Students Respond to the Royal Commission on Post Secondary Education

by Christine Soucie

The long awaited release of the provincial Royal Commission on post secondary education resulted in discussions from all aspects of the education community in Nova Scotia. Students from Saint Mary's University met last weekend to formulate SMUSA's response to the royal commission. This report will be presented at the SUNS (Students' Union of Nova Scotia) conference this weekend. SMUSA President Mark Bower hopes to present it also to the Minister of Education personally.

James LeBlanc, chairperson of SUNS, feels that it is important for students to react to the provincial commission. "If we don't say anything, then all the more reason for the government to go ahead and restructure the Nova Scotia education system. The government will want a response and this is a good time for SUNS to not only comment on the royal commission but on Nova Scotia's present education system, whether the comments be negative or positive."

The contentious recommendations are those that deal with an increase in tuition fees, a core curriculum and the abolition of the Nova Scotia bursary program to be replaced with a loan program. Also, the report recommends that a Council on Higher Education, to be appointed by the government, would be "endowed with executive authority and discretionary powers over funding in order to ensure that university planning, programming and resource allocation are performed in the context of a provincial system."

Students at Saint Mary's are concerned that the Council will erode university autonomy. As well, SMUSA has problems with the make-up of this Council; there is only room for two academics. Thus, not all of the institutions will be represented. However, SMUSA does recognize that there is a need for university cooperation, especially in the Metro area.

Mark Bower agrees that this Council and its powers and duties are a troublesome area in the report. "The Minister of Education has already said that he wants to push ahead with the development of the Council on Higher Education. This will remove university autonomy and place more power into the hands of the provincial government. This would be advantageous to the government but certainly not to the universities."

The commission states that students are the primary beneficiaries of post secondary education so, thus, should assume 50% of the cost of their instruction. When one considers the complex funding formula of universities, this would then mean that students would pay 30% of the total cost of their education. Since students now pay around 15% of the cost, basic arithmetic shows that tuition fees could double.

Saint Mary's students, last weekend, by a large majority, agreed that this would result in heavy financial burdens for students and could possibly lead to a migration of students to other provinces where tuition fees would be significantly lower.

The report stressed the importance of a liberal arts education. Thus, the commissioners recommended that a core curriculum be instituted in all Nova Scotia universities. Students would be required to study grammar, literature, a modern language, philosophy, mathematics, history, political economy and a science.

Saint Mary's students recognized the importance of a core curriculum in the high schools but suggested that perhaps a core program of a lesser degree be introduced in each of the universities' faculties. Students did not want to extend their studies by one year or deplete their number of specialization courses.

The development of a Nova

SMUSA President, Mark Bower

Scotia loan program, to be called the Educational Development Fund, in lieu of a bursary program was opposed. Students agreed that the debt load coupled with a drastic rise in tuition rates would prevent many students from attending a university. Many felt that all those who are academically qualified should be able to pursue a higher education if they so desire. Thus, one's financial situation should not be a major factor in one's ability to attend a university. St. Mary's students want to prevent the development of an elitist post secondary education system.

Dr. Ozmon, the President of Saint Mary's, has no faith that the report's recommendations will guide post secondary education in Nova Scotia into the 21st century. "There is a sense that the report is saying there should be better control over N.S.'s universities and that they should be whipped into shape. Then, of course, there is the suggestion that if the Council cannot do this, a University of Nova Scotia should be formed. If this is to be the case, I think there can be more positive reasons for creating a U. of N.S. than just whipping institutions into shape. The report does not take us anywhere. It is not visionary."

Retraction

On October 10, 1985 (volume 51, no. 6) The Journal published an article titled "Election Discrepancies: Some Question of their Validity" by Christine Soucie. That article contained the following statements:

The President, Mark Bower, removed 11 SUNS membership ballots randomly. This was done because he felt that part-time students should not have been permitted to vote on this question.

The Journal, its staff, and Ms. Soucie wish to retract those statements and apologize to Mr. Bower.

Bookstore Robbed

by Colin MacMillan

On Friday, December 27 the university bookstore, located on the second floor of the Student Centre, was neatly and efficiently robbed by one man and an unknown accomplice.

Taken were a number of graduation rings, 3 or 4 watches, a sweatshirt, and a Saint Mary's jacket. All has been recovered except for a few hundred dollars in bus tickets and 6 or 7 rings — it is assumed that these were passed off the accomplice.

The man, described as "a drifter from Ontario" had broken into a number of establishments that evening and was apprehended by the Dartmouth police force while attempting to rob a business there.

It is reported by Don Harper, Bookstore manager, that the man "entered through an unlocked first floor window and then made his way to the second floor where he entered the store through the ceiling." The ceiling has since been made secure and Mr. Harper states that the University "is investigating ways to prevent this from happening again. There is a possibility of electronic surveillance devices being employed.

The man has since been tried and found guilty. He faces imprisonment of at least one year.

It is also known that the man left his own jacket in the store and removed a set of ring samples worth very little. All cash was secure in a different location and security will be increased.

