INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the 1993/94 edition of the Saint Mary's University Fact Book. This document is intended to provide the university community with information on the principal characteristics of Saint Mary's in a concise, consistent, and relevant manner.

I would like to extend my appreciation to all those in the university who assisted in any way in the publication of the Fact Book. Special words of thanks are extended to: Mr. Murray Wilson, Associate Registrar; Mr. Roger MacEachern, Applications/Analyst, Management Information Systems and Mrs. Gloria Jewers, Secretary to the Vice-President (Administration).

All the information in the last edition of the Fact Book has been updated. Any comments or suggestions for changes and improvements to this publication would be greatly appreciated. I look forward to hearing from you.

DEFINITIONS

1. Full-time Student: student enrolled in three or more courses in one semester.
2. Part-time Student: student enrolled in fewer than three courses in one semester.
3. Special Student: student working toward a degree at an academic institution other than Saint Mary's, who has a letter of permission to take a course or courses at Saint Mary's.
4. Upgrading Student: student who already holds an undergraduate degree or professional certificate who is taking additional courses at Saint Mary's.
5. Non-degree Student: student taking a course or courses who has not been accepted into a degree programme at Saint Mary's.
6. Course registration: one course registration is equivalent to one student enrolled in one full-unit course.

STATEMENT OF MISSION

Saint Mary's University is dedicated to public accessibility and regional, national, and international outreach. As a comprehensive, predominantly undergraduate institution located in a major metropolitan area, Saint Mary's offers an undergraduate liberal education in arts and sciences; professional programs in commerce, criminology, education, and engineering; and select graduate programs.

Saint Mary's University is committed to pursuing excellence in:

- teaching, in its many facets;
- research, including special emphasis on the involvement of undergraduate students;
- outreach to regional, national and international communities; and
- service to its students

From this pursuit of excellence comes a commitment to:

- be innovative and forward looking;
- provide access to qualified applicants and be a resource to the community, responsive to the needs of all its groups, particularly those groups that have traditionally been under-represented;
- ensure the University's students receive the highest quality service from the administrative and academic staff;
- provide a university environment that is conducive to the intellectual and personal development of students, faculty, and staff and one that will meet the competitive challenges of the next decade and beyond;
- advance scholarship;
- develop programs to their fullest extent in areas where the University has particular strength;
- pursue linkages across disciplines within the institution;
- offer an extensive program of credit and noncredit courses, both on and off campus and at a distance;
- reach out and provide leadership to the regional, national, and international community by cooperating with businesses, government agencies, and other academic institutions;
- strengthen and broaden the University's international linkages
- practice fiscal responsibility.

HISTORY SAINT MARY'S UNIVERSITY

Since its founding in 1802, Saint Mary's University has developed into a modern, urban university with approximately 7,900 full- and part-time students. It is the oldest English-speaking Roman Catholic initiated university in Canada. With meagre resources, the Reverend Edmund Burke founded the institution and, on being named Bishop of Nova Scotia, insisted that support for the college be continued as essential in fostering the Catholic community.

In 1841 the Nova Scotia House of Assembly gave formal recognition to the college's academic role and, eleven years later, granted it legal status. Over the next few years, there was a great deal of uncertainty about the survival of the college. In 1913, however, the Christian Brothers of Ireland were asked by the Archdiocese of Halifax to direct the college and its academic programs. Its reputation as a liberal arts institution thrived in these years. Undergraduate programs were widely respected and new instructional programs were initiated, the most notable being the Faculty of Commerce which, when established in 1934, was among the first of its kind in Canada. In 1940, the Upper Canada Province of the Society of Jesus (the Jesuits) was invited to succeed the Christian Brothers as administrators and teachers. For more than thirty years, until the new Act of Incorporation in 1970, the college remained under Jesuit supervision. It established itself in teacher education; initiated the first courses in continuing education in Halifax/Dartmouth; purchased the first computer in Atlantic Canada; and became co-educational. Also, the long-standing emphasis on liberal arts and commerce was complemented by new programs in engineering and science. The Act of 1970 gave legal status to the Board of Governors and Senate. Subject to the powers of the Board, the Senate is responsible for the educational policy of the University. In 1974, faculty members formed the Faculty Union which has become an influential voice in the affairs of the University.

