To the Martyrs of Huronia,
Secondary Patrons of Canada

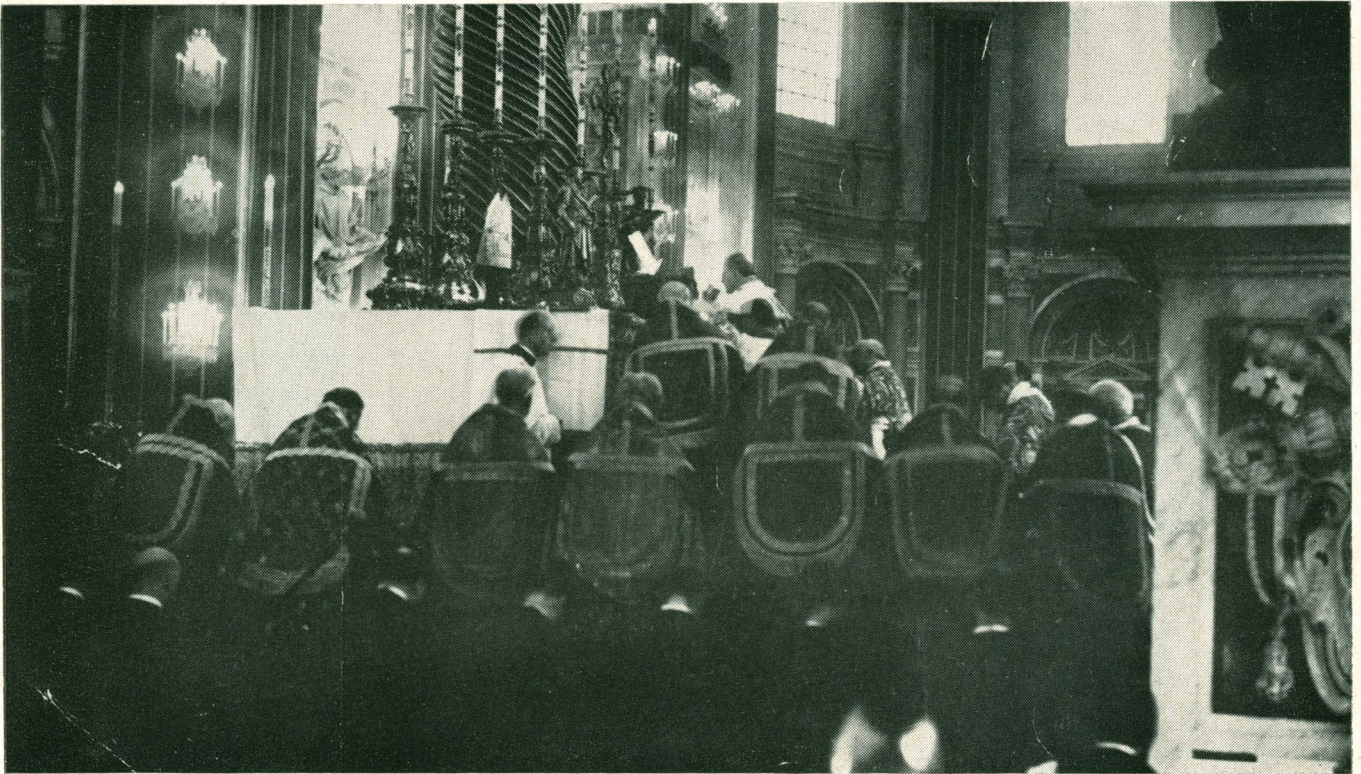

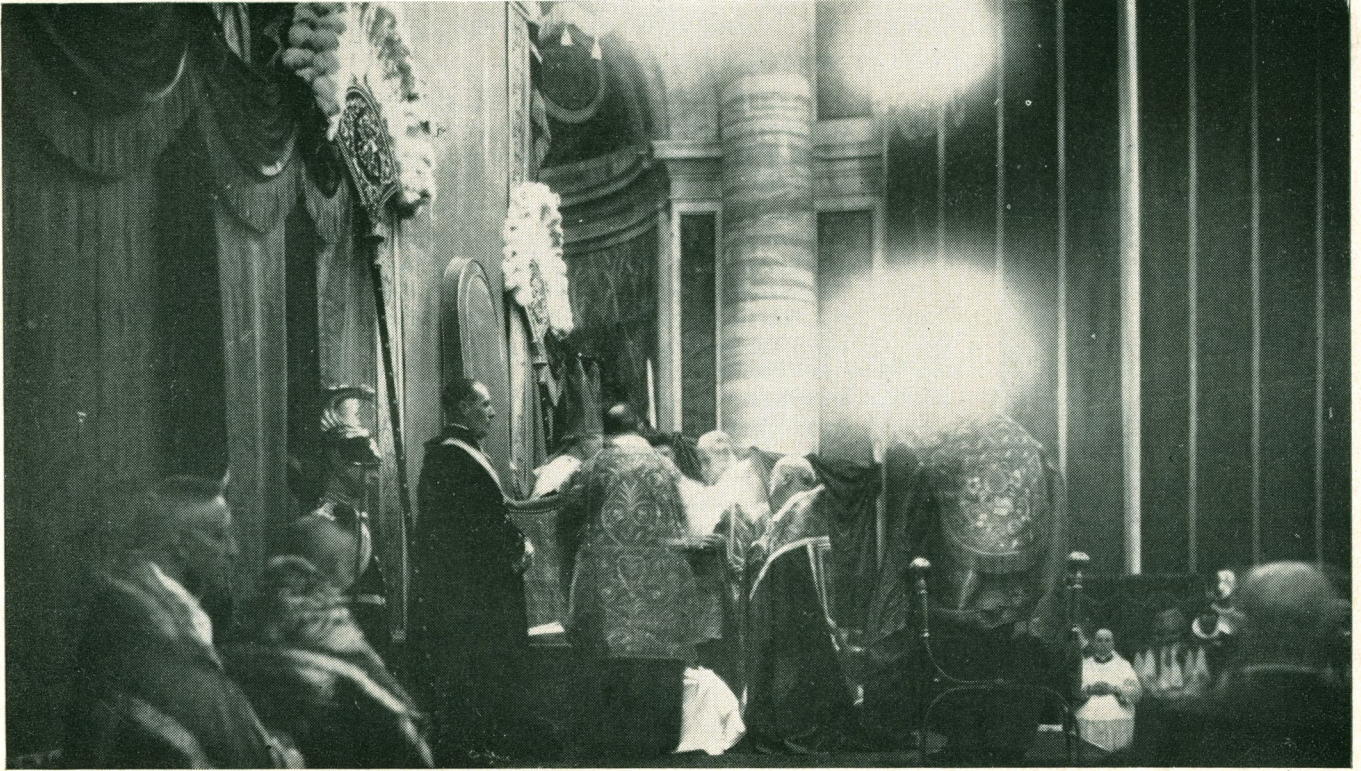