Take A Look is a free notice column open to all members of the University community with something to offer our community. Submissions must be typed and double spaced.

Take A Look

In order to get into our publication, all notices must be in our office in Room 517, SUB by noon on the Monday before you want the notice to appear. Due to limitations of space, the notice should be brief and to the point. If the notice is to run more than once it must be resubmitted each week.

THE GORSEBROOK LOUNGE

The Gorsebrook Lounge is a service provided by Saint Mary's University Students' Association for its students.

The Lounge is a great place to relax, meet with friends and make new ones.

This term the Lounge will be having movies on Wednesday evenings, cribbage tournaments, various entertainment and special events.

On Thursdays and Fridays from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m. a waitress will be available for taking supper orders. Your meal card will be accepted. This makes for a nice change from the Residence Cafeteria environment.

In the near future the Lounge will introduce a variety of special non-alcoholic beverages for those who choose an alternative to alcohol.

Students and members of the University Community are encouraged to utilize the Gorsebrook Lounge. It's a nice place to unwind after a day of classes and studying.

Should you have any ideas that you would like considered for the Lounge, let the Staff, Lounge Manager, or S.M.U.S.A. know.

STUDY SKILLS WORKSHOP

Saturday, January 25th

10 - 4

Workshop will examine your present Study Skills, and teach methods of improving concentration, increasing motivation, effective time management, learning from texts, lecture note-taking and exam preparation.

For more information, call Counselling Services, ext. 2224 or 2518.

Black Jack Anyone?

The Commerce Society will be offering everyone a chance to show some skill or luck in this area during "Flamingo Road". At the same time you can order the 1985-86 Commerce Society shirts and shorts for the last time this year. Or maybe you'd rather just pick up a ticket for the 12th Annual Business Dinner. These tickets go fast and at a price of $10.00 it's no wonder.

Whatever your fancy, we'll see you on the "Flamingo Road" carnival week. Watch for the Saint Mary's Commerce Society.

HOST FAMILIES

Host families are needed to provide accommodation for graduate students from the People's Republic of China who will be attending an English orientation program at Saint Mary's University January 12 to February 22. Room and board will be paid. If you are interested in this kind of cultural experience, please contact Judy at 429-9780, ext. 2392, Monday to Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

History

The maritime Provinces have experienced six crucial decades since the 1600s. If events had turned out differently during any of these decades, the Maritimes as we know them today would not exist. "Maritime Provinces History: Six Crucial Decades" is the title of an evening course being offered at Saint Mary's University beginning Thursday, January 30. No previous background in history is required. For more information, contact the Division of Continuing Education at Saint Mary's University, 429-9780.

VALEDICTORIAN CONTEST

All potential graduates are eligible to participate in this year's Valedictorian Contest.

Applications are available from Student Services (fourth floor Student Centre). Applications will be received until 5:00 p.m. Monday, February 3, 1986. The Contest will be held on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 11, 1986.

Additional information is available from the Director of Student Services.

Help Line

Help Line, a 7 day, 24 hour telephone referral, information, counselling service is accepting applications for volunteers. A Human Relations Training Session will be held Feb. 14, 15, 16, 18, 20. Please have applications in by Feb. 1, 1986. For more information or an application form, phone 422-2048. Also, 1986 Directory of Community Services is available.

C.F.S.M. Second Semester Debut

by Frank Hicks

The second semester has begun and C.F.S.M. is back on the air. "There is one major change this semester, and hopefully there will be some more," says Charles Russell, the station manager. Over the Christmas holidays, Charles was able to install the wire from the station to the sub cafeteria, with help from some of his executive. He also put in a new sound system to that the off-campus students can hear the radio station in the cafeteria. Charles said, "the old sound system was almost as old as some of the students to whom it was playing, and was an insult to the status of the off-campus students who make up more than half of the station's listening audience." The addition of the radio station's music to the cafeteria should break an existing atmosphere of boredom and make it a more pleasant place to sit and talk.

C.F.S.M. is also putting on their second annual Talent Show on Sunday, Jan. 19 in conjunction with winter carnival. Entries this year will cost four dollars for single or two person acts, and ten dollars for groups or bands. The entry fee was set to help cover some of the costs of putting on the show and is more than reasonable when you consider the first prize. The first prize this year is an all expense paid one week trip for two to Mont St. Anne. This prize was donated by Travel Cuts of Halifax. For more information or entry forms go to or call the station at 423-1739. Or you can go to the information desk in the sub.

