McDonald, Brennan, Nolan (Pres.) Lynch

The Science Society very quietly re-organized this year under the capable leadership of Dick Nolan as President and Rev. Father Burke-Gaffney as Honorary President. The opening dance was held at Gorsebrook Golf Club on Oct. 29th. This dance was both a social and financial success.

The Science men were well represented in the play "Arsenic and Old Lace" which had Art Leahy as Production Manager. Several members of the Society were elected to important positions on the newly organized Students Council, having as President Ray Beck.

In conjunction with the Engineering Society the Science men sponsored a series of lectures on semi-technical subjects having as guest speakers J. P. Messervey, Rev. Father Burke-Gaffney S.J. and E. C. Thomas. These lectures were very well attended and proved to be highly interesting and instructive.

The Science Society also took an active part in both sports and debating and showed themselves to be good sportsmen and fine debaters. Meetings of the Society were held once a month and out of these meetings evolved many of the undertakings of the College.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF '44

Fall of '40

The tramp of martial feet was heard around the world; Hitler's soldiers had invaded and seized the Low Countries; Paris and France had fallen; the Jesuits assumed direction of S.M.C.; Roy Power and the Class of '44 entered College. Lynch and MacDonald still crossed the ferry, Father Filion and his grammar were seen at every French class. "Campus Jottings" made their first appearance in the "Journal" but, being unknown, we rarely made them.

Eddie Boyd began a long career of ringing bells. C.O.T.C. paraded every afternoon. Leahy and Brennan were Boarders, Tom Purcell and Emmett Campbell fell in with the other three trainees (twice a month). Bishop ("The Mole") used to awe everyone the way he did Maths. The B.S.U. had its origin. We all went to Antigonish on a memorable hockey trip and everybody (that had enough strength) came home.

Some of us saw the Mock Trial when "Chose Theriault's" life hung in the balance and Spud Murphy as foreman of the jury fell asleep. We went to Aldershot and who'll forget. Johnnie Marvin broke his ankle in the Rorum, and "Who Ride on White Horses" was a marked success. As Freshmen we dreaded Economics and Upperclassmen.

Fall of '41

Sophomore year found the College boarders as a self-contained unit. "Zekie" Campbell and Beedie forsook Arts for Commerce. Bud Graves returned after a gruelling year in the world of business to augment the ranks of the Commerce men. Pat O'Neill came from St. Pat's and threw in his lot with the Artsmen.

C.O.T.C. parades were changed to two a week. The football team journeyed to Antigonish and the score, the Norfolk, and the juke box's, "I don't Want to Set the World on Fire" are but hazy memories. The handball alleys blew down one Sunday afternoon.

We struggled through Milton and "Andromaque" while Beckie wrote the "Jotter Column", which continued to be the Journal's most widely read and popular column. Jim O'Neil was Sodality Prefect and Father Burns replaced Father Filion as Moderator. "The Upper Room" was presented and most of us wished it hadn't been Leahy and Brennan were still "Boarding"

The College sponsored its first Press Exhibit. In hockey, we won the Provincial championship and Pineo ("Peener") won the most valuable Player Award. Bill Dalton, Charlie Reardon and Jimmie Moriarty were Cheerleaders and pep rallies were really that. Mr. Hayden's sketches enlivened Bulletin Boards. Jack Campbell was Year Book Editor. We marched out of Aldershot on June 6. Norman's Malady was the highlight of Camp.

Mike Edgar still talks about those delicious marshmallow cookies of Wally Folley's (the "Marshmallow" was Colgate's tooth paste), and Odie's visiting those quarantined, taking off a respirator to talk and putting it back on before leaving.

Fall of '42

Juniors and the beginning of the "It" Show era. Arts spent their free periods looking for class rooms. Tom Purcell was Editor of the hapless Anthology. Beckie was still writing "Jotter" Columns. B.S.U. was dissolved and its members took refuge in the Commerce Department. We had a new O.C. in Major McManus.

Gene Savard coached college football. Gerald Reardon and Tom Sullivan were the A.A.A. Executive. Mike Edgar and Phil Vaughan debated successfully against Acadia. Joe Fultz was still getting through Latin; Mike Merrigan was still trying to. In hockey we won against Acadia only to lose against St. F.X. Pat O'Neil sang, "At the Midnight Hour", in History class. Bud Graves wrote his memorable treatise on "Our Town", "Peener" and his Ford had parted. Leahey and Brennan were still "Boarding" but Leahey found time to become a "39'er" while Reyno coached the Engineers' team to victory.

Fall of '43

The Last-Mile-Seniors; and unsuspecting Frosh looked up to us. Mike Merrigan was a Sergeant; Eddie Boyd was boarding out and Tom Purcell jumped every time Father Fillion mentioned the word "Journal" in French class. Don Campbell again looked after the Book Room and was A.A.A. Secretary. For a week or two Arts had Monsieur Gautheron for French class (Jack Thomas still insists it was a course on the Jugo-Slavian Novel). Tom LeBlanc was College correspondent for the Mail. Fultz, Lauder, LeBlanc and Duggan starred in Bob Morley's Sodality Play. Tom Purcell was worrying about growing bald and Bud Graves was worrying about not having a beard. Open forums and debating added interest to the curriculum. Bob Miller and Mr. George taught us Sociology and Roy Power "tore off the lid of the cauldron of squalor and poverty....." Leahey and Brennan were still "Boarders"

One crimson Wednesday, C.O.T.C. offered an unique concession in the form of a debate on its worth. Seniors clustered furtively in nooks discussing whose army they'd join. Lynch debated unsuccessfully against Kings, and Art Leahey, Bunny, Mike Edgar, Zekie Campbell, Sandy MacDonald, Roy Power, "O.D.," Jack Thomas, Bob Miller, J. Lynch, Beckie, "Peener," E. Boyd were among those who contributed to the unqualified success of "Arsenic and Old Lace". Spring brought thoughts of Graduation and fair weather and with these, the scribe wipes his brow, sighs heavily and sets aside his pen until some one relieves him in the writing of the History of the Class of '45.

