Dear Santamarians,

As the summer of 1998 draws near, activity on the Saint Mary's University campus will be anything but routine. Renovations to the Loyola Building will take place throughout the spring and summer, as well as the completion of the Sobey Building – due to open on September 1, 1998. Take a look at our website (www.stmarys.ca) to see the progress taking place.

Featured in this issue is the 1996/97 Annual Fund final report. We extend many thanks to everyone who contributed. Your on-going support and dedication to your alma mater is greatly appreciated and will help to ensure Saint Mary's students receive high quality programs and services.

Your alumni executive is very busy preparing for the upcoming Annual Dinner (May 30, 1998), Annual General Meeting (June 11, 1998) and Alumni Golf Tournament (August 27, 1998). Plan now to attend these upcoming events. As well, Branch events will take place around the world keeping Santamarians up-to-date on their university. Don't forget to mark October 15 - 18, 1998 on your calendar for Homecoming '98 Weekend. It promises to be a great time.

Please take a moment and vote for your 1998-99 Alumni Executive. See Pages 22 and 23 for candidates and ballot. A special thanks to all candidates for volunteering their time and energy in working on behalf of the Alumni Association.

ALUMNI PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Greeting fellow Santamarians,

This is the last column I will write as Alumni President. I want to thank the University staff who have been helpful over the past two years. I would like to thank my fellow Alumni Executive members who have worked hard to grow the Alumni Association. I will particularly mention departing Executive members Phil Gaunce, Cathy Smith, Johanne Caron, and Past President Brian Downie for the years of excellent service they have given to the Association. Above all, I thank you, the Alumni of Saint Mary's University, for giving me the privilege of serving you. It was an honor I'll always hold dear.

In the last year, the Alumni Association has become more focused on how to move forward strategically over the next few years. We have had lively debate and a melding of our purpose. Interesting enough, the conclusions are little different from those of Executive committee's 30 years ago when it was determined the purpose of the Association was to be that of bringing together the University's Alumni and to promote the best interests of the University. Our primary purpose remains to promote affinity among the Alumni to the Association and to Saint Mary's University.

This issue of the Alumni magazine includes the election of your new representatives on the Alumni Executive and Board of Governors. I feel confident in the existing Executive committee and the large and strong group of candidates standing for election. Please take a moment and call, fax, or email your vote to the Alumni Office. I also note with pleasure the listing of volunteers who have served the Alumni over the years. There are so many wonderful volunteers it is hard to credit any in particular, but Granville Kelly has spent close to 25 years organizing golf tournaments for the Alumni. The length of this service is a testament his tenacity and love for Saint Mary's.

My two final thoughts deal with departures and arrivals. Early in 1998 Father William Stewart, SJ departed for the Jesuit retirement home. There was a reception for Father which brought together all facets of Saint Mary's University in a touching display of affection for a giant of a man who dedicated more than 40 years of service to Saint Mary's. Although it was a wonderful reception there were more than a few misty eyes with the realization Father Stewart's sudden departure. Father, you will be truly missed.

My last observation comes from last September when I was in the University bookstore. I listened with interest as parents accompanied their children who were obviously freshmen through the maze of books and t-shirts. It was hard to determine who was more excited, the parents or the freshmen. It brought back an sense of deja vu for me, to remember the sheer excitement of what it was like to start life at Saint Mary's. Take a second to remember your first days at Saint Mary's, I bet you'll smile.

“Our Father Bill”

by Paul Fitzgerald

It was a typical day at the University in the early 1960s. A room full of students waited for Father Stewart to arrive and begin teaching philosophy class. He arrived, but started out the lecture on somewhat of a different note. He went over to his desk, picked up a book he was supposed to discuss that day, looked sourly at it, and then pitched it out the window.

“I crossed it off my must read list right away,” laughs Dr. Michael J. Larsen, Dean of Arts, who remembers the story as if it happened only yesterday. He was one of Father Stewart’s students.

There are lots of people who can tell you stories about Father William A. Stewart S.J. After all he’s been at Saint Mary’s since 1950. That was the year that the Upper Canada Province of the Society of Jesus (the Jesuits) came to run the academic and administrative duties at Saint Mary’s.

On January 9, a large group of Father Stewart’s University friends attended an “At Home” farewell party. Father Stewart has gone to spend some time in the Jesuit home in Toronto.

“I’m going to miss everyone,” says a humble Father Stewart, who sat and smiled as each person came over to shake his hand or give him a hug. At times he even held back tears, but maintained his warm smile. “I had a wonderful time at this University.”

