to Caribbean culture as well as promote unity among all Caribbean persons residing in Nova Scotia. Caribanza is an opportunity for people to witness first hand what the Caribbean is all about. Caribanza consists of a dinner where Caribbean food is prepared and enjoyed, a show filled with Caribbean culture displayed in skits, songs, poems and dances and we end the night with a dance where Caribbean music is played and everyone can fellowship further.

Gorsebrook Lounge

Mark Woodburn & Weston Fader
 co-managers of
 The Gorsebrook Lounge

Thanks to the students, the Gorsebrook Lounge was jam packed this year with events that were a great success! The first Thursday night lived up to past years as the Pub was full by 5:00pm and the party kept going right into the night.

Halloween Night at the Pub brought out all the ghosts and goblins for the best costume contest. The big winners were a pair of Egyptian mummies who showed up early and hung in till the very end!

Wing Night took on a whole new life this year when it moved from Monday nights to Thursday nights and the Wing Night Take Flight promotion. Students filled the bar from 6:00pm on every Thursday to take advantage of good food, good times, and great friends. James Key-Wallace was the lucky winner of the Take Flight promotion beating out 24 other qualifiers to take home the $2,500 travel voucher. Enjoy the trip James!

Another memorable night was the Beach Party while SMU students kept the Spring break alive as bikinis, flip flops, and Hawaiian shirts were donned and the cold weather braved for some summertime tunes and fun!

Saint Patrick's Day...enough said! Again the biggest party of the year and showing everyone in Halifax that the best time is definitely at SMU!

A little taste of the South came North as the second annual Mardi Gras hit the pub carnival style. Beads were the hot order of the night...for some more than others!

We have all had at least a few special times at the pub. It might have started early on a Tuesday afternoon, or ended late on a Thursday night with the music pumping; whatever it was, thank you for sharing it with us at the pub. Good luck in the future!

Cheers,
 The Gorsebrook Staff

P.S.: Feel free to come on back...we'll find you a stool at the end of the bar for a few more good times.

SOCIETIES

PSYCHOLOGY SOCIETY

Another year comes to an end, and for some of us, this is it. Unfortunately, due to a late start this year, we did not have all the time, or the money, to do everything we wanted. Nonetheless, the executive did a pretty good job with what they had.

Let's start with the Christmas Banquet: a fun evening and a nice supper shared by friends and some members of the Dark Side (a.k.a. the professors). Despite the absence of snow at that time of the year, the decorations put us in the elated mood of what was to come the following month. All this would not have been possible without the generosity of the Psychology Department and the publicity of the professors. Big thanks from all of us.

Soon after coming back from Christmas vacations, the Honours Day was held. Quite the turn out, thank you very much... Thanks to Tim Horton's for their "little" contributions, I was fed for the month to come.

Our job is not over, though. A coat-check allowed us to raise money for those who will follow, and meetings during the summer will ensure that next year's society is off to a better start than we had.

A great summer to you all, and good luck in the near and not so near future.

Marie-Eve Brisson,
for the Exec. of the Psychology Society

"SMU AMBASSADORS" SOCIETY

Saint Mary's University Student Alumni Association "SMU Ambassadors"

This past year was filled with fond memories and life long friendships. As the medium through which the alumni and students interact the Student Alumni Association (SAA) not only is filled with proud Santamarians but students who are eager to become active alumni. Our events over the past year included everything from charity work to mini-putt all of which brought us closer together and helped us to work as a team.

The executive for 2002/2003 were: Chad Babin, President; Derek Light, Vice President; Melissa Morash & Stephanie Wylde, co-chairs Special Events; Sarah Margeson, Fundraising Chair; Kathleen Lingley, Secretary; and of course B.J. Frenette our advisor.

Homecoming Weekend 2002 was a highlight as it is every year for the SAA. We served as hosts and hostess for the Golden Grad Luncheon for the class of 1952. The SAA attended the Alumni Dinner approximately 500 alumni gathered to reminisce about their years at Saint Mary's. During the football game the SAA hosted "Fun With the Kiddies" by handing out balloons and were face painting.

As in previous year the SAA is always committed to community work for charities such as; the Diabetes Association, Alzheimer's Society, Brest Cancer Research, and the Kids Help Phone. Our fundraising activities included a car wash, exam survival kits, balloon-o-grams on Valentines Day and selling lollipops.

We ended the year with the Halliwood Pre Oscar Party at the Casino Hotel Ballroom in support of the Kids Help Phone, the Saint Mary's University's Students Association Charter Day Awards, and the SMU Ambassadors awards night.

INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY

The Saint Mary's University International Society aims to promote and encourage intercultural involvement, interactions, and exchanges through planned social and educational activities that incorporate both Canadian and International students in Saint Mary's University. This year, the International Society has seen a tremendous outburst of energy. Membership increased dramatically to a total of 258 members, while Canadian members alone formed a whopping 38%.

The International Society executed a spectrum of events in the 02-03 academic year, all of which were outstandingly attended and remarkably successful. From its Annual Barbeque to the 5th Annual International Night; from Karaoke Nights to the Wine & Cheese Career Networking Reception, The International Society leapt ahead and was duly awarded the Society of the Year award during the 2003 SMUSA Charter Night.

IDS SOCIETY

2003 was a great year for the International Development Studies Undergraduate Society. This was the first year for the society and it was both eventful and successful. The society played a pivotal role in the organization and implementation of International Development Week – an event that included an opportunity fair, career workshop, and a multicultural fair. Several social events were also well attended, including two keggers and a pub social night. Next year's executive has already been established and is looking forward to building on the work of this year's society. The IDS society's goals are to raise awareness of poverty, cultural, and environmental issues; provide information and opportunities for IDS students, and to create a dynamic International Development community at SMU.

Chinese Student & Scholar Association

The Chinese Student & Scholar Association (CSSA) was first established as an official organization of Saint Mary's University Students' Association on October 17th, 2001. It is a volunteer group with some warm-hearted Chinese students and scholars at Saint Mary's university. CSSASMU is devoted to serving the Chinese community at the university, keeping our Chinese heritage alive, and enhancing the western and eastern culture exchange. CSSASMU provides help to newcomers who may meet some difficulties at the beginning. We assist them to adapt to the new environment and get on to the right track as soon as possible.

CSSASMU builds an easy and happy environment for the Chinese students and scholars at Saint Mary's University. We organize regular entertainment and sports activities at weekends and holidays. After a day of busy study and work, students come to our activities to relax, enjoy and have fun.

CSSASMU promotes the communication between the Chinese community at the university and other organizations in the university and outside campus. CSSASMU works with them to provide opportunities of cultural exchange through culture events and social gatherings (i.e. SMU International Night, Nova Scotia Multicultural Festival, etc). Our common goal is to help the Chinese community successfully assimilate into Canadian society and make the life of Chinese at the university healthy and happy in Canada.

In the early days of CSSASMU, there were only 7 students. Since then, under the hard work of all the CSSASMU committee members, and with the great support from SMUSA and International Student Center at SMU, CSSASMU has grown in strength and has participated in numerous events. So far, CSSASMU has around 140 members. The membership is not only limited to Chinese from mainland China, but also includes students from Hong Kong, Taiwan, Canada, Malaysia, and Korea.