C.O.T.C.

Though somewhat smaller than last years battalion, this year's group was equally enthusiastic in the manner in which they carried out their training. Something new was added when Tests of Elementary Training became a regular part of the syllabus. These covered the entire range of C.O.T.C. training and the results were particularly good. Pay Parade was as usual the best attended parade of the entire year. Highlight of the year was the fine showing put on by Saint Mary's Contingent at the D.O.C.'s. inspection.

SODALITY OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN MARY

Under the guidance of its new Moderator, Fr. O'Donnell, S.J. and Prefect, Michael Merrigan, the Sodality experienced one of its most active years. A few of the proposed projects had to be cancelled because of wartime restrictions, but the Society succeeded in providing a full schedule for its members.

Mission Week saw the sponsoring of a Tag Day, (netting the sum of $31.03), a talk by Hon. Sq. Ldr. MacNeil on the Missions, and a mission play, written by Sodalist, R. Morley.

The feast of the Immaculate Conception was celebrated as usual on December 8, with the reception of new members and a buffet supper.

During Catholic Press Week, all Catholic Colleges, High Schools and Clubs joined forces to stage the most successful Press Exhibit yet attempted. The S.M.C. students' library was commandeered for this display.

Several interesting and instructive talks were given the Sodality by Rev. Fr. Kehoe, S.J., on the Apostleship of Prayer, and the Devotion to the Sacred Heart.

The year's activities were rounded out with The Novena of Grace in honor of St. Francis Xavier, from March 4th to March 12th.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

One of the best moves of the year was the formation of the Student Council. The enthusiasm with which it was received, promises that the Council will grow and strengthen in future years.

On November 7, 1943, at the suggestion of the President of St. Mary's, Rev. F. C. Smith, S.J., such an organization became part of the life of the student. The student body then nominated and elected an executive council which in turn appointed a committee composed of one representative from each faculty, presenting a complete cross section of the student body. The result of the election placed Raymond V. Beck of Sr. Science as the first president with

Vice-president . . . . .	ROBERT E. MILLER
Secretary . . . . .	JOHN C. THOMAS
Arts . . . . .	MICHAEL EDGAR
Commerce . . . . .	ALEX ALLEN
Engineering . . . . .	GERALD MOFFATT
Debating . . . . .	ROY POWER
Sodality . . . . .	MICHAEL MERRIGAN
A.A.A. . . . .	GERALD REARDON

This central organization will fill a need that has been long felt in the social life of the College. The lack of support, financial difficulties, and unnecessary competition, that has bedeviled the individual societies, will be done away with, and in their place co-operation of all the societies, will, it is hoped, lead to a harmonious unity amid diversity.

The main idea of a Student Council, using the words of the Constitution, shall be, "to promote the best interests of the students by sharing with the faculty the responsibilities of College Government, in all matters not strictly academic, and in accordance with the powers conferred by Fr. Rector." With this kept in mind the Student Council should not become just "another organization," but the organization of St. Mary's College.

Although the Council has not as yet benefited the average student to any great extent, it has already established a firm internal organization. A Constitution has been drawn up and the aims of the Council clearly announced, so that those who propose to carry on in following years will be able to devote their full time to the benefit of the College at large.

St. Mary's Journal

Work on the Journal began early in September. When the students returned for another year of college life, the first issue was awaiting them.

The Journal was published fortnightly, following the system begun last year, and, under the leadership of Editors-in-Chief Tom Purcell and Mike Edgar, two separate staffs worked on alternate publications.

"Campus Jotter", "S.M.C. in the Services", and the Sport Column occupied their old positions. Besides these usual features, "Quizz Quotes", a canvass of student opinion, appeared frequently. A number of editorials aroused considerable interest and comment both inside and outside the College. The Campus Jotter, a regular Journal column, was absent from two to three of the later issues in 1944. It has not yet been decided whether the Jotter will be revived.

In former years no Journal was published during January, the month of the College mid-term exams. The High School, however, this year rose to the occasion and set a precedent by editing, (and very capably,) the school paper. The future College boys did a fine job, winning well-earned congratulations. It was most embarrassing for the college students to find Journal Sr. in the spot ordinarily occupied by Journal Jr. The High School not satisfied with one issue to their credit, are now making plans for a second this June.

Appointed in April, the two Editors-in-Chief for 1944-45, Joe Penny and Jim Hanrahan, will each have the advantage of having engineered one Journal to completion.

DRAMATICS

The College Play Shop

In its most ambitious effort in three seasons, St. Mary's College Play Shop presented at the Oxford Theatre on Monday, Dec. 13, the comedy success, "Arsenic and Old Lace". Brilliantly paced by the leading "ladies", Boyd and Mackey, carried by adequate acting throughout, "A. & O.-L." was a smash-hit. "Wonderful", laughed a capacity audience. "Cue-perfect", praised the metropolitan newspapers. Director Mr. George, S. J. and worried Production Manager Leahey, were slightly more than satisfied.