"Other changes that hopefully will be coming this semester," says Charles, "will be the addition of a sound system to the games room in the sub as well as broadcast capability into the pub as an alternative to Much Music's slow hours. Hopefully they will also be able to get back into the residence cafeteria. They were there last year but all of the wires were ripped out by the contractors during the renovations over the summer. We are also going to add to our programming a top ten countdown each week on Sunday evenings which will be done by Craig Condon from the list that we compile for the Journal," says Charles. everywhere in residence. He said that if you have a problem and want to get the station to try these steps. (1) Plug the radio into a wall outlet. Walkmans with a transformer will not work, however they should work with just batteries when placed near an outlet or phone line. (2) Tune in to 550 AM. (3) Make sure that the radio is not within five feet of a television set or a fluorescent light, for these will cause interference with the station's signal. "If you still have a problem getting the station then call us at 423-1739 and we will come

Charles also said that he has heard a lot of complaints about not being able to pick up the station in the rooms in residence. To his knowledge it is possible to get the station over to your apartment and try to help," says Charles. "Hopefully this will further increase our listenership and renew faith in the station's usefulness as an alternative source of entertainment. If you can pick the station up then use the phone to call them for a request which they welcome and will try to honour."

Bus Stop Removed

by Colin MacMillan

During the Christmas holidays the bus stop located on Tower Road directly across from Gorsebrook Avenue was removed by Metro Transit.

The stop, utilized by most of the approximately 1000 students living in residence at Saint Mary's University, is believed to have been removed by request of the owner of the house located directly behind the bus stop, 817 Tower Road.

The official reason issued is that the bus stop is located too close to a crosswalk and therefore is a hazard to pedestrians.

Mark Bower, president of Saint Mary's Students' Association, has begun lobbying Alderman Deborah Grant to have the stop replaced. Mr. Bower, as quoted from his press release, "was totally unsatisfied with her lack of concern for the problem." Ms. Grant's response was that there was another stop one block away and students wouldn't mind the inconvenience.

Students polled minded the inconvenience. One student who wished to remain any-mous asked someone to answer "why the stop was removed when there have been no accidents there that anyone has ever heard of and the stop is always packed with students, businessmen and senior citizens. I'm sure the older people mind

Mr. William Cox, resident of 817 Tower Road, was unavailable for comment. Mr. Cox is a partner in the same law firm as Mr. Ronald Downie, chairman of the Board of Governors for Saint Mary's.

SMU Competes at Concordia

by Kristine DeCoste

On January 22-26, four of Saint Mary's MBA students will be off to Concordia for an annual MBA Case Competition. Unlike the undergraduates (involved in the ICBC), the MBA's don't have to qualify. The four member team is chosen by people submitting their names and a few members of the faculty choose a group which they feel would best be able to compete.

This year there are 16 teams from all across Canada. Each member is chosen on the basis of the working knowledge they have of business. The cases given to the teams can be specific (accounting, marketing) or general on business policy.

This year's team from Saint Mary's University was selected in November and consists of the following:

Herb Mackenzie, Timberlea, N.S., Marketing.

Jim Duncan, Moncton, N.B., Management Science.

Ravi S. Srinivasan, Madras, India, B.Tech.

Don Macneil, Noranda, Quebec, Accounting, Finance.

Brian Stewart, Saint John, N.B. (1st year MBA attending as an observer).

We wish the team all the best in their competition next week. Jim Duncan feels that they "are the best".

Amateur Show Great

by Colin MacMillan

On Friday of last week the art gallery here opened its doors to a different and innovative new show.

The student!staff!alumni art show has some of the best and 'understandable' art of any amateur show. The gallery now holds an impressive collection of paintings, photographs, sketches and sculptures with mediums ranging from pen and pencil to terry cloth.

If you do attend the show be on the lookout for the pen and pencil drawings of Lou Fraser, who captures detail with amazing clarity, the sepia pencil sketch by Pat Brown entitled "Ginger" and the amazing photographs in the collection.

Honourable mention must go to the amazing "Peanut Buddha Sandwich", honour like that deserves more than I can say about it.

The show will run until February 9.

Winner of the Incredible Caper Sweepstakes, Gisele Lewis (centre), is shown receiving a Sony am/fm cassette stereo for guessing the correct number of people in the car. Shown also are Earl Surrette (left), Mini Mart Manager and Keith Hotchkiss, Director of Student Services. Gisele is a second year sociology student. (Kevin Biggs)

Students March On Conference

Halifax (CUP) — Twenty student politicians carrying placards and chanting "Stop the cuts" marched on the opening of the Canadian first ministers' conference in Halifax last Thursday.

The protestors from the city's universities and colleges delivered telegrams from student councils across Canada protesting the federal government's cutbacks to education funding.

James LeBlanc, chair of the Students Unions' of Nova Scotia, said the proposed cuts to Established Programmes Financing, $6 billion altogether by 1991, will be "incredibly devastating" to the province's universities.

"Nova Scotia's students are already paying the highest tuition fees in the country. There's no room for any cutbacks to education," he said.

"We want to meet with federal finance minister Michael Wilson to get our message to him. We want to deliver some letters from Nova Scotia students," said LeBlanc.

SUNS collected 1500 signatures from Nova Scotia students asking Wilson to reconsider his decision to reduce federal funding to the provinces.

Of the ministers who arrived on the meeting's first day only Pawley crossed the street to meet with the student protestors.

"It's not just education, it's health too," said Pawley. "We're on your side," he said.