“He’s a great man,” says Dr. Shelagh Crooks, Philosophy Department, who also had him as a professor. “Willie, as he is also called, was a demanding, if not to say formidable teacher, who was a philosophical model, and had a wonderful sense of humour.”

Dr. Larsen says that his sincere generosity was a quality that made him a successful teacher and administrator. He held the major administrative positions at the University, sometimes several at the same time. At one point, he was Acting President, Acting Vice-President, and Dean.

“In order to keep the paper work flowing, and in the interests of procedural correctness, he would send various recommendations up the line, to himself of course wearing different hats, until he had to make a final decision as Acting President,” recalls Dr. Larsen. “As Acting President in these situations, he generally tended to accept the recommendations of his Acting Vice-President and Dean. But he didn’t want it to be seen as a foregone conclusion.”

Father William Stewart S.J. (front left) taught philosophy for a number of years at Saint Mary’s. Some former and present professors from the Philosophy Department join him at his going away party earlier this semester. They are, from the left (back): Dr. Arthur Monahan, Professor Sheila Kindred, Dr. Rowland Marshall, and Dr. Richard Beis. Seated next to Father Stewart is Dr. Shelagh Crooks.

Many people remember him as playing many roles during his time at Saint Mary’s. One was being the backbone of the drama society. For years he was involved in all aspects of drama - even down to building the sets. “It was no surprise to find him dressed in work clothes and hammering away in the final days before a play opened,” says Dr. Larsen.

One distinct memory Dr. Larsen and many others have of Father Stewart is from the annual Saint Mary’s Christmas party for the children of the University community. For years, he was Santa Claus, and through his passion for acting and theatre work, he played the role children love so much. Many people, both young and old, were convinced that Father Stewart was really Santa - that’s how well he played the role.

“The Santa suit, the hat and beard, rouged cheeks, hearty laugh, everything was done to make the children feel that Santa was there and wanted them to have a wonderful Christmas,” says Dr. Larsen. “One Christmas, not too long ago, he couldn’t find his beard, looked all over for it, but had to come without it. Well, he carried it off so well that most of the children didn’t notice it until some sharp eyed youngster pointed it out. He confided that Mrs. Claus had asked him to shave it off temporarily, but that it would soon grow

Dr. Larsen’s wife, Jean has also known Father Stewart most of her life. Her mother, Christine Gorman, was a member of the Jesuit Auxiliary for many years and during that time a close family friendship developed with Father Stewart. “Father Stewart has always been a source of great encouragement and support for us,” she says. “His advice has been very helpful and his friendship very special.”

Kevin Cleary, Secretary to Senate, says that after having Father Stewart as a teacher, he ended up being hired by him as his assistant 37 years ago. “He is first and above all a superb teacher who was equally enlightening for students on the metaphysics of Aristotle as he was in instructing them in the art of set design for the drama society,” he says. “In the 46 years I have been fortunate enough to know him as a professor, boss, colleague and most of all a friend, I can best describe him by quoting the words spoken by Robert Whittinton: ‘And as time requireth a man of marvelous mirth and pastimes; and sometimes of as sad gravity, a man for all seasons.’”

Even though Father Stewart has left Saint Mary’s, a big part of him will remain. In fact, his presence will, in a sense, remain a distinct memory, frozen in time. And for all those alumni around the world, his move to the Jesuit home in Toronto doesn’t change a thing. He is, and always will be Father Stewart, the one who made Saint Mary’s what it is today - a first class institution.

Insuring your in-home office: luxury or necessity?

These days, more and more people are starting up their own small business.

Statistics Canada estimates that there are 2.5 million self-employed Canadians, most of them working at home. Regardless of what prompts them to become self-employed workers (personal challenge, economic reality, etc.), it is easy to understand why they choose their home as a place of business: existing infrastructures, stimulating personal environment, more enriching family life. Yet the independence that self-employed workers value so highly is surprisingly precarious: most are not insured, or think that they are!

The importance of insuring an in-home office cannot be overstated. Fire theft, water damage or any other kind of loss can affect not only the premises, files or computer equipment, but income as well.

The home insurance trap

Many self-employed workers who have set their office at home believe they are protected by their home insurance. Be wary of the trap.

The business is not automatically protected by the simple fact that it is in a residence. Most home insurance policies even expressly exclude this possibility. And even if the business is covered by this insurance, the protection may not be adequate.

Choosing the right insurance

While it is possible to extend "home" coverage to include the business by adding a few endorsements, the ideal situation is to obtain a separate policy designed specifically for in-home businesses. This protection is intended to be broader and truly corresponds to the business needs of the self-employed worker.