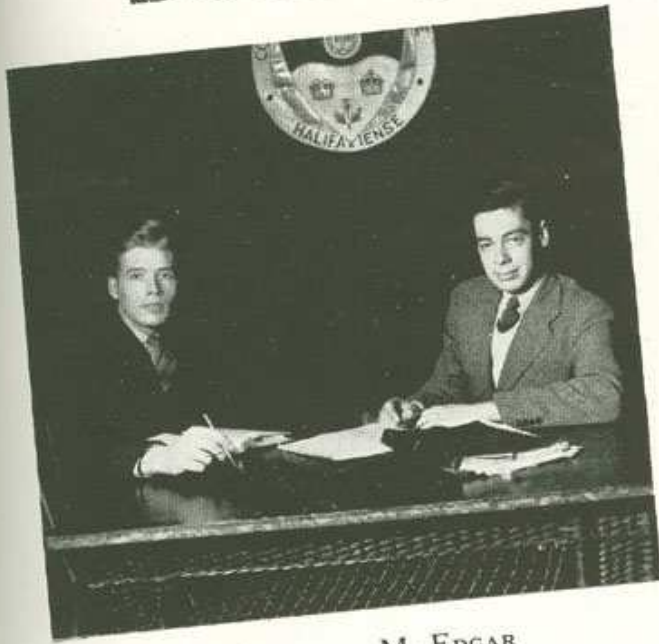

From College dining-hall to Convent stage, the thirteen-man cast of "Arsenic" had staggered through four weary weeks of rehearsal. Bit-players Bourke, Penny and Hanrahan (Terry) had walked faithfully from out imaginary doors, engaged in "stage business" with character actors Finlay, Miller and Lynch. Of course the blesques of Boyd, the brogue of Levy and blunders of Allen, Reardon and MacDonald spiced the practices.

Power as manager, Thomas, Campbells (E. and as stage men; Mr. Crowe, S.J., Sandy MacDonald and Bill Phillips on the 'lights'—all backed play to the limit. Resplendent in scarlet tun Edgar and MacCarthy managed the props, Pinco, the costumes. Program and tickets masterfully handled by R. V. Beck, and satile "Gerry" Reardon. Honours go as well Mr. Leslie Pigot, make-up artist extraordinary.

For 1943 the Play Shop presented, "A Triumph of Co-operation"—subtitled "Arsenic and Lace".

The society was fortunate this year as in previous years having the guidance of Rev. M. O'Donnell, S.J.

One of the outstanding features of the year was a radio debate with Dalhousie broadcast over CHNS in which we were represented by James Hanrahan and Edward Levy.

John Lynch and Edward Chisholm also represented the society in a debate with King's College, while Bob Miller and Noel Edgar travelled to Mount Allison University.

The executive recognizing the need for greater emphasis on public speaking and Debating made attendance at meetings compulsory for Commerce, Arts, and Science students.

In a schedule of Interfaculty debates the Commerce representatives won top honors and were presented with a Shield voted by the Alumni Society.

Open Forums on current topics and a Mock Trial were other interesting features of the years meetings.

THE LADIES' AUXILIARY

Under the capable presidency of Mrs. J. W. Dyer, St. Mary's College Ladies' Auxiliary has had an active and successful year.

During the short first semester the Auxiliary staged a Fall Bridge and the Faculty Tea, and rendered excellent service on Sodality Day, Dec. 8.

Each week a Sewing Group, with Mrs. A. Abraham as Convenor, has given tirelessly of time and effort, repairing altar linens, and vestments, or doing other necessary sewing. The Society has also made several gifts to the College Chapel—a new carpet for sacristy and sanctuary, two Missals, two Albs and five Tabernacle Veils. Flowers for the Altar are donated each week, and a Mass is offered every month for S.M.C. boys in the services. A Tea and Sale was held at Easter Time. All pronounced it an unparalleled success.

Guest speakers at Auxiliary meetings throughout the year have been the Rev. Fr. F. S. Smith, S.J., President of St. Mary's College, and Sister Maura, Dept. of English, Mount St. Vincent College.

Alumni Association

Owing to the increasing pressure of war activities, the Alumni Association has not functioned to the same extent as it did last year. However, a number of meetings have been held.

The annual meeting was held in October, and the executive of the previous year was reelected. This consisted of Rev. D. J. McPherson, President; J. Christian, 1st. Vice-Pres.; Rev. F. Carroll, 2nd. Vice-Pres.; J. Reardon, 3rd. Vice-Pres.; E. Mullaley, Secretary and Historian; H. Bartlow, Treasurer; D. Redmond and J. Moore, Sr., Auditors; J. Carroll, Chairman, Entertainment Committee; J. Murphy, Jr., Chairman Financial Committee; Frank Smith, Chairman Educational Committee.