Daniel Croft, a student councillor at the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design, was disappointed with the protest. Croft wanted more than just student politicians at the rally.

"It's our fault this is so pathetic. We want to be respected in the eyes of the politicians but they're not even looking at us," Croft said.

He hoped the Friday study-in at the first ministers conference by NSCAD students will be better attended. If they can't get into the World Trade and Convention Centre where the conference is being held "we'll have to sit on the steps," Croft said.

Student Wins Right To Sue Ryerson

Toronto (CUP) — Students disgruntled with the way a course is taught can sue the institution offering it, an Ontario court has ruled.

Provincial court Judge Pamela Thomson Sigurdson concluded recently that a 37-year-old former student at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute here can sue the school because one of its professors allegedly departed from the official course outline.

Hughes Chicoine, a professional photographer in an upgrading programme, failed a compulsory third-year course in 1981-82. He was expelled from the programme.

Chicoine appealed using internal university procedures and was eventually offered the chance to repeat the course.

Unsatisfied, he took the case to small claims court to recover about $630 in tuition and some $800 in student loans.

Ryerson challenged the court's jurisdiction in the case.

Although the courts traditionally stay out of internal university disputes, Judge Thomson Sigurdson found that the rules governing Ryerson do not exclude courts from deciding breach of contract.

"The purpose of Ryerson Institute is to provide programmes and courses of study in a variety of areas; not to adjudicate complaints arising from student/university relations," she said in her judgement.

Chicoine's lawyer, Frank Hubscher, said the decision "certainly opens up the situation" for students to take legal action against their schools.

"The precedent has been established. Yes, you can sue for a breach of a course outline," he said.

Hubscher couldn't speculate on how widespread the impact of the judgement will be, but he said his phones "have been ringing off the hook from students who want to retain my services."

Ryerson's lawyer, Alison Young, argued in court that allowing the action to proceed would open the floodgates for lawsuits but afterward she downplayed the ruling.

"I don't think it's that big a deal," she said. "In the final analysis I don't think students care enough about the course outline being adhered to."

Assassin Games

Brandon (CUP) — Brandon University students will have an opportunity to vent their frustrations and win cash prizes — by pretending to assassinate their fellow students.

But many students are outraged that the game, Killing As An Organized Sport (which is popular at many American universities), will be played at Brandon.

"This is a stupid man's game. It just proves men's aggressive behaviour," said Brandon student Sharron Powers, a member of the Manitoba Action Committee on the Status of Women.

Young said that having gone through the university appeal process, Chicoine should not have been given recourse to the courts.

"Our position is that he's really complaining because of the mark he got rather than breach of contract," she said.

Women.

Brandon Students' Union vice president external Clark Marcino said some posters advertising the game are quite offensive.

"I spotted one sign in Darrach Hall (the Brandon men's residence) that said, 'Does the thought of assaulting women turn you on?'," Marcino said. "It was gone within the hour. I was glad someone had the initiative to take it down."

Another poster said, "Girls turn the tables, give it to the guys for once."

The game's chief organizer, Brandon student David Miller,

Council of Ontario Universities information officer Will Sayers agreed with the two lawyers that education malpractice is a burgeoning area.

"It's the kind of litigation whose time has probably come," he said of Chicoine's lawsuit.

said the posters were purposely designed to be "provocative."

Miller said reaction to the game, in which participants are given a photograph and the phone number of their "target" and must "assassinate" them in the presence of a witness, has been very good. He said 100 Brandon students have signed up to play, and he has received only two negative responses.

"Women are usually better at the game than men because men are more naive and trusting of women," he said.