By choosing from a range of specific options, it is possible to insure receivables, valuable documents, personal and employee property, and to get general liability coverage against bodily injury, property damage as well as loss of revenue protection resulting from a business interruption due to a covered loss.

Computer system protection

The advantages of this type of insurance can be illustrated by a simple example; the computer system. For most self-employed workers, it represents their main work tool, without which the business could not operate. In the event of a loss, insurance would cover not only the computer equipment, but also the software, data and fees (for example, the work that went up in smoke or the contracts that could not be honored).

When you think about all the implications that a loss can have on the life of self-employed workers, it is easy to understand why many of them have looked to insurance companies for protection. They have come to realize that, as the year 2000 approaches, they cannot afford the luxury of doing without this type of insurance.

1973: Remember the Times?

The academic year 1972- 73 is slowly drawing to a close as the 1973 Santamarian is nearing completion. We have all seen a great many changes this past year in all realms: academic, social and administrative. We have seen the plans for a new library which is severely needed on this campus as the present structure has proven that additional facilities were required. This year has been one of the most active in student rights.

Students have been given more and more say in the selection of Deans, promotion and tenure of professors as well as budgeting, curriculum and other administrative and academic matters. Most of the credit lies in the hands of the Student Senators and Board of Governors who have spent many hours working for the welfare of the student body. 1973-74 will be the testing year for Saint Mary's University in that many reforms will be tried and hopefully installed as permanent fixtures of the University. To the graduating class I, on behalf of the students remaining at Saint Mary's University, wish you the best of luck in your future careers and I hope that this book will help you reflect in later life at S.M.U.

To the Graduating Class of 1973

Since the Graduating Class of 1973 is the last one to have come in when the University was still administered by the Jesuits, it is appropriate to acknowledge both the past and continuing contribution of these men to Saint Mary's University. The deep affection that the Graduating Class has expressed for the work of the Jesuits at Saint Mary's is testimony not only to their achievements but to the fact that they are firmly and unalterably entrenched in the tradition of this University.

It is the hope of all of us that the Graduating Class will always remember those virtues for which the Jesuits stand and that they will play a large part in your future lives. On behalf of the entire University Community, I wish you the very best and extend to you a sincere invitation to maintain an interest in, and a contact with, your Alma Mater.

International Centre Opens Here

By JOHN NANCEKIVELL Staff Writer

Education – It is almost a neglected subject at Saint Mary's – amongst students, anyway.

But then, there's the International Education Centre, a $38,000 project with headquarters in the Academic Complex.

Aimed at giving the Halifax community some contact with other cultures and ways of living, the project is funded by the Canadian International Development Agency and Saint Mary's to the tune of $18,000 and $20,000 respectively.

The submission for this project was by assistant professor Denis Healy on behalf of Saint Mary's. He is the executive director in charge of operating the centre and is responsible to a board of directors picked from the community most of whom have overseas experience in education.

"The purpose is to increase awareness, for the community to gain some tangible contact with the outside world," Healy said.

The centre concerns itself mainly with Africa now. To do this it has a small library, including African novels, all books borrowable; several slide projectors with speaking programs; cassette programs on tape; and a video-tape machine.

All this material is indexed. Included in the programs are debates on Africa's problems by people in a position to do something about them, lectures on African writers and reams of material on education, health, and politics on all the countries of Africa.

In essence, this is an African geography course. You learn how Africa lives.

And to help you even more, especially if you're a movie buff, there is a projection room across the hall in room 133.

Even though the emphasis has been on only Africa, there have been 10 students in to talk about volunteering for CUSO which provides some of the materials. Eventually, Healy wants to include resources on all the developing nations in Latin America and Asia as well as Africa.

The operation, though impressive, is in the primitive stage now. The centre is starting to book groups of students and interested adults from Halifax and Dartmouth this week.

Healy, though, is full of ideas and hopes for the future of the project. He sees it as a tool of education that will eventually end up helping to restructure education as we know it in high school and university.

Relic Ripped Off, Returned

By PAULINE VAUGHAN Staff Writer

Mary's back.

Rumour has it she came back alone in a taxi but administration officials aren't talking. According to Finance and Development Vice President, Edmund Morris, "The statue was returned Friday night at 7:00."

The statue, a wooden sculpture, of the Madonna and Child, was discovered missing from the foyer of the administration building last Friday morning.

Morris circulated flyers around campus Friday informing the student body the statue was missing, and promising no questions would be asked if it were returned within 24 hours. The statue was returned from outside the University", said Morris.