From Hongxin Wang, The President of CSSASMU, 2001-2003

MBA SOCIETY

It has been a fun and exciting year for the MBA society. Our great executive team successfully carried out society initiatives and has set high standards for next year's executive team.

Several teams enthusiastically participated in various intramural and sport activities as well as other community events including the Run for the Cure and the Terry Fox Run. A variety of social activities were organized by the society including potluck dinners, a pub crawl, Halloween party, and the end of the year formal held at the Prince George Hotel. Turnout to all activities and events was terrific and spirits were always high.

Rivalry between SMU and Dal MBA students escalated this year, with the hilarious Karaoke and Mustache Growing Competitions between the two schools, as well as the Gorsebrook Snow Follies. Of course, SMU won ALL challenges, proving that we really are heads and tails above the competition!!!

A particular highlight for this year's MBA society was its participation in the MBA Games held at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario. With close to 40 students participating in the spirit, athletic and academic events, placing first in the case competition and fourth overall, the games were a very exciting and memorable time for everyone involved. The MBA Games helped to solidify the "Sobey MBA" brand at a national level.

It has been an amazing experience, meeting new friends from across cultures and supporting each other through the challenges of the MBA. A big congratulations to all those graduating this year and good luck to those who are moving into their second year!

BERMUDA TRIANGLE SOCIETY

It was a righteous idea that a society be formed given the number of Bermudian students studying in Halifax, Nova Scotia. The society gives individuals an opportunity to adjust to a life away from home, to develop life-long friendships with others and develop various skills if one decided to join the executive committee of the society. This even allows the Bermuda Triangle group on a whole to exhibit and retain our culture, as well as learning and experiencing the existence of other cultures. It is truly amazing the number of times individuals approach us to ask about the "Bermuda Triangle", and the amount of people who believe Bermuda is apart of the Caribbean, but actually Bermuda is separate British colony in the Atlantic Ocean. Annual events usually include bowling, potluck dinner, games night, male/female auction, ski trip, and numerous parties to raise funds. . It is now increasingly important that students continue and possibly strengthen the Bermuda Triangle Society for the benefit of potential students in the future.

GEOLOGY SOCIETY

The D. Hope Simpson Geology Society enjoyed a very successful year. With the participation of many new members, the society took part in several activities, including the ever-enjoyable All-Science pub-crawls in September and January and we also took part in the All-Science End of Year Bash in March. Other activities that took place throughout the year included sea kayaking, a pool tournament, cosmic bowling, and the notorious Christmas Party and End of Year Banquet. The society also traveled to Fredericton for the AUGC in October and attended the AGS-NEGSA in Halifax in March. The executive for the 2002-03 year include: President – Scott Colbourne, Vice-President – Jeanine Chubbs, Treasurer – Jennifer Wadden, Secretary – Amber Cerezke, and Student Representative – Shaun Rhyno. The society would like to wish all graduating members the best of luck, and for the rest, hope to see you next year!

GAMBIA SOCIETY

The Gambia Project 2003

We are a committed group of students at Saint Mary's University studying International Development. More specifically, we are interested in the issues facing developing countries and the existent dynamics between countries in the world. The goal of those participating in the Gambia Project is to complete several courses taught by Professor Gerry Cameron at the University of the Gambia and to experience and learn about a new culture and a different way of life. Our studies in Banjul will consist of research methodology, field research, and learning about the socio-economic and political issues currently facing the region.

The Gambia Project has traditionally been one that has been almost completely student organized, thus we have been actively fundraising over the last two semesters to lessen the expenses of the trip.

Upon return to Canada, the ten of us hope to have gained an enhanced understanding of global dynamics and of West Africa in particular.

We would like to thank everyone including SMUSA and members of the Saint Mary's Administration that have helped us in our efforts through volunteering their time, financial contributions, and attending our events. We really appreciate your support!

We wish to extend a special thank-you to Professor Gerry Cameron for his continued encouragement, inspiration, and the immense energy he has put into making this trip a reality. We anticipate this trip to be one we won't soon forget, and hope that international educational opportunities will continue to be available to Saint Mary's students for years to come.

WUSC SOCIETY

World University Service of Canada (WUSC)

WUSC is a non-profit, non-governmental organization which involves Canadians in the field of international development in Canada and overseas. WUSC's mission is to foster human development and global understanding through education and training.

Saint Mary's local WUSC committee was re-established in September, with great enthusiasm from its members. The committee's main focus is the Student Refugee Sponsorship Program, which involves a lot of fundraising and support for our sponsored students. The SRSP is directed towards student refugees, who look for a chance to continue their post-secondary studies and resettle in Canada as landed immigrants. This year we are sponsoring a student from Afghanistan.

WUSC is also the United Nations Volunteer Program's cooperating agency and handles the recruitment process for Canadians and permanent residents on behalf of Geneva.

This Year's Major Accomplishments...

- Fundraising for the Student Refugee Sponsorship Program
- Creating a film documentary for future sponsored students about Canadian university culture.
- Documenting the history of WUSC and its sponsored students at Saint Mary's
- Organizing events for International Development Week in February

CRIMINOLOGY SOCIETY

The Criminology Society had an exciting and eventful year. First semester started out great with a very successful pub crawl. Throughout the year we had a variety of informative speakers, including a parole officer, the St. Leonard's Society, CSIS, and Opening Doors. We also had several unforgettable trips to correctional institutions throughout Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. For those who were involved in the society, we would like to thank you. Your contributions have made this year both memorable and enjoyable!

BIOLOGY SOCIETY

The Biology Society has been very active this past year. Not only have we aided society members with academics, but we have also partaken in many fun and exciting events. We went on the annual Cape Split hike in October and the annual weekend of hiking in the Margaree Valley, Cape Breton. We have held a number of smaller social nights including rock climbing at Ground Zero, pool nights at Dooly's, and miniputt.

This year the Atlantic University Undergraduate Biology Conference was held here at Saint Mary's where we had the opportunity to entertain students from all over the Atlantic Provinces, and share research with one another. We held tours to labs in the city (CFIA and NRC) to gain some knowledge about what goes on in a real working lab environment.

Of course we went on our yearly pub crawls in September and January. Finally, the end of the year party held at the Gorsebrook featuring Hadrian Seven rivaled the best parties held at Saint Mary's this past year.

Saint Mary's University

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada

A major theme running through the history of Saint Mary's from when it was a mere seedling in 1802 through to the present day is struggle and triumph against adversity. Getting the seedling going was arduous and must have been a great frustration to the person who planted it, Father Edmund Burke.

When he arrived in Halifax in the summer of 1801 as Vicar-General of Nova Scotia under the Roman Catholic Diocese of Quebec, he assessed the needs of his rather scattered flock and determined that an educational institution of higher learning was one of the most pressing needs of his people. A man of vision and great persistence, he saw clearly that the situation of his mostly Irish flock in Halifax could be ameliorated through education. This would provide them a major tool in fighting the prejudice, bigotry and suspicion under which two centuries of legal proscription had forced them to labour.