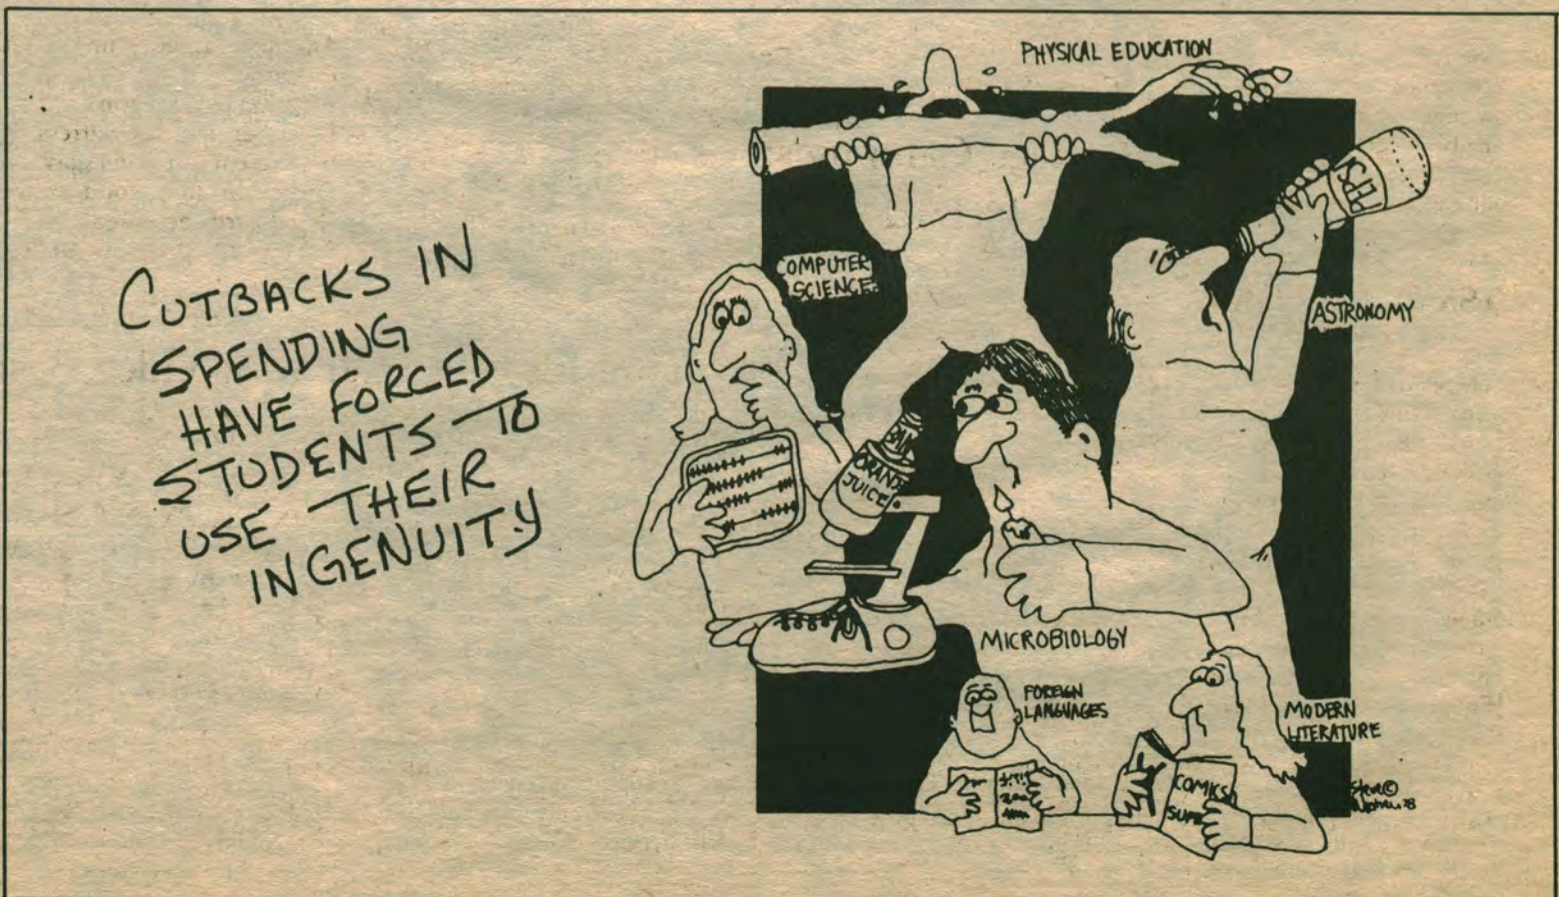

Some students are concerned that KAOS could be registered

He said university presidents are likely following the case with interest, but added "there's no reason to think that there's a groundswell of protest coming" from students who think an institution hasn't kept its part of the bargain.

as an organized clue and receive student council funding.

Ruth Pryzner, Brandon student council president, said this is unlikely.

"Even though the game is harmless from a physical point of view, the mentality of violence is inherent and not conducive to create, nonviolent intellectual growth and resolution of conflicts," Pryzner said. "To get student funding it has to be in line with the Brandon constitution, and it isn't."

SMUSA's Winter Carnival 86: 'Miami Ice'

Opportunity!

Since coming to Saint Mary's, have you found that "something" has been missing? Would you like to have a say in what events take place that affect students? When reviewing your resume, do you find that there is very little information listed under "Extra-Curricular Activities?" Have you considered getting involved in YOUR students' association?

Applications for the position of Treasurer 1986-1987 are open from January 15-29, 1986. As Treasurer, you can develop interpersonal skills and can find out how the "real business world" works. The Treasurer has input into how your student fees are spent and what types of entertainment occur on campus. Employers look for students who were involved in extra-curricular activities while at university and who have demonstrated the ability to get along with other people. Holding the position of Treasurer shows employers that you can do more than study; it shows that you can work well with other people, too.

If you would like to know more about the actual duties of the Students' Association Treasurer, please contact me. I am in my office on the fifth floor of the Student Centre from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. every day.

Sincerely
Robert White
Treasurer

Convocation Site

On Monday, 12 May 1986, Spring Convocation will be held at the Halifax Metro Centre, marking the first time since the construction of the gymnasium and the Winter Arena that this important event will be held off campus. In the early years of the University's location on the present campus, Fr. W.A. Stewart, S.J., has informed me that convocations were always held off campus in one of the downtown hotels, especially the Lord Nelson. Hence, in a very real sense, the 1986 Convocation will be returning to traditional roots.