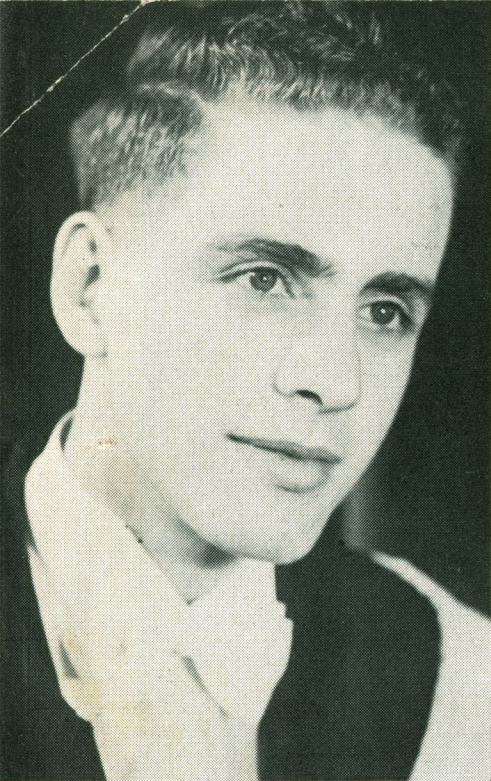

O blessed envoy hand
Of Cross-commissioned Christ,
Spilt blood and sand have fixed
His cross in Huron land.