Edmund Burke was a graduate of the Irish College in Paris, the most prominent of several such colleges for the education of Irish Catholics which were scattered from Lisbon to Prague. This college system had been established by various crowned heads on the European continent to allow young Irishmen to pursue an education denied them at home under the notorious Penal Laws. These laws were described by another Edmund Burke, the 18th century political thinker, "a machine of wise and elaborate contrivance, and well fitted for the oppression, impoverishment, and degradation of a people and the debasement, in the eyes of human nature itself, as ever proceeded from the perverted ingenuity of man."

That same system of penal legislation was to confront Reverend Burke when he petitioned Governor Wentworth for permission to build a College in Halifax. That was in the spring of 1802. Alluding to the Penal Laws prohibiting Roman Catholics, derogatorily referred to as Papists, from operating schools or colleges, Wentworth denied Burke permission to build his school. This was despite the 1786 repeal of legislation forbidding Catholics to run schools. However, Burke persisted and in the fall of 1802 he wrote to Bishop Denault of Quebec "Our College is advancing quite expeditiously. It is a house of two stories with kitchen and dining hall in the basement, a cellar and storeroom, 60 feet by 40 feet within the walls."

Burke, like many Catholic ecclesiastics in Ireland throughout the period of penal restriction, resorted to giving the rudiments of an education privately in his house. Writing to the Bishop of Quebec in 1802 about a native of Philadelphia named Thomas McGuire who later became a priest in Quebec, Burke says "perhaps he has not extensive knowledge yet, but he can acquire that at my house." It must have seemed to him that he was back to his boyhood days when the "Hedge Schools" operated throughout the Catholic community in Ireland - a master, returned from one of the continental Colleges, would conduct an illegal school, frequently out of door in the gripe of a ditch, hence "Hedge School." Although the Penal Code in Ireland no longer made Catholic schools and colleges illegal, the pallor of their illegality in Nova Scotia was to continue until 1806 when an Irish Regiment headed by another Burke, Colonel John Burke of Marble Hill, County Galway arrived in Halifax.

John Burke was only twenty years of age when he took over a regiment raised by his father in Ireland to become part of the military build up against Napoleon. The Burkes of Marble Hill were devout Roman Catholics who despite the legal restrictions against their owning land had managed to retain their property, most likely through the agency of their Protestant cousins, the Earls of Clancard he had erected the College building in 1802. Following Bishop Burke's death in 1820, the idea of the College was kept alive by two of Burke's former students: John Ryan (1811-1837) a Halifax native studying in Rome to become a priest had left property and a valuable library of books to the Halifax college, and Lawrence O'Connor Doyle who convinced the trustees of Saint Mary's Parish to petition Bishop Fraser who had replaced Burke to have the College re-established. That was in 1838. Bishop Fraser replied positively to the request of the Saint Mary's trustees and as a result the Archbishop of Dublin sent out two priests to re-establish the college. The two priests were Father Lawrence Dease and Father Richard Baptist O'Brien. O'Brien had been somewhat reluctant to come out but apparently was convinced to do so by Mother Catherine McAuley, the founder of the Mercy Order of nuns. Both priests arrived in September of 1839.

On 1 January, 1840, Saint Mary's College opened in its new premises on the east side of Grafton Street near Spring Garden. According to the College prospectus, which was published in the Boston Globe on 1 February following, Saint Mary's offered a wide range of language courses including Greek and Hebrew. There was an array of courses in mathematics and the natural sciences as well as philosophy. A strong emphasis was placed on the students' abilities to express themselves in English.

Father Richard Baptist O'Brien was obviously a man of action. Within a year of his taking over Saint Mary's he had the trustees apply to the Nova Scotia legislature for a charter enabling the College to offer degrees. He and his colleague Father Dease were extremely popular with the Halifax Irish population. O'Brien had begun what today we would call extension courses wherein he taught English to a population which would have included a large number of Irish (Gaelic) speakers. He and Father Dease fell afoul of the oligarchy running the church in Halifax. There was a complex protracted dispute within the Catholic community about matters of jurisdiction and control of Church property and O'Brien and Dease were drawn into it. Bishop Fraser, a highland Scot, was the centre around which the controversy swirled in Irish dominated Halifax. Fraser as Bishop of Nova Scotia had moved his domicile out of Halifax to Arichat. O'Brien who was not reluctant to make his attitudes known, attracted Fraser's ire and as a consequence Saint Mary's bore the brunt of the Bishop's opprobrium. A number of clerical students left the college complaining of their treatment at the hands of students and faculty and Fraser bad-mouthed the education meted out at the College. It was not until after the appointment of Reverend William Walsh, an Irishman, as Apostolic Administrator of Halifax in 1844 and ultimately Bishop that matters became more settled.

The conflict between O'Brien and Fraser had more to do with style than substance. Fraser complained of the rather dashing way O'Brien dressed and the figure he cut in Halifax society. The portrait of O'Brien painted by William Valentine shows a man more secular in his dress than ecclesiastic, though it must be said that Catholic priests in a mixed community such as Halifax tended to dress in a fashion which would not draw attention to their priestly status.

Moreover, O'Brien while president of Saint Mary's was a man deeply involved in Irish politics - he was a personal friend of Daniel O'Connell - and consequently oriented to secular life and affairs. His friends included Lawrence O'Connor Doyle, Joseph Howe, Michael Tobin and most likely Richard John Uniacke. He was also on very friendly terms with D'Arcy McGee who, while editor of the Boston Pilot, made mention of his having visited O'Brien at Saint Mary's College, referring to O'Brien as "that gifted Divine." After his return to Ireland in 1845, O'Brien became more seriously involved in the politics of post-O'Connell Ireland. He became a professor at All Hallows College in Dublin; spent a period in Rome where he became a Doctor of Divinity and ultimately Vicar General of the Diocese of Limerick. He founded the Catholic Young Men's society, which boasted 100,000 members. His period in Nova Scotia was one of the most important formative influences in his life. A recent biographer claims that O'Brien's experience of political life in Canada with compromise as its pragmatic base had a significant impact on O'Brien and through him on the Protestant nationalist, Isaac Butt who was a friend of O'Brien. O'Brien's contacts with D'Arcy McGee were maintained after he left Nova Scotia and despite Joe Howe's rows with the Irish in Halifax in the 1860s, when Howe was in London in 1867 he took a by-pass to Limerick for a visit with his old friend Dean O'Brien.

Saint Mary's College was placed in the capable hands of Reverend Thomas Connolly after R.B. O'Brien's return to Ireland. Connolly presided over the affairs of the College from 1847 to 1852 when he was named Bishop of Saint John, New Brunswick. Six years later Connolly was back in Halifax succeeding Rt. Reverend William Walsh as Archbishop. Like R.B. O'Brien whom he had replaced as President of Saint Mary's, Archbishop Connolly was a practical man.

An aerial view of Campus in the early 1970's.

For some time to classrooms and offices, the McNally Building was once home to Saint Mary's students as a residence until it was converted in the early 70's.