The decision to move to the Metro Centre and thereby break with the traditional practice of the University was arrived at only after a careful analysis of the situation, and after due consultation with the University's Board of Governors, Senate, Deans, Senior Class Executive, and the Senior Class itself. The latter were provided with an opportunity to express their views on the matter in an opinion poll, conducted on November 20 and 21, 1985.

Some of the salient points considered in this decision are noted herewith.

After the deadline (21 September 1985) for receipt of Applications for Graduation, I advised President Ken Ozmon that there was a significant increase over previous years in the number of potential graduates. In addition, the approximately 150 students who graduated on 15 November 1985 have the option of receiving their parchments at Spring Convocation. Using the trends of past years with respect to the numbers in these two categories who would be likely to graduate in person at Spring Convocation, it was apparent that two Convocations, traditionally held in the Theatre-Auditorium, would probably be unable to accommodate the number of graduates together with their invited guests, in addition to special guests of the University.

Further, the evaluation which the Convocation Committee (a joint Committee of Senate and the Board of Governors) made of the 1984 Convocation had identified several problem areas. Heading this list was the fact that graduates had been limited to two invitations each for their guests — a policy which, while unavoidable, was most unpopular with the members of the Class. In addition, notably in the afternoon Convocation, 1984, the Theatre Auditorium was unbearably hot and crowded, as were both post-Convocation receptions held in the Multi-Purpose Room. In 1984, the Convocations started at 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. and this was noted as being inappropriate in that a longer period of time was required by maintenance, by Saga Foods, and also the Registrar's staff in order to properly clean and reset the facilities for the afternoon exercises.

Hence, faced with these problems from previous years and the prospect of the largest graduating class in the history of Saint Mary's, options to holding two Convocations on campus were explored.

The first option was to move off campus to a large facility in which it would be possible to hold one exercise. The Halifax Metro Centre could readily accommodate our members in a temperature-controlled atmosphere, with plenty of appropriate reception space available close by. Further, this Centre had already been used successfully for Convocations for several years by the Technical University of Nova Scotia. A very careful check was made with appropriate officials at TUNS who enthusiastically endorsed the holding of their graduation exercises in the Metro Centre, noting, among the advantages, the fact that it can readily be set up in an appropriate manner; it can comfortably accommodate all guests of the graduates (TUNS, for example, issue 10 invitations per student with more available if requested); the reception area is bright, cheery, and spacious; and the space under the seats provide a large assembly area for graduates' special guests, and stage party. Further, the cost is not prohibitive.

On the negative side of this option was the fact that it would break the traditional practice of the University vis-a-vis the location of Convocation; students would prefer to have their graduation on the campus at which they studied; parking would not be free in the downtown area on a Monday; one Convocation would be longer than two; and notwithstanding copious notes and assistance from personnel at TUNS, there was a significant challenge to organize an operation as large and detailed in a new and strange, off-campus location.

The second option was to hold three convocations on campus. Since this could not feasibly be done in one day, the possibility of two exercises on Monday and another, either on Sunday or Tuesday, was analyzed. If on Sunday, more traditional practices would be interfered with, including the Graduating Class's Champagne Brunch; campus tours for parents and guests; the Baccalaureate Service; Post Baccalaureate Reception; Chancellor's Reception and the Chancellor's Dinner. Given the fact that Saint Mary's and Mount Saint Vincent Universities have the same Chancellor, and the fact that our sister institution's graduation is on Saturday, the rescheduling of the Baccalaureate Service and the Chancellor's Reception and Dinner proved almost impossible.

To schedule one Convocation for Tuesday also proved virtually impossible because of a prior commitment to a conference group, involving over 400 delegates. They had received a commitment from the University in advance of the discovery of the increased number of potential graduates. To break such a contract after the group had advertised their dates, time, and location would have seriously damaged the integrity of the University vis-a-vis the conference business, the revenue derived from which is a vital component of the University's fiscal operation.

After weighing the pros and cons of these 2 options; after the matter had been discussed at meetings of the Convocation Committee, the Senior Class, the Board of Governors, Senate, and the academic deans; and after the results of the 2-day opinion poll conducted by the Senior Class Executive was made known, the President decided that there would be one convocation exercise held at the Halifax Metro Centre on Monday, 12 May 1986. In making this decision, commitments have been made that this site is an experimental one for 1986 only and will be reviewed after 12 May and a decision made with respect to Convocations in subsequent years. Further, that every effort will be expanded to preserve the traditional aspects of the Convocation ceremony and to make it as uniquely a Saint Mary's exercise as possible; and lastly, that the Convocation Committee, working in conjunction with the members of the Senior Class Executive, will explore means by which the inconveniences of an off-campus location can be minimized.