Morris would not elaborate any further on the statue's return and does not intend to nail the culprit(s). "Whoever sent it back lived up to their side of the memorandum," he said.

The statue, about four feet tall, weighs 20-30 pounds. Morris said it would be difficult to put a cash value on the statue. "If you had to put a cash value on it, it would be several hundred dollars he said. However, the monetary value of the statue was the least important thing, he said.

"It is the symbol of Saint Mary's", he said.

MBA Alumni Association: We Want You Back on Track!

The Saint Mary's University Master of Business Administration (MBA) Alumni Association was resurrected in October 1997 with an initial focus on bringing MBA alumni together again. Our first priority was to update the MBA alumni contact list and to develop an effective way to communicate with alumni on a regular basis. To date, 170 alumni have been added to the contact list but we need your help. We are asking MBA alumni to identify themselves to us by sending their current address, telephone numbers and email addresses c/o Saint Mary's MBA program, Halifax, Nova Scotia, B3H 3C3. In addition, Dr. Ramesh Venkat, MBA Director, has been developing an Alumni Association link to the University's website to allow alumni to stay in touch. So, keep your eyes open as you surf the web.

The MBA Alumni Association is committed to supporting MBA alumni and students alike, but we need your input and support to ensure that the Association's activities meet your needs and interests. Based on the input of the alumni we contacted, we kicked off the 1998 season with a February Social and Professional Development Workshop. Networking was the theme, and Melodie Stewart of Pro-Net Business Connections reminded the participants of the value of maintaining business relationships through networks like the Saint Mary's MBA Alumni Association. With one successful alumni event under our belts, the Association Executive is enthusiastically planning for our next event which will likely be an informal, Pub Nite this spring or early summer.

Further down the road, the MBA Alumni Association is working toward developing synergies with the University's MBA Program, the EMBA Program and the MBA Society. The EMBA Program may be located on campus next year, in the new building on campus, offering opportunities to develop closer relationships and to share common goals between these groups. A few of those goals include an internet website to facilitate alumni communication, a regular MBA newsletter, an MBA alumni directory, and an MBA student mentorship program and student placement officer.

Out front of the new Sobey building is, from the front to back: Lisa Haydon, Part-Time MBA Student Rep.; Pam MacLeod, Secretary; Jessica Andrews, Full-Time MBA Student Rep.; Lewis Page, President; and Sheila Randall, Vice-President.

These are just a few of the ideas from the MBA Alumni Association. We would really appreciate more input and suggestions from the MBA alumni about the types of alumni activities that you would support and attend. Below is a list of MBA Alumni Association members who would like to hear from you. Please, give us a call.

Thank You Alumni

The 1996/97 Annual Fund Appeal raised $321,104. The number of donors were 2318, an increase of approximately 450 donors compared the previous year's appeal.

Previous Donor Alumni Appeal was chaired by Paul Goodman, BComm '69 and President of Goodman Associates Incorporated. Saint Mary's is grateful for the numerous hours Paul spent volunteering with the campaign. Because of his dedication, we were able to exceed our goal.

Special thank you to Jack Keith, former Chairman of the Board of Governors who chaired the Leadership Club Appeal.

The donor report for the Building on Strength Campaign will be published in an upcoming Maroon and White issue.

Saint Mary's University, especially our students, would like to thank the following alumni, parents and friends for their support.

Note: Capital Campaign donors are not included in this report.

GRADS "GLOWING" WITH SUCCESS

Dave and Jim O'Connor, both graduates of Saint Mary's, are glowing with success. They own Glow Signs, a promotional equipment shop in Halifax. They are pictured here with Glowie, a walkin' and talkin' sign, which is receiving rave response from local businesses in Halifax.

Both Dave and Jim O'Connor are glowing these days. And they have a good reason to be.

They own Glow Signs and Promotions, a promotional equipment company located in Halifax. The two brothers, who are both graduates of Saint Mary's, say that their business hasn't stopped growing since opening two years ago. "Brighter Solutions" is their motto, and it's catching on throughout Metro and the province.

Jim walked across the stage in 1980 to receive an Engineering Diploma, and in 1992 Dave received a Bachelor of Commerce degree. Just after Dave graduated, both of them tossed around the idea of running their own business.

At first, they both knew that they wanted to be their own bosses, but were unsure as to what kind of business venture to take in life. With the quest of being successful entrepreneurs, they were on the look-out for innovative business ideas that would appeal to Nova Scotians.