Two years later he was succeeded by Reverend Richard Kearns. When the amalgamated University of Halifax failed in 1879, the Government refused the grant by which Saint Mary's had been able to operate and in 1881 the Trustees were forced to close the college. When the former President of Saint Dunstan's College in Charlottetown, Reverend Cornelius O'Brien succeeded to the Archdiocese of Halifax in 1883, he immediately set about attempting to re-open Saint Mary's. He made valiant efforts all during his episcopate to get the Jesuits, the Eudists, the Benedictine and the Irish Christian Brothers to take over the running of the institution. Like Bishop Burke before him, he refused to give up his ideal of a Catholic College in Halifax and ultimately he succeeded. To Archbishop O'Brien must go the credit for Saint Mary's survival into the modern era. He acquired the fifteen acre site at Windsor Street in 1902 and in 1903, three years before his death, laid the cornerstone of the new Saint Mary's which reopened in that year under the presidency of Rev. Edmund Kennedy. Archbishop O'Brien threw himself into reviving Saint Mary's almost literally, supervising the construction because he was unable to pay a contractor. Between 1903 and 1913 Saint Mary's attracted some extremely talented teachers who held degrees from such renowned universities as Oxford, Cambridge, Cork and London. Reverend Charles McManus became President in 1905 and held the position until 1912. In that year the financial precariousness of the College again called for some drastic action and negotiations began to have the College's affairs taken over by one of the religious orders. This time the Archdiocese was able to work out an arrangement with the Irish Christian Brothers and in 1913 a contract was signed between the Archdiocese and the Brothers for them to take over the affairs of Saint Mary's. Classes began on 8 September, 1913 under the direction of the Brothers who continued running Saint Mary's until 1940. When the Upper Canadian Province of the Jesuits took over the running of Saint Mary's in 1940 from the Irish Christian Brothers, Saint Mary's was one year away from the one hundredth anniversary of its degree granting status.

Saint Mary's struggle for existence from 1802 onwards has aspects of epic contention against "principalities & powers" with the gods and some dedicated human beings determining its ultimate survival; however, its physical embodiment was about to undergo the last of its periodic metamorphoses. The old College buildings on Windsor Street were to be replaced by the campus on Robie Street on the grounds of the Gorsebrook Estate. Archbishop McNally purchased the property in 1943 and the work of erecting what is called after him the McNally Building was put off until after the war. The raising of the money for the project from an impôt on the Archdiocese was fraught with difficulty and some deal of personal sacrifice. Suggestive of its origins in a penal era for Catholics in 1802, part of the stone for the new Saint Mary's building came from the Provincial Penitentiary on the shores of the North West Arm which was razed in April 1948. Construction started in the fall of 1949 and the building, at the time, the largest academic structure in Eastern Canada was ready of use in 1951. The modern era of Saint Mary's had begun and would reach another of its watersheds of development in 1970 when the Jesuits passed over their stewardship to a new and more secular constitution.

of sound intelligence. He was one of a minority of prelates to oppose the doctrine of Papal Infallibility at the Ecumenical Council in 1869-70 on pragmatic rather than theological grounds. He also felt as a citizen he had a right to express his political opinions publicly on the greatest question of the day, Confederation, of which he was a firm supporter. He attended the London Conference in 1866-67 as a proponent of a system of state supported confessional schools.

Archbishop Connolly brought the De La Salle Brothers to Halifax in 1865 to teach at Saint Mary's and they took over the operation of the College in 1867 which moved to a site on Belle-Aire Terrace. The De La Salle order gave over the direction of the College to the Archdiocese in 1876 when the Belle-Aire campus which moved again back to the Grafton Street site. This was the period when the University of Halifax was legislated into being; all the Nova Scotian Colleges and Mount Allison as well become part of a non-sectarian administration. Father Edward F. Murphy served as President of Saint Mary's in 1876;

ACCOUNTING SOCIETY

The Accounting Society has had a great year due to such a large turnout of 50 members. This year's council consisted of Carrie Davison as president, Sheila Bobbitt as vice president, Christa Webber as Secretary, and Scott Corkery as treasurer. We would also like to thank our third year representative, Brian Mombourquette for all of his help.

We had a chance to plan lots of activities this year, getting everyone involved. To start off the year we held our annual CA reception on the fourth floor of the Sobey Building. This was a chance for everyone to meet and greet with CA's from various firms in the Halifax/Dartmouth area to better understand what their jobs entailed. It also helped a lot of fourth year students with the recruitment process.

The Accounting Society also had the opportunity to hold its annual etiquette dinner at the Prince George Hotel. Those that attended were shown how to act when out on a business dinner with a possible employer. During the evening, everyone got a wonderful four course meal which was a change to the university student's normal diet of Kraft Dinner. On behalf of the Accounting Society, we would like to thank our two instructors Joanne Lymne and Elizabeth Chard for making the dinner such a success.

With all of this going on, we also had time to hold two pub crawls. We were all over town, starting at the Gorsebrook, and making it to six bars in total. Everyone had a great time.

Thank you to all of the Accounting Society members for making this year a great success. Hope to see you all in the fall.

The building of a strong foundation began in 1949 as the sod was turned on the Gorsebrook Golf Course and the construction of the McNally Building began.

of the religious orders. By historic irony the first order which Reverend Burke negotiated with and which came within a hair of coming to Halifax at that time was that of the Jesuits who finally came to conduct affairs at Burke's college in 1941 when it had evolved into Saint Mary's University.

Aside from the happy accident of Col. Burke's arrival in Halifax, other fortuitously situated persons and fortunate events came to encourage his aspirations for the education of his people. A number of Halifax Catholics of some wealth and influence assisted him. Mrs. Mary McDaniel left a valuable property to Bishop Burke for the fulfilment of his dreams of a college and Lawrence Doyle, a well-to-do Catholic merchant rented part of the College buildings on Barrington street when the realization of Father Burke's plans had to be delayed. It was in the College that Mr. Doyle's son, Lawrence O'Connor Doyle was born in 1804. Lawrence O'Connor Doyle got the rudiments of his education from Father Burke in the Glebe House College and in 1815 went on to complete his studies at the Jesuit run School at Stonyhurst, England. When he returned to Halifax, O'Connor Doyle took up the study of law in the office of another friend of Father Burke's, Richard John Uniacke.

It is clear that Richard John Uniacke was an ally of Father Burke and the Irish Catholics of Nova Scotia. Uniacke was an Irishman whose republican activities had caused his precipitous departure from Nova Scotia in 1776 and nearly ruined his hopes for a career. After his patronage manoeuvred return to Nova Scotia in 1781, Uniacke was not well regarded by the place holders in Halifax. His being a Protestant gave him legal enablement but his being as one described him "a great lubberly insolent Irish rebel" placed him outside the favored circle. Coming from a landed Irish family which had only recently conformed to the Established Church to save its lands, and having himself Catholic leaning and sympathies, Uniacke recognized implicitly the injustice of Roman Catholics being deprived of what today we would call civil rights. In 1786 he drafted and saw through the Nova Scotia Assembly an Act enabling Catholics to conduct schools. It was in his office where the petition to the colonial government in favor of full civil enablement for Roman Catholics was written. It was under Uniacke's tutelage also that the young Lawrence O'Connor Doyle read law to become the first Roman Catholic legal practitioner in Nova Scotia. And it was Uniacke's son, R.J. Uniacke, Jr., who successfully furthered the admission of Lawrence Kavanagh - a kinsman of O'Connor Doyle - as a member of the Nova Scotia Assembly to which Kavanagh's Roman Catholicism denied him entry.