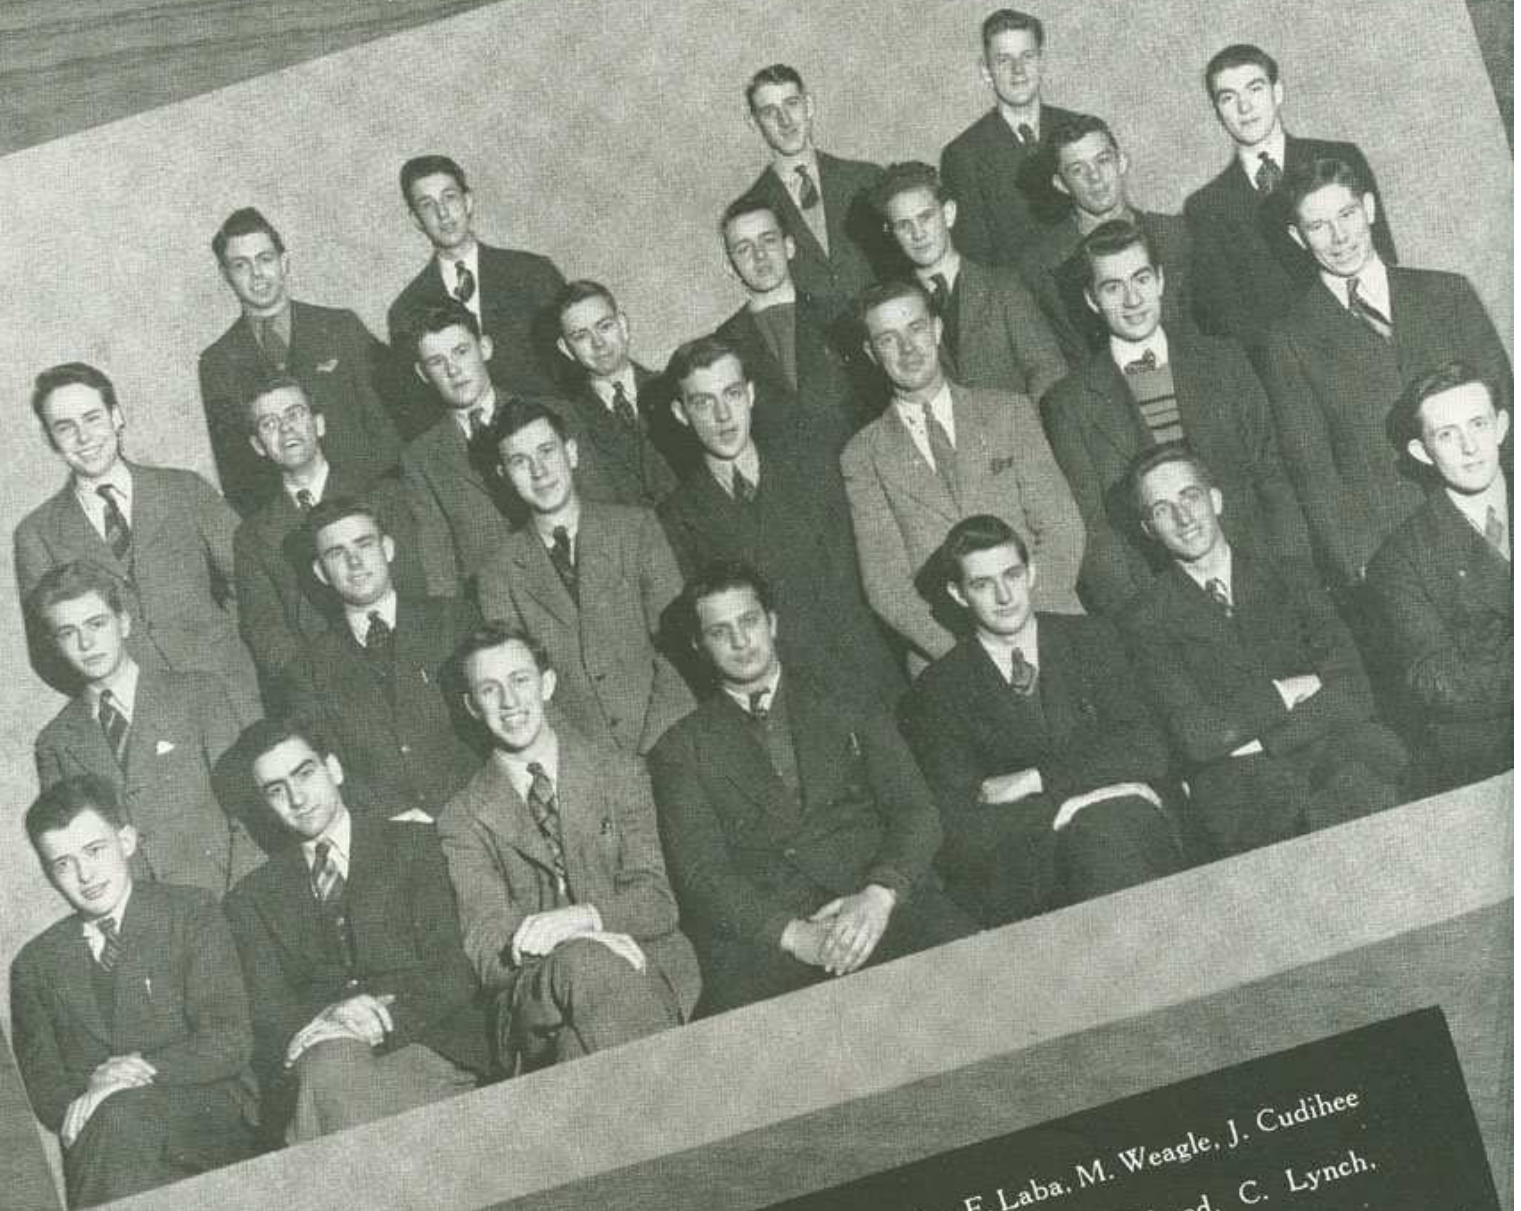

In November, a very successful Communion Breakfast was held in the College, at which Very Rev. F. C. Smith S.J., was principal speaker.

The Scholarship was awarded as usual, and a new shield was awarded to the debating society for annual competition. This shield was presented to Commercé for the year 1944.

Tau Gamma Sigma

The year 1944 was not one of "just ordinary" achievement for the Artsmen. Rising from last year's ashes, the Society led the combined committee for Freshman initiations and continued to set the pace throughout the year.

The first major undertaking of the year lay in the field of sports. The Arts met the football challenge with a team of heavyweights rivaling the best. A lack of practice and insufficient co-ordination resulted in the 'intellectuals' giving place to squads more united in action perhaps but not in fighting spirit.