From the Jesuits and their predecessors, Saint Mary's has inherited a strong commitment to meeting community needs and an equally strong tradition of emphasising excellence in teaching and excellence in research. During the past two decades, Saint Mary's has evolved into a more complex urban university, with a full range of undergraduate programs in arts, commerce, education, and science. Now a publicly accessible, co-educational institution, functioning with a sense of its tradition, the University also offers pre-professional programs in law, medicine, engineering, theology, dentistry, architecture, and selected graduate studies. Through the efforts of the Division of Continuing Education, the number of part-time students studying in these programs and in a variety of non-credit programs have rapidly expanded at several geographic locations.

Over the last twenty years, this commitment to academic and research excellence has seen the number of full-time faculty with doctoral degrees rise to 85 percent. Part-time faculty members are recruited on the strength of academic qualifications in addition to the expertise and experience they can bring to the classroom.

More dramatic evidence of faculty enrichment is demonstrated by their research activities. In the last ten years, sponsored contract and academic research has increased from $250,000 to more than $4,200,000. This 1,580 percent increase reflects the University's firm belief that excellence in both teaching and research are essential for professors and that research is an integral part of the contribution that universities must make to society.

The quality of instruction to students has been a focal point of Saint Mary's University since its founding. This long-standing tradition of commitment to excellence in teaching has seen the introduction of new initiatives. The Quality of Teaching Committee has assisted faculty members by offering workshops on instructional techniques and innovations in teaching methodology including the use of computers, and awards for Teaching and Research Excellence are presented annually to members of faculty. In addition, several members of faculty have won regional and national awards for teaching.

Approximately 8000 students are enrolled during the academic year at Saint Mary's University. They attend day and evening classes both on the 30-acre campus in the south end of Halifax and at off-campus locations, including the World Trade and Convention Centre in downtown Halifax, and in Dartmouth, Truro, as well as other communities. Saint Mary's has residence facilities for single and married students, a Student Centre, Science Building, the Patrick Power Library, which is linked via computer to several other Halifax-Dartmouth universities as well as the University College of Cape Breton, a multi-million dollar Computer Centre, and "The Tower", which is Atlantic Canada's most modern recreation and fitness complex. Over the last number of years, Saint Mary's University has become a teaching and research institution where tradition meets the future.

The traditions formed by its founder and early teachers, built upon by the sound educational values of the Christian Brothers and strengthened by the imaginative leadership of the Jesuits, provide a stable base for future development. Saint Mary's has been innovative in seeking co-operative ventures with other Maritime universities. The results have included the Regional X-Ray Fluorescence Laboratory as well as the Gorsebrook Research Institute which contributes to the understanding of our regional culture within a national context. In response to the imperative that modern universities increase their outlook and outreach to other parts of the world, Saint Mary's University houses the Canada-China Language and Cultural Project. Our "internationalization" has also seen formal teaching and research agreements signed with universities in countries around the world including Japan, the United States, Bermuda, England, Norway, and China. The Atlantic Centre of Research, Access, and Support for Disabled Students has grown remarkably over the last several years. This Centre provides a variety of support to an increasingly important sector of our student population. It also provides assistance to disabled students studying at other Maritime post-secondary institutions.

Saint Mary's University concentrates on its mission of providing excellence in its service to students and the larger community around the campus. Its reputation is one of quality education in a campus environment where individual development is paramount. Saint Mary's student population is drawn largely from within Halifax County, with 67¹ per cent of its students from this area. Nova Scotia is the home province of 86¹ per cent of Saint Mary's students. There is also a distinct global aspect to the University with 239 international students from places such as Antigua, Barbados, Bermuda, China, Hong Kong, Japan, St. Lucia, and the United States. Saint Mary's is ambitiously pursuing a goal shared by many. It is a vision centred around continued academic excellence in teaching and research, accessibility for all Nova Scotians, strong community outreach, and facilities and instruction for physically challenged students. With its strong sense of where it has been, Saint Mary's University has focused clearly on the mission ahead, "where tradition meets the future."