Thomas Moore, '50

The tercentenary of the martyrdom of four of Canada's eight martyrs is being celebrated throughout Canada this year. Ceremonies in their honor were held by the College on March 16th. Most Reverend J. T. McNally, D.D., Archbishop of Halifax, celebrated Pontifical High Mass and Most Reverend A. B. Leverman, Auxiliary Bishop of Halifax, pronounced the panegyric. The martyrs were canonized in 1930 and were declared secondary patrons of Canada in 1940. The pictures on the opposite page, hitherto unpublished, were taken during the canonization ceremonies at St. Peter's in Rome. In the first picture Archbishop McNally is shown exercising his prerogative as an Assistant at the Pontifical Throne by holding the candle for the Holy Father. An arrow marks His Grace's position in the second picture.

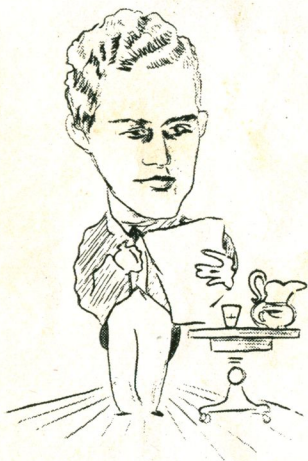

*"Railing and praising were his usual themes,
And both to show his judgment, in extremes."*

ROBERT McNEILL, B.A.—"I don't think that is quite correct" is one of Bob's more modest invitations to a battle of wits. How many an unsuspecting professor has fallen for the lamb-like approach only to find himself in the clutches of a lion. Bob never exhausts his resources in an argument. He always keeps in reserve an emphatic denial. Bob is unsurpassed as a Latin scholar. In extra-curricular activities he will long be remembered as a keen debater. He played his part in bringing an MIDL championship to the College. Quick-witted and sharp, he is always ready with attack and counter-attack. He has to his credit many debates, both intercollegiate and interfaculty, mock-trials, and uncountable arguments. A forensic nature if ever there was one! We wish you luck, Bob, when you leave these halls to tell the world what you think of it.

Arts Graduates

"Oh may I with myself agree."

WILLIAM RYAN, B.A.—Bill will be remembered by his classmates as a debater; not just one gifted with eloquence in debating halls, but as one who will argue anywhere, with anyone and on any subject. In classes, in corridors, in the locker-room, if there was a controversy Bill was always in the centre. He relies not only on his ability to argue, but also on his extensive knowledge of History to defend his opinion (usually different from everyone else's) on everything from modern art to the color of Joan the Terrible's hair. A radical at heart, Bill commands great respect from his fellow classmen. A real soldier, he has been in the C.O.T.C. longer than anyone else at Saint Mary's.

"Words of learned length and thundering sound Amaz'd the gazing rustics rang'd around."

JOHN DELANEY, B.Comm.—A versatile character, Jack is as much at home on a hand-ball court as he is in an intercollegiate debate. His easy manner and gift of gab make friends for him wherever he goes. Leaving Saint Mary's in 1939 he joined the Canadian Army where he was active until 1946. Qualities for leadership won him a lieutenantcy in the army and presidency of Students' Council on his return to academic life. He took a keen interest in all societies at S.M.C., in the majority of which he held an executive position. Jack's choice of words and famous quotations have been a source of wonder and often amusement,—to student and professor alike. Being well-versed in many subjects, he is capable of quoting all and sundry from Cicero to "Li'l Abner". Jack leaves Saint Mary's with a record behind him which will be the envy of many a graduate yet to come.