The Artsmen, however, distinguished themselves more through the prominent part they played in uniting the various societies under a common standard. This is particularly exemplified by its representation on the Student's Council, with Pres. J. Thomas serving as Secretary and M. Merrigan, who was also Sodality Prefect, acting as Sodality counsellor. The Arts men held important posts in all activities, R. Lauder and J. Thomas were C.M.S.'s in the O.T.C. Both editors of the Journals (and many of the supporting staff) were members of the T.G.S.

Returning, finally, to Sports, the Artsmen put a team on the Inter-Faculty baseball diamond that promised to take the league in easy-going style. Their first victory, against Commerce has already been achieved.

Two donations were given to the College, via the Tau Gamma Sigma, this year. The first, in October, to the Mission Fund, the second, voted at the last meeting, was granted for the purchasing of Altar vestments.

Delta Lambda Kappa

This year the "business-men of tomorrow" proved their worth in the co-operative as well as the scholastic and athletic field.

The season was opened with a general meeting at which plans were drawn up for the year's activities. A timely address was given by the Honorary President, Mr. H. Beazley.

The Delta Lambda Kappa co-operated in staging the general initiation, a hilarious event. The initiation came to a successful close with a reception of new members and a social evening at St. Mary's Boat Club.

In the Inter-Faculty Debating League the business-men met all opposition and emerged undefeated. The attractive shield won by the society will be staunchly defended in future competition. In addition the Society had two of its members in the Inter-Collegiate Debating Teams.

Most of the College social functions were under the control of the newly-formed Students' Council. However, in all undertakings of the Council, Commerce men were always found ready and willing to lend a hand. They showed that they could work smoothly and efficiently, whether it be collectively or as a distinct faculty.

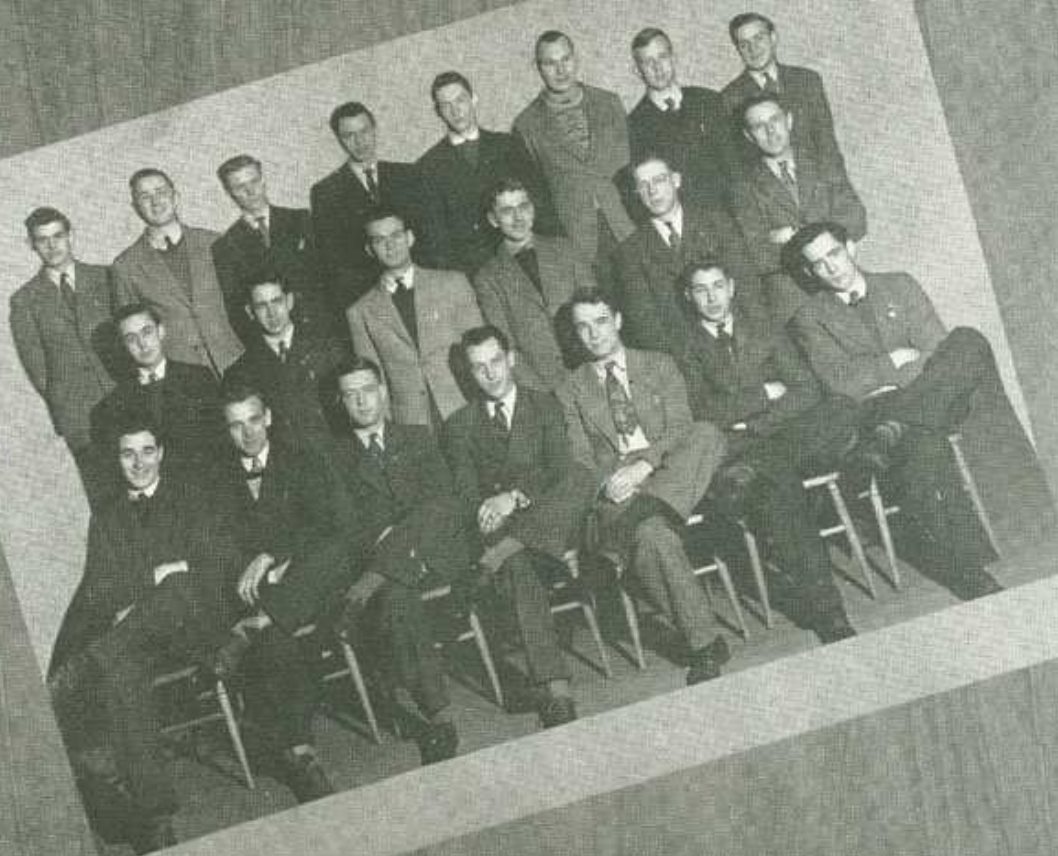

The designing and purchase of Commerce rings was a notable achievement of the '43-'44 season. In all, about thirty members will proudly wear the first Delta Lambda Kappa ring.

Commerce students engaged in widely disparate activities about the College during the year; a majority representation in things athletic, with eight men on the Inter-Collegiate Hockey Team, and a victorious team in the Inter-Faculty hockey league, as also in things intellectual, with Roy Power President of the Debating Society, Robert Miller Vice-President of the Students' Council; Bun Mulcahy and Don Campbell Sports Editors for the Journal, and Gerald Reardon, President of the A.A.A.

Engineering Society

At the first meeting of the Engineering Society, held in October Ron O'Keefe, who was elected president, resigned due to pressure of studies. Ray Beck who succeeded later resigned to take over the Presidency of the newly formed Student Union. The Vice-President John Lynch then took over the duties of President.