It turned out that Dave noticed a new type of mobile sign while on vacation. When he returned home, he told his brother Jim all about it. So, curious as to what would materialize in the mobile sign business, they took a chance and purchased ten. Almost two years later, they now own almost 150 mobile signs.

"I owe it all to Jim," says Dave, nudging his brother's arm for fun.

"No, no. I owe it all to Dave," Jim smiles.

They take a break from the hectic schedule of the mobile sign industry to meet for an interview.

While they compliment one another for the success of the business, they also point out that their areas of study from Saint Mary's is a driving force in the growth of their business.

While they compliment one another for the success of the business, they also point out that their areas of study from Saint Mary's is a driving force in the growth of their business.

"Dave has a business background, and I have an engineering background," says Jim. "These two areas fit well together. Things just could not have worked out any better for us."

They both knew that their business would experience strong growth in the first year. However, they didn't expect to more than double their initial projection.

Dave says that they have grown not only in quantity of signs, but also by product line and franchise. "Initially we only had one product, but in response to market demand, we added four more types of signs to our product line," he says.

These new signs included various portable sizes and permanent installations as well as a recent popular product in Halifax - Glowie, a walkin' and talkin' sign which is receiving rave response from a number of local businesses.

Dave explains that their company's initial growth was in sales or rentals of mobile signs, and now they are expanding into a full service promotional equipment shop. He says that Glow Signs and Promotions can now accommodate any kind of promotion.

"We provide customers with on-site decoration and equipment, such as banners, sky dancers, money wind tunnel and game cards, to name a few," he says. "Essentially, we provide service and equipment for customer enticing/fun ideas not only for business but also fund raisers and parties."

The duo of entrepreneurs only want to keep growing, as they explain how their growth is driven by customer demand. "The marketplace is very competitive so our business customers have to promote themselves now more than ever to expand or simply to keep pace," says Jim.

National sales is also in the planning phase for Glowie, and they just developed an Industrial Trade mark for the walkin' and talkin' sign. They also indicate that the Saint Mary's University Business Development Centre is now completing a feasibility study on sales and distribution options.

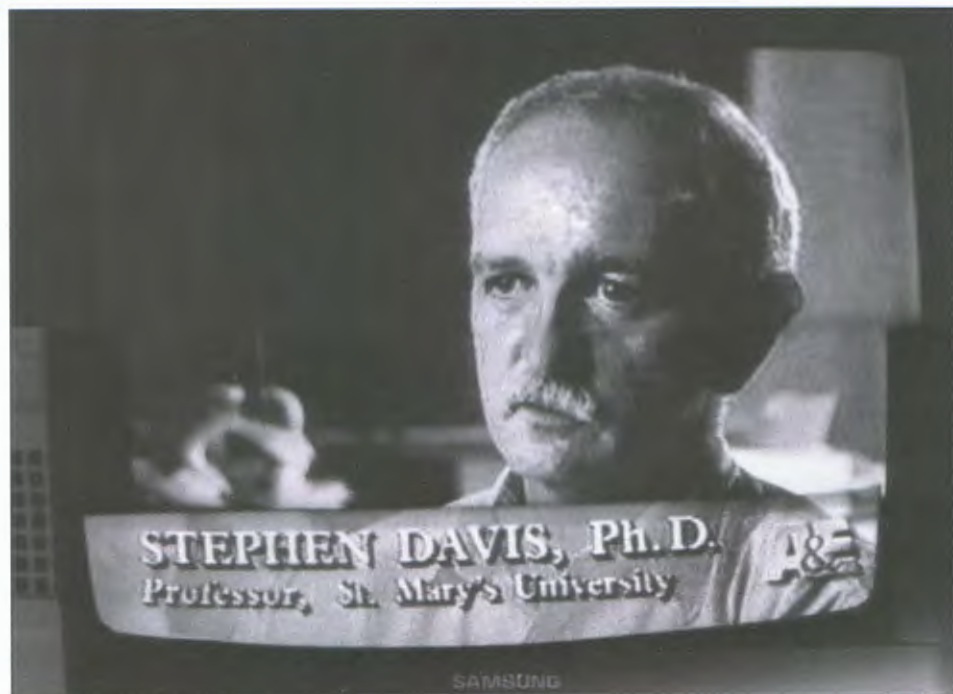

They even have a franchise in Sydney, Nova Scotia, which opened in August 1996. They soon plan to open other franchises in the province.

"Our franchise in Sydney has been very successful," says Jim. "The success in this part of the province is from working with the right people."