Two years before his death Father Edmund Burke who had only recently been raised to the Episcopate was able to see a further stage of development of his College when a number of young men including his nephew John Carroll took up their studies in 1818. The ideal Burke had in mind was still someway down the road but much closer than it had been since who also bore the family name of Burke. Indeed John Burke's sister was married to the then Earl of Clanricard. It is unlikely that Reverend Edmund Burke was in any way closely related to Colonel John Burke; however, Colonel Burke took up the cause of his co-religionist in Halifax and intervened with the Governor. Father Burke wrote in a letter to Bishop Denault in 1806 "in spite of the efforts of the Bishop [Inglis] and his followers, Providence has given me a means of obtaining the governor's permission. A young man of the Catholic branch of the family of Burkes & brother-in-law of the Count of Clanricard of the Protestant branch, came here with his regiment. I spoke to him, he spoke to the governor and the business was done in an instant."

With the legal status of the seminary clarified, Reverend Burke began his campaign to have his college in Halifax fully established. It seems clear that his aim was to have a college which would meet the standards set out by Cardinal Antonelli, head of Propaganda Fidei in Rome, one of which was that such seminaries should be under the direction of

A CELEBRATION 1802-2002

Tradition met the future in May 2002, when the year long celebration of Saint Mary's founding officially began. Anticipation was noticeable around campus for what has proved to be a memorable year of events during the 200th Anniversary Celebration. Upwards of 100 volunteers representing faculty, staff, students, and the community have formed the 200th Anniversary Steering Committee and its eight sub-committees. They were responsible for planning a broad spectrum of events designed to include everyone affiliated with Saint Mary's University. Keith Hotchkiss, Chair of the Special Events Committee, was especially excited to see the Celebration coming together. He said, "It's nice to work with students, colleagues, and alumni to put something of this magnitude together. It's going to be an exciting year for everyone connected to Saint Mary's University."

A 200th anniversary logo was highly visible, appearing on letterhead, brochures, print advertising, the web site, and varsity uniforms during the year long celebration. The logo is simple and provided a focus for the Anniversary. In December 2001, a fifty foot banner was hung over the field of the SkyDome in Toronto during the Vanier Cup. The national champion football Huskies also wore a special crest on the uniforms symbolizing Saint Mary's 200 years of history.

May 21, 2002 marked the first of three plaques unveiled at the past and present Saint Mary's campus locations. The first was unveiled at the Glebe House on the corner of Spring Garden Road and Barrington Street. This is the location where Father (later Bishop) Edmund Burke constructed a college for young men in Halifax in 1802. The Windsor Street campus, constructed at the beginning of the 20th century, had a plaque unveiling during the 2002 Homecoming Weekend. The third plaque was unveiled at Saint Mary's University during the Spring Convocation Ceremony of 2003.

Canada Post issued a commemorative stamp to mark Saint Mary's 200th Anniversary. This is a significant honour as few anniversaries and celebrations are granted the opportunity to share their milestone with the rest of the country. The 48-cent stamp featuring the university will be sought after by collectors. Eight years ago, Ron Lewis, recently retired University Librarian and Chair of Senate had the idea to pursue a stamp for the upcoming anniversary. His idea became a reality with the assistance of Senator Wilfred Moore, a Saint Mary's alumnus.

an Lewis and Kimberly Dunn, Saint Mary's Public Affairs, acted as messengers between the University and Canada Post. The official unveiling of the stamp was on May 15, 2002.

The province provided a great deal of support for the celebration. For example, The Lieutenant Governor hosted a reception in celebration of the anniversary. In May 2002, medal recipients and students graduating with honours were recognized by having their names placed in the President's Hall of Academic Excellence. These names have appeared on plaques lining the hall outside the President's office. Academic records from past years will be searched as far as the records will allow and past students will be honoured for their academic accomplishments.

A comprehensive history of Saint Mary's University will be written over the next ten years. A pictorial history of Saint Mary's University and College has been created by Anne West, past public affairs officer. The book includes photographs collected from the University Archives to capture pivotal moments in Saint Mary's history.

The 200th Anniversary celebration events extended beyond the Saint Mary's campus. During the International Tattoo held at the Halifax Metro Centre, Dr. Colin Dodds took the salute at a special night dedicated to Saint Mary's University. The floral bed at the MacKay Bridge bore the 200th Anniversary Celebration logo during the summer months of 2002. It was visible to over 60,000 bridge users every day. At the Canadian Embassy in Washington, there was an All-Canadian Alumni Reception with a focus on Saint Mary's University's anniversary. Other events included a Catholic Mass of thanks held at Saint Mary's Basilica on December 8, 2002 and an interfaith service that was tied in with the Spring 2003 convocation ceremony.

Dr. Colin Dodds spoke with enthusiasm about the anniversary. "It will celebrate our rich history of service to students, commitment to accessibility and community outreach. It will also permit us to welcome our future as a dynamic and innovative leader in post-secondary education."

Life in Residence

The Students of Loyola, Rice, and Vanier Residences 2002 - 2003

Residence life is truly unique and unforgettable. The friendships made in residence can last a lifetime and stay strong through even the toughest of times. With approximately 1,100 students living in residence, the Saint Mary's University campus is always buzzing with activity. Some of this year's residence highlights were the Battle of the Floors, Rice/Loyola hockey and basketball games, and the annual Residence Banquet.

MIDNIGHT MADNESS BROOMBALL

Every year, the intramural department holds a night of madness where student teams from Saint Mary's come out and battle for the broomball title. The fun starts at midnight and goes until a winner comes through. Although the sense of competition is high, the goal to have fun takes the night over. The teams gathered at the Gorsebrook with their sneakers and helmets to have some drinks and plan a strategy before the commencement of the tournament. Some teams dressed to impress and impress they did. Their slick team costumes could not save them from the slippery ice as many spills were taken throughout the night and even a call for paramedics was made. Thankfully the night went without any serious injuries. Without a doubt there were many bruises which led to some amusing stories on the days following the tournament and it was obvious that everyone had a great time. The title went to "The Winning One" who were undefeated all night.

The night was filled with enthusiasm. Although players got tired, they stuck it out and played all night

Let the games begin...

Almost 250 brave resident students poured into Alumni Arena on the afternoon of Friday February 7th, 2003 to witness the spectacle that has become the Annual Loyola versus Rice Residence Challenge Hockey game. After Rice barked Loyola's ear off all week, the bigger of the two residences came out strong and opened up the scoring just three minutes into the contest when Bryan Shannon tallied the games first goal. Rice wouldn't let the momentum get the better of them; however, as they replied with two of their own just two minutes apart, the second being a beautiful snipe by the always popular Mike "Grubby" Graham.