Commerce Graduates

*"The real ones, the right ones, the straight ones and the true,
The pukka, peerless sportsmen—their numbers are but few."*

FRANK GRAVES, B. Comm.—Frank has packed into his 22 years an enviable record. He found his way from St. Thomas Aquinas and Oxford Street Schools to Saint Mary's High. Overnight he won scholastic and athletic distinction. As the staunch captain of "Fighting Irish" teams he has led the "Maroon and White" to victories and championships on gridiron and rink. Frank is admirably suited for a Commercial career; steady, sure and calm, he has the happy faculty of coping with problems as they arise and conquering all by his undying determination. Were popularity the keynote of success Frank would have no rival; a friend of every student, he is respected and admired by all. When the doors of Saint Mary's open to launch him into the world he will take with him the goodwill and good wishes of all his associates.

James Delaney, B.Comm.

Albert Driscoll, B.A., B.Comm.

Joseph Wall, B.Comm.

"A very gentle beast and of a good conscience".

JAMES DELANEY, B.Comm.—Jim was born in the old port city on February 18, 1927. He spent eight years at Oxford Street School and three at Saint Mary's High School. After this he entered College as a Commerce Freshman. During the next four years Jim evolved himself into one of the leading students of the College.

He is known to all as a quiet, but sincere and conscientious fellow. Jim was one of the more studious of his class-mates, and his scholastic record is a credit to his hard work. Although he devoted most of his time to his studies, Jim was always ready to combine these studies with an active part in interfaculty sports. For several years he was one of the leading mounds-men of the "Commerce Nine." Jim also turned in some outstanding play in the interfaculty hockey league and was a member of the inter-collegiate boxing team of '45.

"I never knew so young a body with so old a head."

ALBERT DRISCOLL, B.A., B.Comm.—When Al matriculated at St. Patrick's High School, a call from the University of Saint Mary's College rang out "siste, viator". Al did for five years. Throughout his college career he was an active member in the Sodality and attended all the CCSMC rallies. In the Debating Society his "furor loquendi" was given full rein; as a member of the Journal staff '47, '48, (Asst. Business Mgr.) his "furor scribendi" found an outlet. In 1948 Al received his B.A. degree, but our traveller was loathe to leave, and lingered in the faculty of Commerce to master the little equation " $a=1\div p$ ". Al has not as yet reached his 20th birthday. Hence to an outstanding student we say "Vale".

"When there is an income tax, the just man will pay more, and the unjust less on the same amount of income."

JOSEPH WALL, B. Comm.—Always expert at saving himself for the final dash at exam time, our friend with the sandy hair, Joe Wall, has been fairly drooling at the sight of a B. Comm. degree within reach. A former engineer, Joe saw the light, and wasting no time in admitting that the intricacies of business and finance were just what he needed, Joe joined Mr. Beazley's accountants-in-training.

Usually quiet and sedate, it was always a pleasure to hear Joe in a debate, especially when he was accused of saying something he had not said. Then Joe told his opponents in no uncertain terms what he thought of their end of the argument, the result usually being a victory for the ledger-men.

Slinging the debits and credits about these last few years, Joe has proved himself capable of carrying S.M.C.'s training into the business world where it will do most good. Under Mr. Beazley's coaching Joe is all set to calculate anybody's profit earned through "trading on the equity."

Engineering

*"I grow old . . . I grow old . . .
I shall wear the bottoms of my trousers rolled."*

KENNETH BUTLER.—Ken was ushered into the world on February 1st, 1929 with a smile on his face, which has rarely disappeared since. From St. Thomas Aquinas School he descended upon Saint Mary's and stayed there until he obtained his diploma in Engineering. During the past several years Ken's major possessions seemed to be a sport coat (or two) and a maroon motorcycle, both of which were at times, loud. Always a real Santamarian, Ken arrived on hockey rink or dance floor with a genuine enthusiasm that was reserved especially for things pertaining to S.M.C. In fact there were few activities from gridiron to Sodality in which Ken didn't appear; and now with his leaving, even the corridors will clamor for recognition so long obliterated by his charming presence.