The annual Engineers Banquet was held early in December and was an outstanding success. The guest speaker Mr. F. J. Ryan gave a very enlightening talk on "Electronics."

The Engineers Rugby team successfully carried off the Inter-Faculty Rugby Title after a hard fought contest with the "Boarders."

The Society in co-operation with Senior Science sponsored a series of lectures during the year.

REV. A. F. KEHOE, S.J.

 DIRECTOR, H. S. SODALITY

The silence of Ten A is broken only by the steady chomp-chomp, as Pat Napier and Jack Beck compete for gum chewing honours. For once Doug Flinn is sleeping a snoreless sleep. Don Cummings and Derek Currie, both feather pounders, are not here yet. Class started only an hour ago. Mike Murphy gazes in awe at Frank Dempsey's all powerful left paw. The lull is suddenly rent by an ear piercing explosion, "timber" shouts Don Murphy and Ed Craig, startled, gazes wide-eyed about the room. But the post is still standing. "Wonder, if Mr. Farrell has an excuse for that experiment", comments Kev McIntyre. "Maybe somebody in Ten B sneezed." This from our gag-man Pat Crosby, "Full of gags" comments Charlie Jones, the Knickerbocker boy. The appearance of a little black book restores silence once more. "What's a collective noun, Casey?" Pause. Gropingly "A garbage can?". Don Hatchette interrupts by throwing up the window. He's our class draughtsman, "Close the window", shouts Bob McNeil, yes echoes Bob Ryan huddling close to the radiator. "Draft-doggers sneers Dave Jones. "Now, take this sentence. Lead the cow into the pasture". What mood? Jim Mahar, "The cow". Marcel Chouinard and John Parent alone laugh. John Phillips smiles, everybody else ignores the remark. "Fougere, have you the answer?" "Well, I'm close to it". "Yes," snaps Roy Chiasson "only three seats away from it". Ken Fultz smiles, "Maybe he means me". "Not likely" snaps Eric Gunn. The bell goes for break. "Collect those English papers, Ibsen, Browne, Pelton". The class files out, Murray Shea well in the lead. Wm. Ryan comes up to the desk. "I didn't do my homework, Father", I was boxing". "Fitzgerald, your paper looks like a Chinese laundry slip". Crash, a bit of chalk whizzes across the room. Mike Sullivan, innocently walks out the door. Mike Kennedy holds his head. Gillis, Manson, Leblanc move quietly out through the door. Class is over.

TEN "B"

Rev. Francis Farrell, S.J.,

Heads hang, eyelids droop, even teacher yawns. Roger Lefrank alone looks alert. This is Chemistry class. Buddy Keith looks dazed. "What page, Father?" Daniel Kline 'guffaws'. He always knows the page. "What did you say that blue stuff was, Father", earnestly asks Gerald Blackburn, a promising quiz kid, never lost for a question. Claude Bienvenu and Albert Charbonneau are startled by the apparition of Ken Kehoe easing his way through the door. Frank Flinn's face lights up. "C.O.T.C. payday today", he explains. Albert Martell still continues to stare at Ken. "Where does that O<sub>2</sub> come from?" inquires Pat Gray, —a titter. "From Duncan Street". This from Bob Flinn, the great R.J., always full of jokes. Jim Inglis tall, dark and—looks sheepish. Has anyone seen him dozing. "Say what class is this?" Don Hancock asks in a hurt tone as though someone were keeping something from him. Fred Randall comes to life. "Ten B" he snaps. Don sees beakers and a retort. "Oh, Chemistry". He is relieved. John Courtney, voted Ten B's "No. 1 rowdy" and Alex Chisholm, "Silent Yokum" chatter end lessly. "Let's have a class meeting" sings out class-president Louis Dauphinee. "Yes, class dues..." chimes in Ralph Tully. Stan Kemp dreams of getting his homework done before supper. George Ibsen realizes what he should have said in that debate. Rene Lehors, our strong silent man, is strong and silent. Fred Gourley wonders whether he had not better ring a bell. Ross agrees with him. Suddenly a crash of glass, boiling acid pours down, flames leap up. Don Fry stirs, blinks, "Huh! explosion, I guess", drops back to sleep. "What's the purpose of this experiment?" Father looks pleased when Doug Fanning throws a book at Blackburn.

"Year Book reporter? Sure, that's Grade IX in there, busy at work, well, busy anyway. You want their names? There's Janigan, to start with, President and mischief-maker. Secretary-Treasurer Biggs he throws a mean spiral and Vice-President Bezanson, tailor's model. Just inside the door? Brown, peewee athlete, hiding behind Bradley's plumpness, and Rex Burke, with the banjo eyes. Then Butler, profession: deer-hunting, and Cable, the little old man. A fellow asking silly questions? Probably White, no, not Campbell, he's outside arguing with Mr. Lynch. That's Fagan with the cast on his arm. The giggle came from Fellows. Next, Flinn, work all done, drawing planes; Napier and Latter, work not all done, drawing planes. Currie there excels in public speaking; Demers and Girard just in speaking. That's Evans twisting his moustache, and Glube fingering his upper lip. Then Feron, say, he got here before recess today! Waller, too! What big teddy-bear? Oh, you mean Mingo! No, Hernon and Murphy are not as sleepy as they look. Houlihan there is innocence itself, proving it was his paper that woke Henneberry. What are Keating and Bob Burke sneering at? Probably Amherst and Sydney respectively. There's Kelly, better at hockey than at French, and Reardon, not bad at either. Talking to himself? Lovett. Oh, you said about himself? that would be Ryan. The sky-scraper? MacDonald. And the one sitting beside him? Moore, but he's standing not sitting. A worried look? Cole or Malloy; if it's about essays, it's Malloy. The two redheads with the sailor's roll are Nolan and Barry. That's Northup, pretending to be interested in the subjunctive. Next, Nunn; give him some Latin and watch his smoke. Orr can do Latin too, but drawing is important. Hair down in his eyes? Pellerin or Rogers. There's Seeger, Churchill's ambassador to Grade IX, and last, but most certainly not least, Wallace.