With the fans restless for a donnybrook, the second began with Rice lighting the red lamp back to back times as both Andrew Walker and Ryan Foley found twine. Graham for Rice got the second part of his "hattrick" as he assisted on Walker's goal. Loyola would cut the lead in half a minute later, but would only muster one more goal to Rice's five including three unanswered to finish the game off in the third.

Rice would be the big winner in the end as they marched to a comfortable 9-4 victory. Ryan Chapman was named player of the game for Rice with two goals and an assist and Brad Ritcey was named Loyola player of the game.

Loyola - Rice Hockey

This year marked the first time in three years that a Loyola vs. Rice basketball challenge joined the Annual Hockey Challenge festivities and it may be three more before Loyola wins. In a sign of what was to come, the Rice basketball team took charge of their arch-rivals from the opening tip off, as the team would begin the game on an 18-0 run. Loyola scored their first hoop almost four minutes into the game. High jumper James Wheeler would bring the crowd to its feet as he threw down a two handed baseline cram late in the first half to put Rice up by 20 at halftime. Although they were losing, Loyola would not back down. Bob Barker was everywhere to start the second half and along with two deep three point hoops from Kyle Lohnes, would pull Loyola to within 12. But they would get no closer as Rice's dynamic backcourt of Shaun Hirtle and Jaime Gaudet would take over. Defense was the story down the stretch as Loyola failed to mount a comeback and would eventually be toppled by a 39 point margin, 90-51 when the final buzzer went. Hirtle was named Rice/Vanier team MVP after a game high 21pts, and Barker was named the MVP of the Loyola crew with a team high 11 points.

Entering the 2002 season the Saint Mary's football Huskies knew that they were going to be in tough to repeat as champions. While still favored to take the AUS title, the Huskies had the arduous task of repeating while all of their competitors relished the idea of knocking off the defending champions. Couple that with the key losses SMU had suffered in the offseason: quarterback Ryan Jones, running back Luis Perez and defensive standout Kyle Morrison, just to name a few, and you had a young roster that would have to stand tall for the maroon and white to repeat.

The season started with a couple of hard fought victories, as on opening weekend SMU knocked off the upstart St FX Men 38-21 before heading off to Quebec to compete in the first ever AUS vs. QIFC interlocking regular season game. The Huskies squared off against rivals Laval, who knocked off the Huskies in the 1999 Vanier Cup, two years before the Huskies eliminated them in the 2001 Atlantic Bowl. Adding more fuel to the fire was the simple fact that the teams entered ranked #1 and #2 in the country. In the end a last second field goal silenced the hostile crowd and elevated the Huskies to a 26-24 victory. After a win at Acadia the wheels fell off for the maroon and white, as SMU would lose two in a row to the aforementioned Axemen and the St FX X-Men. Both games would be marred by sloppy field conditions and subsequently sloppy play, with SMU eventually falling in a pair of ugly games. The losses did little but motivate the Huskies, as SMU would rattle off three straight victories to end the regular season outscoring their opponents 179-20.

SMU faced St FX in the AUS finals, a game that marked the first meeting between the two since X had knocked off the Huskies in week five. SMU left no doubt as to who the better team was on this day, smiting the X-Men 63-14.

With the victory SMU advanced into the first ever Mitchell Bowl held in Hamilton Ontario. The Huskies would square off against the McMaster Marauders on a natural turf field with questionable weather. As the conditions matched those of two earlier losses for Saint Mary's, people were immediately concerned. SMU would prevail, however; knocking off the hometown Marauders by a 36-25 score and punching their ticket to the Vanier Cup.

After experiencing a number of lean years at Saint Mary's, filled with numerous close calls as the Huskies experienced losses in the Vanier Cup four times in the twelve years, the floodgates burst open with a pair of National Championships in 2001 and 2002.

In the all-Huskies final that pitted SMU against the Huskies of Saskatchewan, both teams dogged through a hard fought first half. The scoreline seesawed, with Saskatchewan holding a slim five point lead before a breakout drive in the dying seconds of the half elevated SMU to a 23-21 halftime lead. The duel continued in the second half, as both teams were shutout in the third quarter, setting up a final fifteen minutes that saw Saint Mary's hold a precarious two-point lead. The final quarter would be all maroon and white, as the Huskies would post ten points to take the victory 33-21, handing them their second national championship.

Next season the Huskies will attempt to become the first team in CIS history to win three consecutive Vanier Cups. The road will be long; however, as SMU had to say goodbye to a host of key players this year. Playing in their final games were linebacker Joe Bonaventura, running back Dean Jones, receivers Jason Currie and Paul Fleming, O-line men Colin Oldreive, John Salmas, Kris Sembalerus and potentially Steve Morley who may go pro. Defensive keystones Pierre-Paul Haut, Dennis Arruda and Cartier Shields have also finished their careers on a high note.

Vanier Cup

For the first time in twenty-five years, the Vanier Cup champions of a year ago were able to repeat their victory, and continue to claim to be the best team in Canada. After experiencing a number of lean years at Saint Mary's, filled with numerous close calls as the Huskies experienced losses in the Vanier Cup four times in the past twelve years, the floodgates burst open with a pair of National Championships in 2001 and 2002.

In the all-Huskies final that pitted SMU against the Huskies of Saskatchewan, both teams dogged through a hard fought first half. The scoreline seesawed, with Saskatchewan holding a slim five point lead before a breakout drive in the dying seconds of the half elevated SMU to a 23-21 halftime lead. The duel continued in the second half, as both teams were shutout in the third quarter, setting up a final fifteen minutes that saw Saint Mary's hold a precarious two-point lead. The fourth quarter would be all maroon and white, as the Huskies would post ten points to take the victory 33-21, handing them their second national championship.

The victory set up an historic 2003 campaign in which the Huskies will attempt to become the first team ever to win three consecutive Vanier Cups.

Men's Soccer

The Saint Mary's men's soccer team had a lot to live up to coming into this season. SMU finished undefeated last year, and yet were unable to win the national championship that was hosted here at home. The Huskies were also hoping to add a third-straight AUS championship banner to the collection on display at the Tower. The bar was set pretty high for the maroon and white, and unfortunately they would be unable to answer.

SMU had a good showing in the regular season, racking up a record of 7-2-2, good enough for second place in the East division. The Huskies proved they were able to compete with anyone in the league, handing UPEI their only loss of the season (4-0) and tying Dalhousie 1-1, who won all but three of their contests on the year. SMU prepared for the AUS playoffs, held this year at UPEI, where the Huskies would match up against hapless UNB (4-7-1) in the first round.

The opening round of the AUS men's soccer playoffs went pretty much to form, as a vastly superior SMU squad thumped the Red's 5-0 to advance to the semi-finals. In the second round the Huskies drew the favoured UPEI, who had finished the regular season with the best record in the AUS. SMU entered confident; however, as they did not have the distinction of being the only club to defeat the panthers all year. In the end the hometown Panthers would use their crowd to elevate them to victory, downing the Huskies 1-0 in a hard fought contest. UPEI would furthermore go on to win the banner that had belonged to SMU for the past two years.