"Though somewhat tardy, I perchance arrive."

DONALD CUMMINGS.—It's pretty safe to say that in his years at Saint Mary's Don has never been on time for anything. The story will long be told how on the night of the bonfire and pep-rally, he arrived just as the last embers were flickering out and demanded to know why more students hadn't shown up.

In fact, Don is known to many only by reputation, as his face is not too often seen around the College. A staunch supporter of student-rights, he claims it's undemocratic to expect people to go to classes when there are so many important things to do, such as sleeping.

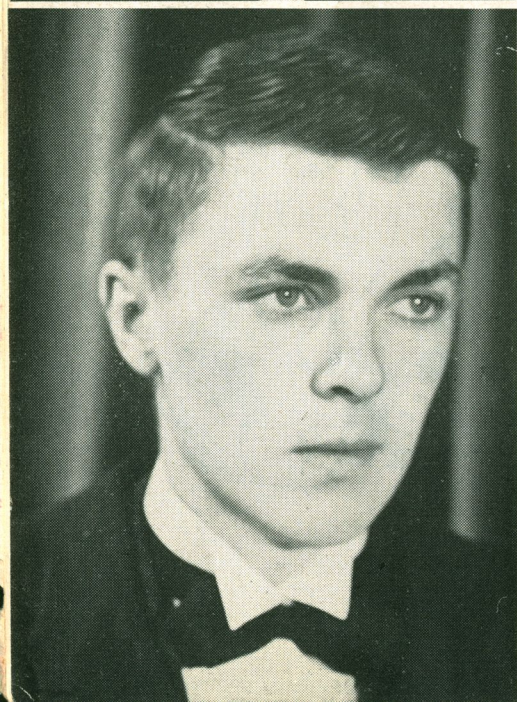

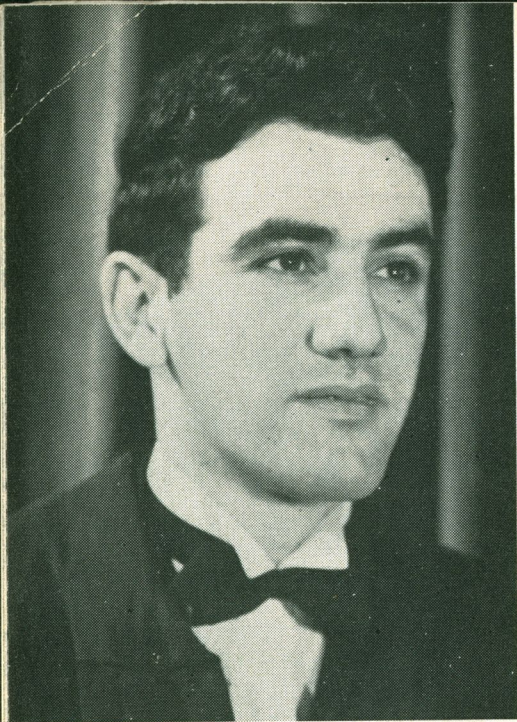

An expert on Bridge and politics, Don can tell you the latest political developments at City Hall, Ottawa, and Timbuctoo, plus his opinion of what's wrong with 'the damn government.'

Don's favorite saying is, "I'm giving up cigarettes as soon as I finish this package."

*"I'd face it as a wise man would
And train for evil, not for good."*

JAMES FITZGERALD—In 1946 a poll was taken of student opinion and great was the consternation, an Artsman wrote that it was his intention to become an Engineer. But lo and behold here he is! "Fitz", however has never become completely orientated to the hard cold facts with which his profession deals but, like Thurber, is quite puzzled about things in general. A good writer, his essays have sparked many a Journal; a good speaker, (despite his quiet nature) he nearly talked his candidate into the presidency. As president of the AAA, he did his best to refute the old saying about serving two masters but found himself in the soup quite often. "Fitz", not an exceptional athlete, made a name for himself in interfaculty football but lost it in hockey as a goal-tender. Though something of an iconoclast, he is a great man on a party.