Dave and Jim look to the future with optimism, and say that their approach in business is enthusiastic but cautious.

And when anyone asks them about their future in the promotional equipment industry, the duo of entrepreneurs have one answer. "Glowing!"

Professor Appears on A&E

Goin' Hollywood!

Dr. Stephen Davis, Anthropology Department, was seen by millions of viewers across North America and the world as he appeared on the Arts & Entertainment (A&E) channel for the "Treasure: The Money Pit of Oak Island" documentary on Sunday, January 18.

by Paul Fitzgerald

Dr. Stephen Davis, Chair, Anthropology Department, has not yet found a buried treasure. In fact, he is not sure if there even is one, at least on Oak Island anyway. But he was recently fortunate enough to appear on one of the American giant networks, Arts and Entertainment (A&E) for their new documentary, "Treasure: The Money Pit of Oak Island."

The documentary, which aired on Sunday night, January 18, investigated a number of theories that a treasure may be buried somewhere on Oak Island. The island, located just off the coast of Nova Scotia, has attracted a number of searchers over the past two-hundred years – all hopeful to cash in on the mysterious fortune. Some believe that Captain Kidd, a known pirate who roamed the waters back in the 1700s, buried the treasure. Others suggest that Prince Henry Sinclair, who traveled to Nova Scotia in 1398, left something on the island.

"As a documentary, I thought they did an excellent job in outlining all the efforts in explaining the projects on Oak Island over the past number of years," he says. The documentary was made through Greystone Communications, and produced by Joshua Alper. "They outlined various theories as to what's been buried on the island, something which I thought was interesting."

Dr. Davis admits however that his comments were fairly negative in the sequence he appeared in. He commented on one story about a late 19th century excavation in the "money pit." It is said that as searchers dug every ten feet, they found an oak platform. After digging 90 feet down, they found a large rock with inscriptions. At the time a professor from a Halifax University, who remained anonymous, translated the symbols as reading: "Forty feet below two-million pounds are buried."

"I simply explained that there is no solid evidence that we can study," he says. "There is neither oak platforms nor a rock indicating a message. It's hard to support a theory when there is no solid evidence." He is also skeptical that a treasure is even buried on the island.

One of the observations he made from the program is the sequence of digging on the island over the years. "There has been so much digging on the island that the actual location of where the treasure is supposed to be buried is lost."

Now that the island has been honeycombed with digs, he also feels it would be interesting to look at all the treasure hunting that has occurred on Oak Island over the years. "To study all the different excavations on the island would certainly be another interesting angle on the topic," he says.

So, for now Dr. Davis' advice is to keep on digging. And, if you should be so lucky as to find a buried treasure, you too could be featured on A&E.

Alumnus Brings World to Saint Mary's

Saint Mary's has a great reputation on the international scene, according to a former Saint Mary's student. It's a reputation that has resulted in a new project that will see more of our graduates in prominent positions in some of the world's largest and best known international organizations.

Scot Slessor, '86 is Youth Internship Coordinator, Peace-Building and Human Development Division, Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade. DFAIT has just introduced a new program for Canadian youth. It's called Youth International Internship Program, and will allow successful applicants the opportunity to work in other countries for terms lasting anywhere from six months to a year.

The Saint Mary's project will provide 22 university and community college graduates with internationally-focused internship positions.

The competition was rigorous among universities in Canada to receive funding for such a project, according to Slessor. He says that Saint Mary's was chosen because of its strong academic programs and its commitment to international activities.

He says that the ultimate goal of the program is to provide Canadian youth with the global management skills they need to find suitable employment. Slessor says after candidates complete professional development training, they will start on work placements within Canada or anywhere around the world.

"The project should make a world of difference for Saint Mary's and its alumni," he says. "First, the program can give graduates of Saint Mary's the international experience they need to land a job. Secondly, it gives the University the opportunity to use this kind of program to build new bridges with many other international organizations around the world."

There are a number of fields that students can enter in this project. They include international marketing for the Atlantic Canadian private sector companies and organizations; project management on technical assistance projects in developing countries; administration, management and marketing for private sector international organizations; and project administration and policy development and policy development for government officers and other organizations in several developing countries.

Maureen Woodhouse, Project Manager, International Activities at Saint Mary's, says that such a program is a win-win situation for a number of people.

"The interns will gain valuable international world experience, and Nova Scotia employers will use the interns to expand and explore international markets," she says. "Also, international employers will use the Canada-specific knowledge of the interns to improve their linkages with Canada, and Saint Mary's University, through this network of interns and employers, will increase its international profile and improve its links to the private sector both within Nova Scotia and throughout the world."