"High School Sodality Report"

The Sodality goes to the Press for another year. Officially dubbed "The Queen's Commandos", Sodalists, have carried this spirit into their work for Heaven's Queen. Nothing really spectacular, but slowly and surely the Sodality has laid deeper foundations for a future that will put St. Mary's on the front page of Sodality News

In spite of the strict requirements for admission many new members enrolled in the ranks of Our Lady's shock troops. They too, have caught the spirit of the "Rosary Crusade" and "The Living Rosary", new features in Sodality activities. Each Sodalist is the proud possessor of the beautifully illustrated 16-page pamphlet, "The Rosary Crusade".

Much credit and thanks are due the very generous and efficient officers of the Central Committee of '43-44. Chisholm Lyons (Prefect), Steve Hagarty (1st Assist.) Paul Chisholm (2nd Assist.) (Ron Downie Secretary), and Dan Kirk (Treasurer) came through with flying colors. Well done, Executive!

But, who moved behind the scenes? Who guided us on the right path? Fr. Kehoe, S.J. supported us through thick and thin. There was never a priest more energetic or more enthusiastic. We of St. Mary's High School Sodality are deeply grateful for the fine work he had done for us.

Before bowing out,—just a word of appreciation for the Sodalists who provided us with a new paper, "Battle Array," irregular in its appearance but at all times interesting and inspiring.

New officers will take up the work next year. To them we say:

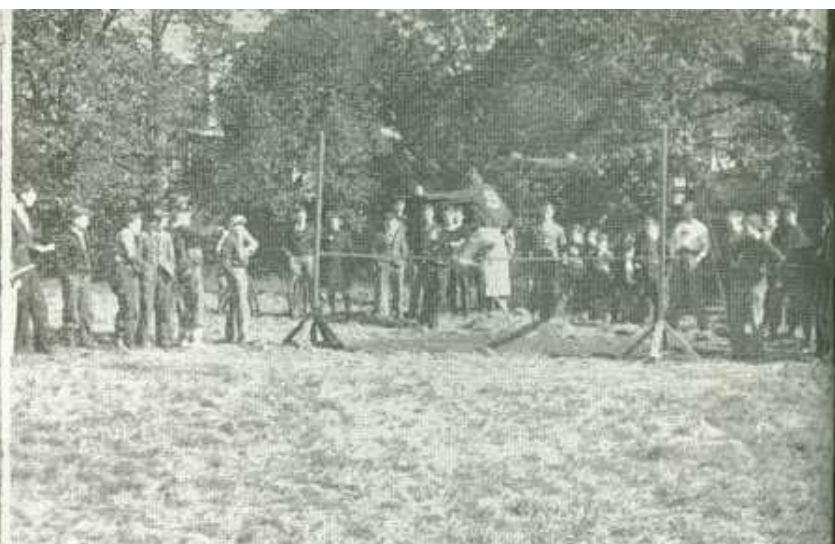

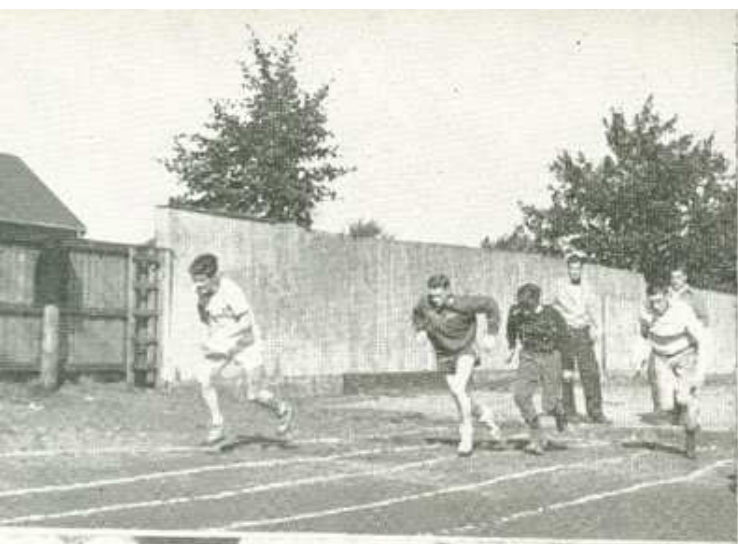

"To you . . . . . we throw the torch
Be your's to hold it high that more and more may see the brilliance of Heaven's Fair Queen.

FR. MCCARTHY

This year's activities, although somewhat modified from those of past seasons, still achieved the same degree of success in their operation.

In accordance with the suggestion made at last year's A.A.A. meeting, the Inter-Collegiate Football Team was given over, at least for one season, in favor of Inter-Faculty football with a view to building players for future years. This Inter-Faculty league wound up with the Engineers as champs, superseding, in this post, the Commerce team of last year.

College hockey began at a later date this year. The first practices were held in December and St. Mary's entered the Inter-Collegiate semi-finals against Acadia with few actual practices behind them. In the opening game at Wolfville, they came out on top with a 7-3 score. At Halifax, the Santamarians defeated Acadia 5-3 in a hectic match that saw many injureis to the lighter S.M.C. squad. St. Mary's however, lost out in the series by a two-goal margin.