A CHRONOLOGY OF SIGNIFICANT EVENTS

- 1802 St. Mary's College, a school for Boys, is founded by Father Edmund Burke, and is located at the corner of Grafton Street and Spring Garden Road. The school is not permitted to open, however, because of government regulations restricting denominational schools. The building intended for the College is used as the St. Mary's Basilica Glebe House. The year 1802, however, is recognized as the founding date of Saint Mary's University.¹
- 1802 - Father Burke provides an informal Catholic education for 1818 a few young men in his house.¹
- 1818 Father Burke opens a school for small boys.
- 1839 The government recognizes denominational schools. St. Mary's College moves to Grafton Street, occupying the building that currently houses the Catholic Pastoral Centre of the Archdiocese of Halifax. Its intended purpose is to serve as a seminary for the education of young Catholic men for the priesthood.²
- 1841 St. Mary's College is incorporated and given temporary degree granting powers, and moves to Belle Aire Terrace (off Agricola Street).
- 1852 St. Mary's College is given permanent degree-granting power, and the College and High School begin a separate existence.³
- 1868 Teaching duties at St. Mary's are taken over by the Christian Brothers of Saint John the Baptist de la Salle.
- 1876 "The University Act" is passed, which states that Dalhousie, King's, Mount Allison, St. Francis Xavier, and St. Mary's will be regarded as Colleges of the non-sectarian University of Halifax, and that each will confer their degrees in the name University of Halifax. Each College will receive a yearly government grant. As a result of this Act, the Christian Brothers of Saint John the Baptist de la Salle leave Halifax.⁴ The College is taken over by the Archdiocese and is moved from Belle Aire Terrace to Barrington Street (near Tobin Street).
- 1881 The "University of Halifax" ceases to exist, and government grants to each of the Colleges are stopped. St. Mary's College closes due both to lack of funding and lack of a teaching faculty.

1993/94 Fact Book

- 1881 Patrick Power, a prominent businessman, dies and leaves a bequest in his will for a boys' college, but stipulates that in order to be eligible for the bequest, the school must be run by the Jesuits. The Archdiocese is unable to find an order of Jesuits to run the school, and are thus unable to comply with the terms of the will.⁵
- 1903 The Archdiocese is unable to find a Catholic order to run St. Mary's and is thus ineligible to use the Power bequest funds. The Archdiocese undertakes a successful drive for funds, and St. Mary's College reopens at Windsor Street and Quinpool Road (currently the site of the St. Vincent Guest House). Local priests fulfil teaching duties.¹
- 1913 The Irish Christian Brothers "... were contracted as the teaching order for St. Mary's."² The executors of Patrick Power's will decide to grant the money of his bequest for the opening of the College under the Brothers' administration.⁵
- 1914 The College publishes an academic calendar for the first time.
- 1916 St. Mary's becomes affiliated with Nova Scotia Technical College; a three year course in Engineering is set up at St. Mary's.
- 1917-1918 The Halifax Explosion occurs on December 6, 1917. There are no serious injuries at the College, but the students are sent home and the facility is used as an emergency hospital for two months. The school is then repaired and re-opened in February 1918.⁵
- 1921 The Yearbook is published for the first time.
- 1921 One million dollars is offered by the Carnegie Foundation for the Improvement of Higher Education to "... promote a Federation of all Colleges in the Maritimes and Newfoundland with Dalhousie University."⁵
- 1922 The Universities Conference Report recommends that all "institutions of higher learning" in the Maritime Provinces move to Halifax and "... become constituent colleges of a new university."
- 1923 Pope Pius XI declares, via the local Archbishop, that no Catholic Colleges shall enter the proposed federation of universities. With the withdrawal of the Catholic institutions, the idea of a federation is abandoned.⁵
- 1934 A Commerce department is established.⁶