Diplomas

"Simplicity of character is no hindrance to subtlety of intellect."

ALBERT FRECKLETON.—"Al" or "Freck" is a staunch member of the Harbor Town contingent calling Tufts Cove his home. After grammar school at Tufts Cove School, he went to Dartmouth High. Al entered Saint Mary's as a Freshman Engineer and quickly made himself known as a student par excellence and an avid supporter of all things Santamarian. On the extra-curricular side whenever an Engineering team took to the gridiron or rink, Al was always in there fighting. Everything he does is well done, and where some labor mightily and fall short, Albert takes all in his stride. As to the future Al has not decided whether to take his diploma to Tech, or to return to S.M.C. to add a B.Sc to his laurels. Whatever course he follows he will carry with him the good wishes of professors and classmates.

H.S.—Dartmouth; Interfac. Football, Hockey and Baseball '46-'49.

"Over the piano was printed a notice: Please do not shoot the pianist. He is doing his best."

ALEX J. MacDONALD.—Alex first saw light of day in St. Peter's, Cape Breton, and even today is the typical Scot. He was, however, brought up in Halifax and received his education here, graduating from St. Patrick's High School. Rejected from the armed forces, he worked at Coca Cola for a year, perfecting a mixer for his gaelic joy juice. In 1946 he joined the ranks of the transit men here at Saint Mary's.

Onetime stevedore and lumberjack, Alex can also display a mean left hand at the piano, though his principal extra-curricular activity is a certain blonde.

He plans to take Electrical Engineering on graduating from Saint Mary's.

H.S.—St. Pat's; Engineering Society '46-'49.

"And drunk delight of battle with my peers, Far on the ringing plains of windy Troy."

ANGUS J. MacGILLIVRAY.—A blessed event in 1922 brought Gus into the world in the dusty town of Stellarton, N. S. A few years later the MacGillivray clan took up residence in Halifax where young Gus attended St. Patrick's Grammar and High Schools. But before he matriculated the war broke out and Gus found himself in the Navy. He saw action aboard the the Norfolk, a heavy cruiser, and, while aboard the battleship Duke of York, saw the Turpitz shelled.

While on the blue, Gus saw the need for higher things in the way of education, so after the Peace bells rang out he returned to graduate from St. Pat's. It was a short step from there to Engineering at Saint Mary's.

Gus is an ardent and thorough student, taking a keen interest in his studies. He is also an excellent actor, having taken part in Amateur plays in this city. Hockey is his major sport, and he helped skate the Engineers to victory in the Interfaculty finals in 1948.

H.S.—St. Pat's; Students' Council AAA Rep. '49.
Interfaculty Hockey '47, '48 (Champs), '49.

Journalism Diploma

*"Not for the gain of the gold, for the getting,
the hoarding, the having,
But for the joy of the deed, for the duty to do."*

ALOYSIUS MANN.—No student has shown more versatile talents in his years at Saint Mary's than Al Mann. Besides being an excellent conscientious student, the New Brunswick born journalist excelled in numerous extra-curricular tasks.

On the stage he was unsurpassed having held a leading role in two of the college's most successful plays. It was Al who saved a drowning Journal and laid it once more on a strong, dry foundation. Al has also displayed commendable ability in athletics and public speaking.

Off the campus, among his friends he is as personable and amiable a fellow as you would care to have around. Decent, forthright, intelligent and thoughtful, — these are his primary qualities as a student and gentleman.

Rumour hath it that Al will leave his home on the shores of the Miramichi to seek his fortune far afield. But whether it be near or far, we feel that Al's journalistic talent will be recognized; and when he leaves us he will be accompanied by all good wishes for success.