SMU, who suffered a number of key personnel losses last season, suffered the same fate this season, as the 2002 campaign marked the end of a number of great maroon and white careers. Forward Brad Kickham, goalkeeper Carlos Loureiro, sweeper Blake Geddis and midfielders Daniel Fournier and Peter Lawrence all said goodbyes to SMU this year.

Women's Soccer

The Saint Mary's lady Huskies soccer squad had no where to go but up this season, and up they certainly went. In 2001 SMU had an abysmal record of 3-6-1, tied for fourth in the East division and barely good enough for a playoff spot. The Huskies hoped to improve on their first round playoff exit from a year ago: still, no one quite expected the success to come so fast.

The lady Huskies quickly made everyone forget about the poor season last year, as they stormed off the gate in the regular season, losing only one game all year on their way to a record of 8-1-4, good enough for first place in the East division. SMU was awarded a first round bye in the AUS tournament that was hosted in the friendly confines of Huskies Stadium.

SMU squared off against rivals Dalhousie in the semi-finals, after the Tigers made short work of St. FX X-Women. SMU and Dal would battle in a classic tilt, with the Huskies eventually turning up victorious by a narrow 1-0 margin. The stage was set for a SMU vs. UCCB final. UCCB had sports record of 9-0-4 in the regular season, the only record better than the Huskies. In the only meeting between the two during the regular season the teams proved too evenly matched to solve the contest, the score being tied at 1-1. This match up would prove just as hard call. After 90 minutes the teams would remain deadlocked at 1-1. After a brief golden goal session that still failed to provide the game with a winner the teams were headed to penalties. The Huskies scored on all of their attempts, locking up the first banner in a decade for the lady Huskies, and sending the team to Alberta to contend for national crown. Out west the Huskies would not fare as well, losing to eventual champions UBC 4-1 as well as Western (2-0) to end the season.

This year was nothing but a great success for the Huskies, who now seem back on track and are eagerly awaiting the opportunity to defend their crown next year. SMU lost a little leadership at the end of the year, however, as a trio of fifth year defenders will not be back for another tour. Danielle Hotchkiss, Erin Keating and Crystal MacArthur have all completed their careers on truly high notes.

For the past couple of years Saint Mary's has had a stranglehold on AUS varsity field hockey. The SMU lady Huskies broke up an eleven year run of AUS titles by the UNB Varsity (in 2000) and simply haven't looked back, adding a title in 2001, and looking to be the dominant force in the league in 2002. The maroon and white would not disappoint, as the regular season would just be the start to their success.

SMU rattled off a record of 7-1 in the regular season, proving to be considerably better than their opposition on numerous occasions. UPEI finished second in the conference, a distant second behind with a record of 2-3-3. In the playoffs the Huskies awaited the winner of the UNB vs. UNB playdown, that would surprisingly end in a Reds victory by a score of 2-0. The championship game would be a different story, however, as the Huskies would make short work of their championship rivals, knocking off the Reds 2-0. Both SMU and UNB would advance to national championships, as the AUS was awarded a host birth with the games taking place at the stadium.

The teams from the west proved to be a little too strong for the Atlantic conference, as they would be forced to play two games in one day, losing them both (3-0 to Toronto and 7-0 to UPEI). The losses forced the Huskies to meet the Reds once again in the fifth place game. The game would be tied 1-1 at the end of regulation before AUS MVP Genevieve Gay would lift the Huskies to victory and fifth place in the country.

The Huskies are only forced to say goodbye to a single player for eligibility reasons this year, but she is certainly a key component, as Tara O'Reilly has played in her fifth and final year with the maroon and white. The former AUS MVP and First Team All-Canadian is sure to be missed in the 2003 quest for four in a row.

The Saint Mary's lady Huskies rugby squad enjoyed another successful season this year, eventually falling in the finals for the second time in two years. The Huskies enjoyed a great regular season, amassing a record of 5-1, including a 17-0 victory over Acadia, a 10-7 victory over UPEI and a 12-10 victory over rivals Dalhousie. The Huskies' exemplary record matched them up against Dalhousie in the AUS semi-final, with the winner meeting X in the finals.

Dalhousie entered the game with a regular season record of 3-2-1, good enough to be third in the AUS. The Huskies fought hard against the Tigers, and in the end they prevailed, knocking off Dal 12-8 to advance to yet another AUS final.

In the four-year existence of women's varsity rugby in the AUS, no team has been able to touch St FX. The X-Women had one four straight AUS titles, including 2011 when they knocked off favored SMU 13-10 in the Nova Scotia final. X had their sights firmly set on their fifth straight title when the two teams squared off for the second time in twelve months with everything on the line. On this day the X-Women proved too strong, as they would knock off the Huskies by a 23-7 score. For the second year in a row, second place would have to do, leaving SMU to dream of next year.

With lots of promising young talent, Huskies Rugby has a bright future, but the program will certainly miss the contributions and dedication of graduating players Melissa Allaby, Sabrina Fava, Jenny Walker, Jill Watters, Kim Spinney, and Gretchen Tanner.

Cross Country

The Saint Mary's University Cross Country team ran strong this year with a lot to be proud of. From the men's team, Adam Schaus placed in the top ten of the three regular season races he ran. In the second race of the season, Schaus took second place with a time of 24:50.5. Ken Fraser also had a great year making the top ten of the three races he ran, and he found his way to the CIS championships where he placed a respectable 8th among 232 runners.

The women's team had a great year as well. Jesse Benjamin proved to be an asset to the team as she placed in the top ten twice in regular season races. Kristen Woodruff was the first place runner in two of the races she ran in regular season. Kristen continued on to win the AUS conference title and earned her spot in the CIS race. On Saturday, November 9th at the 23rd Annual Women's Cross Country Championships in London Ontario, Kristen was on her way to the podium to receive the silver medal and become one of the best varsity distance runners in Canada. She finished with a time of 17:57.

This year's edition of the Saint Mary's men's basketball team had high hopes of interrupting three consecutive AUS championships. After losing to the X-Men in the finals last season, the red and white had X in their sights as the 2002-03 season began. In the end, an upstart team of freshmen would step out of the shadows to win their first title in more than fourteen years.

SMU knew that the road to the championship would be hard, especially as the team was forced to deal with the loss of first team all-conference guard Nate Anderson. Fourth year Haligonian Gabe Goree made a giant leap in contribution, however, easing the point gap left by Anderson. Goree would lead the team to a 13-7 record, second in the Baldwin division behind rivals St FX. Goree's performance did not go unnoticed, as he received the AUBC MVP award for his efforts.

In the AUS tournament, held in the Halifax Forum, SMU eliminated Dalhousie in the first round easily handling Acadia (71-59) in the semi-finals. The UPEI Panthers, who finished second in the division, would end St FX's run of championships as they downed the powerhouse 72-71 in the final. The SMU vs. UPEI final was a hard fought contest in which a young UPEI squad outplayed the Huskies, denying SMU's bid for their first title in four years, and in fact granting the Island its first championship since 1988-89.