- 1936 The student newspaper, St. Mary's Journal, is published for the first time.
- 1940 As a result of disagreements between the Archdiocese and the Irish Christian Brothers over the running of St. Mary's, the Upper Canada Province of the Society of Jesus (the Jesuits) take over the institution.²
- 1943 The land of the Gorsebrook Golf Club is acquired by the Archdiocese on which a new St. Mary's College is to be built.² The land "originally" belonged to a wealthy and prominent Halifax citizen, Enos Collins.¹
- 1945 The Halifax School of Journalism is established as a joint venture of St. Mary's, Mount Saint Vincent, and King's College.
- 1949 The sod is turned on the Gorsebrook Golf Club land and construction of the McNally building commences.
- 1951 St. Mary's High School and St. Mary's College move to the McNally building. The building contains classrooms, student rooms, and living quarters for the Jesuits. The high school occupies three rooms on the second floor.²
- 1952 The Canadian Martyrs' Parish is established to serve the needs of South End Halifax residents; the foyer of the McNally building is used as its chapel. The first mass is said on September 14.⁷ This marks the beginning of what will become a long association between Canadian Martyrs' Parish and St. Mary's.
- 1953 The College Chapel is officially opened on November 28, and will serve as the home of Canadian Martyrs' Parish. The Chapel is attached to the McNally building.⁷
- 1953 Credit and non-credit evening courses are offered for the first time to part-time students, both women and men.²
- 1954 A non-credit adult studies program begins.
- 1957 St. Mary's becomes affiliated with Ignatius College in Guelph and Regis College in Willowdale.
- 1957 The Student Directory is published for the first time.
- 1957 The School of Education is established.
- 1959 The St. Mary's football team is given the name "Huskies"; they had previously been known as the "Saints".⁸
- 1959 St. Mary's acquires the "Royal Mc-Bee LGP-30" electronic digital computer, the first electronic digital computer

1993/94 Fact Book

in the region. The computer is available for both educational and industrial usage.¹

- 1960 A Faculty Manual is drawn up for the first time, "... which codified the regulations governing appointments, rank, and tenure."⁷
- 1962 Saint Mary's launches an "Expansion Program". Collins House, part of the original estate on whose lands the current campus now stands, is torn down to make way for the construction of the new Student Centre. This results in the beginning of an historical landmarks preservation movement in Halifax.²
- 1963 The Board of Studies is renamed the University Senate; the old "Senate" is given the more appropriate title "Board of Governors".⁷
- 1963 The Canadian Martyrs' Parish Centre is officially opened in February.⁷
- 1963 Saint Mary's High School closes; there are approximately 25 students in the last graduating class.²
- 1964 Saint Mary's withdraws from the Halifax School of Journalism.
- 1965 The Library opens.
- 1965 The Halifax School of Journalism closes.
- 1966 Saint Mary's establishes its first "purely academic" post-graduate program, an MA in the history of science.¹
- 1966 The Alumni Arena opens.
- 1966 The Saint Mary's University Students' Association is incorporated.
- 1967 The Student Centre and Science Building open.
- 1968 Saint Mary's becomes co-educational.
- 1968 A seventeen-floor high-rise opens for use as a student residence; four floors are specially designed for physically challenged students.⁷
- 1969 "Huskies Stadium" is constructed in preparation for the Canada Summer Games.⁴
- 1970 Administration of Saint Mary's transfers to a "lay" board of governors, and the Jesuits are replaced by secular staff. The University continues to recognize its Catholic tradition.²