The University has received funding from both the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade and from Human Resources Development Canada to manage the project.

International Youth Internship Program

Saint Mary's University, working in conjunction with the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade, will coordinate an international youth internship program that will provide meaningful international work experience to university and community college graduates who are either unemployed or underemployed. Saint Mary's University Student Alumni Association

SMU Ambassadors – Another Successful Year!

by Andrea Wrin

Well, it's been another great year for the Student Alumni Association. As exams approach and another year comes to a close it's always nice to reflect on the hard work and dedication of those students known as SMU Ambassadors. In the fall of 1997, SMU students were welcomed to get the "scoop" on the SAA, as Ambassadors offered free ice cream to those students interested in joining the association. The recruitment of SMU students proved beneficial as new, hardworking students pitched in to make a difference in the school and community.

SMU Ambassadors leaving for CSAAN '98 at the University of New Brunswick

Members of the SAA attended a national conference in January, the eighth annual Canadian Student Alumni Association Network (CSAAN) conference held in Fredericton, New Brunswick. Students from Nova Scotia to British Columbia attended the conference. The conference provides the perfect forum for students to meet and exchange ideas between fellow SAA members from across the country. Our SAA picked up some great ideas to improve fundraising for next year which we are already beginning to implement. CSAAN '99 will be hosted at the University of Saskatchewan. With the ideas learned this year, we hope to raise enough money to bring as many Ambassadors as possible.

Fundraising was very successful this year. The SAA was able to send nine students and SAA adviser, B.J. Frenette, to CSAAN '98 in Fredericton, New Brunswick. To raise money for the national conference, Ambassadors sold 50/50 tickets, shakers at the football games, assisted with Tempo framing at Fall convocation, and held coat-checks at the campus pub. The SAA's biggest fund raiser, however, comes from the sale of our Exam Survival Packs. Exam Packs require a great amount of time and effort on part of the Ambassadors to be successful. A special thanks should be extended to Internal Co-Ordinator, Kyla MacDonald, for her hand in making this year's Exam Packs the most successful sale to date. The SAA sold almost three hundred packs and these numbers are very encouraging for next year. At CSAAN '98 we picked up some great ideas to make Exam Packs soar in '99.

The Student Alumni doesn't just focus on fund raising. We are also committed to the community, students, staff and faculty of Saint Mary's. On January 28th, the SMU Ambassadors raised just under $500.00 campaigning for the Alzheimer's Society of Nova Scotia. The Ambassadors canvassed tirelessly in the cold that night to raise money for the worthy cause. This February, the SAA once again offered the Chocolate Rose campaign to faculty and staff of SMU. The chocolate roses are ordered from Laura Secord and delivered by SAA members to that special secretary or special someone on Valentine's Day. March was President for a Day month. This is an interesting annual contest where the SAA sells tickets to SMU students interested in being President of the University for a day. Dr. Ozmon exchanges places with the lucky winner and attends his/her classes while the student becomes President of the University for a day.

On March 27th members of the SAA said goodbye to another successful year and two long serving dedicated members Chris Matheson & Andrea Wrin at our annual Wine and Cheese reception. The "Ambassador of the Year" award is presented to the most deserving, hardworking SMU Ambassador and this year's recipient was Kyla MacDonald. At the reception, members remembered the good times we had bowling; stuffing pizza in our faces; playing pool; partying with students from across the country; and promoting pride and spirit in the hearts and minds of Saint Mary's students.

Great Expectations for Women's Hockey

by Penny Murdock

The Huskies' Women's Hockey Team vaulted from a relatively unknown club sport at Saint Mary's to national status over the course of one season. They will go down in history as the first ever winners of the AUSA women's hockey title and the first team from the Maritimes to compete in the first ever CIAU's.

"It's a huge development in women's hockey to be the first winners," says coach Lisa MacDonald. "To lay claim to the first ever championship."

Even though the Huskies' didn't capture a national title, nothing could dampen the spirit of this team of women who clinched the Atlantic title after playing just nine games during their regular season. What makes this accomplishment even more remarkable is that the women's hockey program at Saint Mary's operated as a club sport under the recreation program up until the championship series. They declared varsity status only recently in order to compete at the AUSA's.

The women received team uniforms just prior to leaving for the Nationals. They had been wearing old jerseys from the men's program. "They (the University) didn't want to send us to a national competition looking like the Bad News Bears," says MacDonald.