This decision has been reached after much consultation and discussion, and has not been arrived at lightly. Therefore, it is to be hoped that all involved — potential graduates, faculty, and administrators — will work together to ensure that 1986 Spring Convocation is an overwhelming success.

If you, the readers, have any questions or helpful suggestions on this matter, please direct them to the President of the Senior Class, Susan Fontaine; or myself.

Ice Causes Problem on SMU Parking Lots

To the Editor:

There is a problem in the major parking lot behind the Student Centre. Ice covers most of the area including both entrances and the thoroughfares.

Sometime last weekend, my parents' car which I had parked behind the Student Centre, was hit on the rear bumper with great force. Not only was the bumper severely dented but the car itself was damaged. I assume that ice was the major cause of this accident.

This letter is directed to the persons responsible in the University administration for ice removal. IF it is policy that ice be removed on campus (I would hope that it is) then someone is not doing their job. Not only am I concerned because my parents' car was damaged, but for safety reasons as well. Walking on a slippery surface can be hazardous to one's health. Since I pay to attend this university, I expect certain services to be performed. Please remove the ice.

Thank You
Christine Soucie

Attention all Commerce Students!

by Kristine DeCoste

The following information is of interest to all Bachelor of Commerce students (especially fourth year) attending Saint Mary's University and all other universities in Canada for that matter.

I'm referring to an annual business competition in which students from across the country participate in events pertaining to various areas of business. The competition's title is ICBC (Inter Collegiate Business Competition) and entertains cases in accounting, marketing, business policy and labour arbitration fields.

It is the only university level undergraduate business competition. The university students who compete will guide corporations in the next decade, their views are of great interest to the public.

The competition starts with university teams of 12 members each. Preliminary rounds, conducted by mail and telephone during the beginning of the year reduce the initial number of entrants to a six team roster. This year's team was as follows:

- Accounting — Donald Flinn, Maureen McLean
- Marketing — Wendy McGean, Colleen Smith
- Labour Arbitration — Susan Fontaine, JoAnn Stevens
- Business Policy — Mary Ann Anderson, Chris Connolly, Pauline Doucette
- Business Game — Dan Atkinson, George Orr, Brian Hawkins

This year's team did well, however they did not place in the top six.

For more information on this competition pick up the latest copy of Campus Canada in which an article entitled B.Comm, Be Cool! Students Show Off Their Smarts at Queens Annual Inter Collegiate Business Competition.

For more information for returning students please feel free to contact Lois Wasteney through the Dean of Commerce office.

Yearning for Woodstock:

On Jan. 13, 1976 (10 years ago this week), a reporter for The Village Voice dubbed N.Y.C. band The Ramones "Punk Rock". It was the beginning of a decade.

If Punk was a kid, it would be in the fourth grade.

I think we've all heard of, or at least suspected, the sixties revival. With the return of Paisley prints and tacky jewelry to the fashion scene, plus the reborn idealism of the Live!Band!Farm Aid benefits, the age of Aquarius is back!

These next two album reviews, "Love and Rockets" (from the Comic of the same name), and "The Cult" I think illustrate that the big money has seen the writing on the wall as well. Both on the "Bengars Banquet" label (coincidence?) and neatly packaged, the cosmic concepts of 60s songwriting have returned.

I mean, hey, that's where it all stemmed from anyway!

Mark DeWolf

Yuppies Beware!

by Mark DeWolf

Egyptian motifs, flowers, long hair, and lyrics from the lofty philosophical tendency towards life, love, and individuality that united the entire 60s musical tradition. A new twist on an old theme, a blending of the old with the new; all this describes English Revivalists "The Cult".

Originally begun as the "Southern Death Cult", the lineup diminished, and taking adjectives with them, left only "The Cult" and lead vocalist Ian Astbury to carry on. He was later joined by "Theatre of Hate" guitarist Billy Duffy, drummer Nigel Preston (another T.O.H. alumnus) and bassist Jamie Stewart. Together they've combined for a wonderful energetic noise-singing about great spirits and the like, (Astbury says this is owing to the fact that he lived with his father in Ontario for 5 years.)

Absent is the blatant pretension of "Prince's" shallow Beatloid "Paisley Park", "Love", their first album, reveals a real yearning for the mind blowing good old days, and they do so by rocking out with a vengeance!

Unlike "Love and Rockets", who's 60s flavouring is much more subtle, The Cult's influences are overt and specific. The sound is modern, but they've obviously cut their teeth on the style of the old masters. "Phoenix", the album's opener lets you know what you're in for when Astbury begins by shouting "Yeah, Dig this!" while the song turns into mash of dirty distortion riffs and wah wah solos that would make Jimi Hendrix proud. Another song "Brother Worf and Sister Moon" is distinctly reminiscent of the kind of harmonies and guitar stylings the Beatles employed on "Abbey Road". The influences are obvious, but the sound is all their own.

Astbury's voice makes me imagine Carol Pope with a cold and Duffy's guitar playing owes as much to "U2's" pulsating style as Hendrix's. All these characteristics make for a distinct and ear grabbing album.