The College had a better showing in the city Inter-College league, defeating the N.S.

Technical and Dalhousie colleges in a short exchange of blows, and then playing off against the strong aggregation from Kings Naval Officer's Training School. This series, three-game total goals, was evenly matched and hotly contested. Kings proved themselves a faster, stronger team and gained a close victory.

An added activity this year was the entrance of a St. Mary's team in the Boxing Tournament staged by St. F. X. at Antigonish during April. Though this is a comparatively new sport here, it promises to bring forth hidden talent, worthy of future contests.

Finally, Baseball was ushered in as a continuation of last year's beginnings. An Inter-Faculty league was begun which provided plenty of competition for all times.

High School Football

In the third season of High School Canadian Football in Halifax, St. Mary's entered a more powerful squad than those of previous years. It encountered little opposition from Queen Elizabeth twelve.

From this team St. Mary's took two consecutive games by the decisive scores of 36-0, 35-0. Both were masterpieces of planning and precision playing with the Santamarian outplaying and outguessing their opponents all the way.

Early in the season "Bunny" Mulcahy relieved Mr. George of his coaching duties and from many hopefuls, promptly selected the most capable and with these, moulded a great team.

"Shoe string" tackling Larry Murphy and Charlie Connors, "ball lugging" F. Graves and Doug McNeil, smooth passing Kehoe and Hemsworth were outstanding. Paul Lee, efficient, heady quarter back called the right play at the right time.

Senior High

Hockey:-

Four competing teams this year brought S.M.C. High School but one title, the City Senior High Championship.

Of the three games played with Queen Elizabeth High, St. Mary's won one. This series was never completed and the title was awarded to the College by default. The Santamarian entry had a sizzling attack, but rather a weak defence. Kehoe and McManus working on the line with center-man Doug Flemming, displayed their usual class and ability. In Goal Ralph Tully turned in some fine games. 1944-45 will see a strong High School squad fighting to retain the championship won this year, and reaching beyond for the Provincial title.

A power-packed Juvenile team waltzed easily through the regular league schedule, fell in the final play-off round before St. Mary's Winter Gardens. Favored to lick the Garden squad the Santamarians took one game dropped two and found that they were out of the running. Star-studding the Juveniles were Graves, McNeil, Bruce Hyland, Joe McLellan. Fast and smooth was the hockey exhibited by this fighting team.

Midget

The Junior High team fought valiantly to maintain their championship, but were ousted by Oxford. With a shortage of experienced players and stiff opposition to overcome, the team found the going tough, but nevertheless managed to reach the play-offs. Here they were definitely given their walking ticket, by the powerful scarlet and white squad.

The success for the year must not be measured by the number of trophies won, but by the experience gained by the many students in organized competition.

For the first time St. Mary's entered a Midget team in affiliation with the M.A.H.A. The youngsters were "game", but lacked the class and ruggedness of their opponents. Playing hard and persistent hockey, their hopes for victory were spiked by more aggressive teams.

Boarders' Society

The initial meeting of the Boarders' Society, called by the Moderator, Fr. M. J. O'Donnell, S.J. was devoted to the election of officers. The ever-dependable Don Campbell President; Wilfred Maloney as Treasurer and Jerry Mackey as Secretary, completed the slate of officers.

As in previous years, two committees were formed; one Athletic, composed of John Brennan and Ron O'Keefe, the other, Social, composed of Joseph Gillis and Jerry Mackey.

These committees went into action immediately. Through the efforts of the Athletic Committee, the Boarders entered a strong and eager team in the Inter-Faculty Football League, and came out second from the top, after a desperate and exciting series.

The famous "Rorum Wars" were resumed during the hockey season, with renewed and unrelenting fury. In the Spring, exclusively Boarder schedules were arranged in Baseball and Softball.

In November the Boarders were "at home" to the members of the Faculty, in their newly-renovated and comfortable Social Room. Bridge music and refreshments lent to a very enjoyable evening.

Of the three debates scheduled for the Boarders in the Inter-Faculty Debating League, two were won. The Boarders thus forfeited first place to the Commerce Faculty.

IN relentless and inevitable step the years of our life march by. They are a pageant of "sunbursts" and "shadows", a fantasy of light and shades. Justly do we find a place of high esteem for education in this processional. Education that prepares us how to live, and it is the Diary—a vault of treasured memories with its varied contents of successes and defeats, "tres bien," and not so good—that reveals how we lived as we prepared.

Sept. 24—Opening day and we found the college fresh looking after her summer beautification by Wally and Hughie. Mr. Shute quietly observing his Silver Anniversary at the College and a capacity registration.

Sept. 28—Editors Edgar and Purcell tried to appear nonchalant as first Journal appeared today.

Oct. 1—Thoughts were raised from the mundane to the sublime as the Retreat conducted by Father Deslauriers, S.J. concluded today.

Oct. 6—The Debating Society met and elected Power, Merrigan and Campbell to the Executive offices.

Oct. 8—The Sodality of our Lady held its initial meeting. Merrigan was elected to the important position of Prefect.

Tobin's Teas Always Please!

THIS caption is as true today as it was Anno Domini 1825 when John Tobin, founder of this firm, opened his first consignment of tea from the Orient.

But Tobin's are not confined to a few grades of China Teas, as in that far off day over a century ago. For today the best teas are Empire grown in India and Ceylon—and from their choicest gardens John Tobin & Company import the fine teas which make up their two most popular brands: Rakwana Golden Orange Pekoe—the choice of connoisseurs; and Rakwana Crimson Label, the best all-round family tea.