The old jerseys couldn't have been that bad though, they won an Atlantic title in them. Maybe the jerseys even brought them a little luck in each of their four games played at the AUSA's held at UNB in January. Three of their four games went into overtime, but the Huskies' still managed to win all four.

"We were very surprised. Things were looking bleak," says MacDonald. "We were short on the bench and the girls were running out of gas. But we had decided to make Saint Mary's the hotbed of women's hockey in the Atlantic provinces. That was our driving force."

MacDonald was realistic about her expectations for the team at the national level. "We are a very, very young team," she says. Many of the teams they faced have 10 and 15 years of experience at the varsity level. What she does hope came out of the tournament is some national attention to women's hockey in the Maritimes.

MacDonald, who played five seasons with the program at Concordia, feels that support of women's hockey at the university level has increased overall in the past few years. "The exposure at the Olympics certainly helped. We will continue to build on the momentum of the Olympics.

There has also been an increase in the enrollment of young girls in hockey," she says.

"We are very pleased to know that the women's hockey team has done so well in their first year. It will certainly help us recruit for the program in the future," says Larry Uteck, Director of Athletics and Recreation. "We are very proud of them."

John Landry Tribute Night

—A Night to Remember

Players, fans and coaches spanning three decades, gathered at the Nova Scotia Sports Heritage Centre in February to celebrate the 25 year career of John Landry as the manager of the Huskies' men's basketball team. It was a night of stories, told by players and coaches of memorable John Landry moments and there were plenty of them. Stories like the one of the time the team's van ran out of gas in the middle of nowhere on a dark winter night and it was Landry who walked for miles to a gas station. And there were plenty of juicy fruit stories also.

The tribute night was an overwhelming success and it was topped off in March when Landry was named "Manager of the Year" for the fourth time. By the end of the evening, there was no doubt in anyone's mind, that it would be a night that Landry will always remember.

Huskies Have a New Football Coach

Blake Nill has been chosen as the new head coach of the Huskies football team.

"There was a strong field of candidates for the head coaching job. The caliber of those who applied and those who we interviewed could have stocked most of the football teams in the CIAU," says Larry Uteck, Director of Athletics and Recreation at Saint Mary's and head coach of the Huskies' football team for the past 15 years. "Blake brings to the team the commitment, desire and experience level that is fundamental to the success of the Huskies' football program."

Nill has accepted a three year contract. "It may sound a little trite but I was overwhelmed when Larry called me," he says. "This is an important point in my life, for me and my family and it will be a phone call that we will cherish because it allows me to fulfill a dream to stay in coaching in football at this level."

Nill has fifteen years of football experience, both as a professional Canadian Football League Player and in coaching positions. He has spent the last six seasons as the full-time defensive coordinator with the St. Francis Xavier University X-Men football team. From 1983-87, Nill played for the Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger Cats and The Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Nill is confident he can lead the Huskies' football team back to league dominance. "It has been said that a team's winning season occurred when the morale of the entire team was high and when the greatest effort was exerted by every player... and by the head coach and his staff," says Nill. "I promise my greatest effort as head coach of the Huskies' football team."

Correction

In the winter edition of The Maroon and White, Alumni were erroneously informed that "in November 1997, the Senate of Saint Mary's University voted to have the A+ grade carry 4.30 quality points retroactive... to the 1994-95 academic year for graduate grades." This is not the case in that the retroactivity and change in quality points for A+ grades applies only to undergraduate courses.

Courses on the Web

Saint Mary's will start offering courses on the World Wide Web this September.

"It's an incredible opportunity. The web is a powerful medium and we will be able to reach the world with our courses," says Dr. Michael West, Astronomy and Physics Department, Saint Mary's. West will be one of the instructors for the first web courses. There will be two courses being offered on the Web by Saint Mary's - Life in the Universe (Astronomy 217.1) with Dr. West and The Earth from an Atlantic Canada Perspective (Geology 204.0) with Dr. John Waldron.

Saint Mary's University is one of six universities in the Atlantic Provinces that has received funding from Industry Canada to form a consortium for the development and delivery of credit courses on-line.

It will be a lot of work creating these courses for on-line delivery. "For me it's fun in developing a course. It's lots and lots of work but it's well worth it," says Dr. West.

When You Are Willing

The best possible time to make your will is now! Some alumni put off the process while they wait for life to settle down. As you know, such a time rarely arrives, and your will might then never be made.

You can change your will at any time. In fact, you should review your will regularly with advisors, especially when major changes in family circumstances, or the size and nature of your estate make revisions advisable.

Please remember Saint Mary's University whenever you are making or revising your will.