SMU's second place performance was still good enough for the Huskies to book themselves a spot in the CIS Final 8 tournament at the Halifax Metro Centre. After an impressive first half in their final game against Alberta, the Huskies enjoyed a lead of fourteen points. The lead would not last, however, and a poor second half allowed the Golden Bears to take the lead and the game (66-59) dashing hopes for a National title. In the consolation round SMU got past number two UBC (74-72), before bumping up once again with UPEI in the consolation final. Once again SMU would come out on the short end of the stick as the Huskies would be defeated in double overtime 82-74.

SMU may be able to hold on to their entire squad for next season, as they don't have a single player who is out of eligibility. That being said, numerous fourth year players have been mentioned as leaving, forcing fans to sit and wait for what the offseason holds.

The Saint Mary's lady Huskies basketball team were looking to breakout this season, as a few consecutive mediocre seasons has had the team's core aging, instilling a do or die attitude into this season. Once again the Huskies were led into battle by former All-Canadian Julie Galipeau, as she would once again be named All-Conference while leading the Huskies offensively and defensively.

SMU ran to a 10-10 record, identical to last year's record, good enough for second place in the Baldwin Division. The record meant that the Huskies would square off against UPEI (8-12) in the first round of the AUS Sensational Six, held this year at Memorial University in Newfoundland.

Galipeau would post MVP like numbers in the game, knocking down 25 points as well as adding 19 rebounds to lead Saint Mary's to a 54-42 victory, and advancing the Huskies on to face UCCB (18-2 first place in the Nelson). The Capers would prove to be too much for the Huskies, eliminating them from competition 68-56.

SMU will be forced to say goodbye to guard Katharina Heiser who will be returning to her native Austria to continue her studies. Time will also continue to be of the essence for the Huskies, as Julie Galipeau, the team's brightest star in quite some time, will be entering her fifth and final year of eligibility.

Women's Hockey

The Saint Mary's Lady Huskies have been enjoying another stellar regular season, culminating with a perfect 14-0 record, and first place heading into the playoffs this past week. Head Coach Lisa MacDonald built a quality program here at Saint Mary's, that looked to take the next step this season. After winning the inaugural title in women's varsity hockey in 1998, SMU watched the conference settle into a stranglehold in FX's hands, winning the title each of the past four seasons. This year the Huskies knocked off St. F.X. two 4-0 and 3-1, placing the advantage squarely in the SMU's court heading the playoffs, held appropriately at FX.

SMU's record allowed them a bye in the first round, which enabled them to sit back and watch the competition leisurely. The results meant that SMU would square off against the UdeM Blue Eagles, a team the Huskies were able to handle with ease to that point in the season. That day would be no different, as SMU would skate to a comfortable 8-0 victory over the Moncton squad, booking SMU's ticket to the AUS finals.

Despite outscoring the X-Women 7-1 in the regular season, the combination of the home crowd and the playoff attitude allowed X to hang with the lady Huskies, and the two teams were deadlocked at 1-1 after the end of regulation. The first frame of overtime would solve nothing, but in the second extra frame the Huskies would break through, elevating themselves to their first title in five years, with the final being 3-2.

SMU then journeyed on to Regina to take place in the National Championship tournament. The teams from out west would prove to be too much for the Huskies, as the maroon and white were forced to watch their great season end on a sour note, with three consecutive losses by a combined score of 30-3.

All in all the season was a great success, however, as the Huskies were able to return to the top of the conference, thanks in large part to coach Lisa MacDonald (recognized with the coach of the year award) and Kerrie Boyle named the league MVP.

Parity was easily the best word used to describe the AUHC this past season, as all eight of the conference's teams remained in contention as the schedule hit its final month. The Huskies had the unenviable task of attempting to repeat in a conference that has only had one repeat winner in the last decade. SMU suffered some serious personnel losses in the offseason, starting with captain Jim Midgley, who has also led the team in the past for each of the past three seasons. Other losses included defensive standouts Steve Gallace and Robin DeLaCour, assistant captain Travis Kelly and sparkplug Alex Halat. With all of these losses in mind, SMU was going to require some big performances from their freshmen class, as well as their tandem of third-year goaltenders in Nick Foley and Brent Zelenewich.

By the Christmas break the Huskies had amassed 17 points, just one less than the championship season before through the same amount of games. The second half was just as up and down, and with a month remaining in the season just seven points separated first place from last. The competition meant that the Huskies would find themselves in first place one week and completely out of the playoff picture just a few weeks later. As the table settled at the end of the season, the St Thomas Tommies, last place just a year ago, had skated to the regular season championship, while the Huskies were forced to settle for fourth place with 31 points.

SMU would meet UNB in the first round of the playoffs. The Varsity Reds were a bit of a stigma themselves during the regular season, as many had expected them to contend for the national title yet without a good last segment of the season they would not have even made the playoffs. Some also suspected that the Reds lacked motivation, as the team already had a berth in the National Championship booked as the host bid. In the end, however, the rolling Reds would not be too much, as they would continue to ride their momentum to a two game sweep of the Huskies (2-0 and 3-1), eliminating SMU in the first round just a year removed from their national championship.

Everything the Huskies needed they got from their squad, beginning at the back, as Zelenewich and Foley played admirably, being consistently ranked among the conference's best goaltenders. Rookies stepped up as well, as Kurt MacSweyn and Aaron Van Leusen chipped in with points for the maroon and white. This season also forces the Huskies to say goodbye to a few integral components as captain Jeff Tetzlaff and Jason Cannon are among those not coming back next season.

Planning for this year's grad class events began back in January and things really started to take shape in the weeks leading up to Convocation. The "Historical Tour of Downtown" kicked things off on Saturday, May 17th and those in the Class of 2003 and their friends had an awesome time, especially when DJ Pillz infiltrated the booth at Merrill's and put a more personal "spin" on the tunes. After a day of recovery, we had the Harbour Cruise on the Harbour Queen Monday evening. This night had a more laid back vibe and proved to be a perfect time to have a few and shoot the breeze with others in the graduating class. Tuesday night was the Farewell to the Gorsebrook and as with every year, proved to be the most popular event. By the end of the evening everyone was having a great time and a few even made their way to the dance floor to get their groove on. The last of the events organized by the Grad Class Executive was Karaoke Night and although there was a smaller crowd in attendance, everyone had a good time trying their hand at signing (or butchering in the case of the Executive) a tune or two. The Baccalaureate Service was held in the Art Gallery on Thursday and was followed by a reception sponsored by the President's Office. This was a very special event for grads and their families and a special thanks goes to Father Con Mulvihill for planning the service and to the President's Office for providing the food for the reception. A special thanks also goes to all those who helped with the planning of events, including Keith Hotchkiss, Mary-Ellen MacEachern, Rob Finn and Graeme MacKenzie. The week came to a close with Convocation on Friday, May 23rd, and as they say, "all good things must come to an end", but now it's time for us to take what we learned at Saint Mary's and look to the future. On behalf of your Grad Class Executive I would like to wish you all the best of luck in the coming years and I look forward to seeing you at the reunions. - I.M.