- 1971 The sod for the new Canadian Martyrs' Church is turned on Easter Sunday; the Church is officially opened on December 12.
- 1971 Loyola Academic and Residence Complex opens.
- 1972 The Rev. Michael W. Burke-Gaffney Observatory opens.
- 1974 The Saint Mary's University Faculty Union is certified as a bargaining unit.
- 1974 A Master in Business Administration (MBA) program commences.⁶
- 1975 The Institute of Human Values is established.
- 1976 The Patrick Power Library opens.
- 1979 The International Education Centre opens.⁶
- 1982 The Gorsebrook Research Institute for Atlantic Canada Studies is established.⁶
- 1982 The X-ray Fluorescence Centre opens.⁶
- 1983 The China Program is established.⁹
- 1985 The Atlantic Centre of Research, Access, and Support for Disabled Students is opened.
- 1987 Saint Mary's Athletics and Recreation Tower ("The Tower") opens.
- 1988 The CMA program is launched.⁶
- 1988 Saint Mary's High School class of 1963 (the last graduating class) hold a 25th reunion.
- 1989 The Business Development Centre opens in Burnside Industrial Park.⁶
- 1990 The Executive MBA program is introduced.⁶
- 1994 Announcement of the phasing out of the Education Faculty due to Rationalization

Summary of Legislation Passed respecting
Saint Mary's University/College¹

- 1841 An "Act for Incorporating the Trustees of the St. Mary's College at Halifax" is passed on March 29. The institution is granted temporary, general degree-granting powers for eleven years. It is described in different parts of the Act as both College and Seminary.
- 1852 The College's degree granting powers are made permanent on April 18.
- 1873 An "Act Respecting St. Mary's College" is passed on April 30, "reviving" the legislation of 1841, which had expired due to forfeiture (the reason for forfeiture is unclear; it could have been a result of either a brief closure of the school, or failure of the lieutenant governor to fill vacancies on the school's Board of Governors, as the original act required). The Act states that the Archbishop is to appoint the Chancellor of the school.¹
- 1876 The "University Act" establishes the University of Halifax.¹ It states that Dalhousie, King's, Mount Allison, St. Francis Xavier, and St. Mary's are to be regarded as Colleges of the non-sectarian University of Halifax, and to confer their degrees in the name of the University of Halifax.
- 1918 "An Act to amend the Law Respecting Saint Mary's College, Halifax" is passed on April 26. The school's right to confer degrees is confirmed by this legislation, and may have been necessary due to the previous closure of the university from 1881 to 1903.¹⁰
- 1949 An "Act respecting St. Mary's" is passed, which authorizes the episcopal corporation to contract the Jesuits or any other religious order to run the school free from senate control.¹
- 1952 "An Act respecting St. Mary's University" is passed, in which the school is referred to as a "university" for the first time.¹
- 1962 A university corporation is set up and although the institution is still considered part of the Archbishop's responsibilities, a relatively autonomous Board of Governors is formed, as well as a university administration more in line with contemporary practice.¹

1970 The "Saint Mary's University Act" is passed in the Nova Scotia legislature, the result of which is a new Board of Governors with complete autonomy from the Archdiocese. The Catholic tradition is recognized, however, with the provision that the Archbishop and his Vicar General will be Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, respectively.¹

Note:

The date of the transition from the spelling of "St. Mary's University" to "Saint Mary's University" is unknown, but is believed to have occurred sometime in the 1960s. Thus, all references to the name before 1960 are herein spelled "St."; after 1960, "Saint" is used. Also note that all references to "St. Mary's College", or "the College" prior to 1963 are inclusive of the high school.

¹ Information on "pre-Jesuit presidents" is from Laurence K. Shook, Catholic Post-secondary Education in English-speaking Canada, a history, Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 1971. Little is known of the early presidents of St. Mary's College, i.e. why there were many presidents in the 1860s, why there were "gaps" between presidencies, and what title each held (because the first "President" held the title "Principal", each of the pre-Irish Christian Brother presidents is listed herein as "Principal"). Information on post-Jesuit presidents was provided by the President's Office.

² Father O'Brien is considered the first "president" of St. Mary's, although the founder of the school, Rev. Father Edmund Burke, operated it in one form or another from 1802 to 1830.