The first single "She Sells Sanctuary" (say that five times fast), is garnering a fair amount of airplay, which isn't surprising for an energetic, pulsing rocker blistering with power, what is surprising is that (at least on the surface) it's a real departure from the 60s focus; it owes more in style to U2 than The Jefferson Airplane, but then maybe that's not so far off as it seems, because U2 are a band prone to the same kind of idealism and concern for the fellow man as the 60s tradition.

My only complaint is the production, it has the same cold and bottomless recording quality of its forefathers. Hopefully this is unintentional — you can definitely have too much of a good thing!

And on the third Day...

by Mark DeWolf

In the beginning there was created "Rauhaus", and it was good, but their was abstraction, and unrest R.I.P.

Then was created "Tones on Tail," but they were deemed unworthy of the legacy, and abolished.

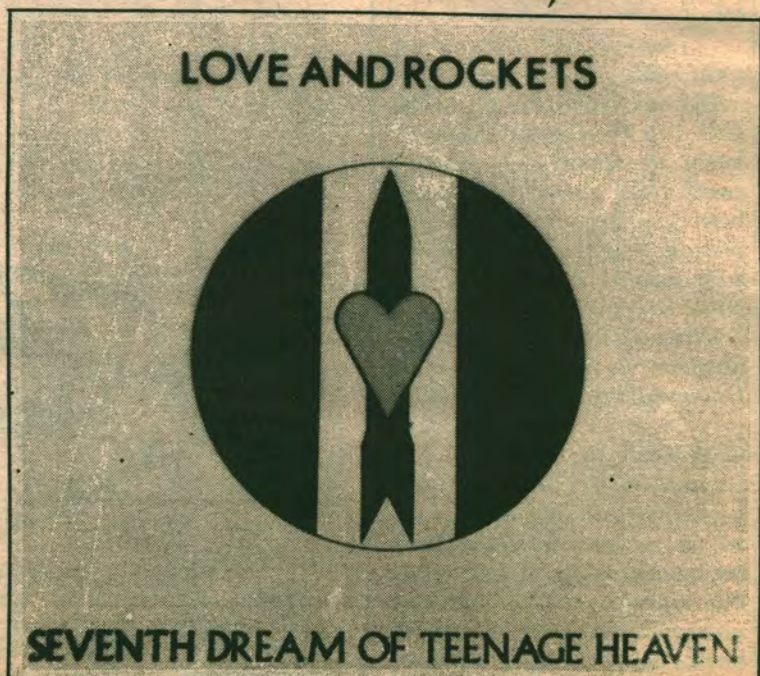

And on the third day, like a phoenix rising was created "Love and Rockets" from the ashes of the unworthy, and they were awesome!

"Love and Rockets" is the creation of two survivors from the archtypical new music band of the late seventies, Bauhaus. Considered minor gods in alternative circles, Bauhaus created some of the eeriest and eclectic music ever to grace the ears of more eccentric tastes. Daniel Ash and David J. are the only original members left, and along with drummer Kevin Haskins (recruited from J's solo work) they've created a band that still exhibits the same diversity of style and influence that made Bauhaus a phenomenon, while offering a much more focused and accessible sound, a sound showcased by their dance club hit "Ball of Confusion".

A modern classic, their first hit employs a number of interesting literary and stylistic devices to intensify its bizarre interpretation of the status quo in western society.

Getting back to diversity, their first album, "Seventh Dream of Teenage Heaven" ranges stylistically from the cold creep of the title cut to the album's last song, an acoustic mélange of 12 string guitar and violins called "saudade". The album's production is impeccable, and though it has a sullen ambience, most of their first release really kicks. But on the other hand, Love And Rockets aren't a thrast and burn outfit, like their forefathers they operate intellectually somewhere beyond Pluto. One could argue that they're a kind of android psychadelia, modern hippies. Their music conceptually is reminiscent of the reality through a kaleidoscope school of songwriting that was law during the late 60s, and in the face of the 80s conservative tide, such idealism is invaluable. Go buy it now!

Where Were You when the lights came on?

by Tina Johnson and Lee-Anne Morrell

Covering the first part of the Residence Society Fabulous 50's Bash was about as much fun as being the only flea at an annual Raid convention.

As the clock ticked forward and everyone there lived in the past (minus the music) the crowd picked up. More people showed up, all dressed up in poodle skirts and bobby socks and one guy who looked like the original Richie Cunningham.

Much to the dismay of the 450 people in attendance, there were technical difficulties — the music stopped and the lights came on. Can you imagine waltzing in a large room with the lights on! The lights dimmed again after about five minutes and everyone re-entered the fab 50's, where trying to find a spot on the dance floor became next to impossible.

At one o'clock the dance was over and everyone went home wishing that they could have stayed to hop and jive till the sun came up the next morning. What started out a total drag, turned out to be what these reporters consider one of the best bashes of the year.

Vote Rambo!

by Mark DeWolf

It amazes me that Sylvester Stallone hasn't been made king of the U.S.A. Here's a man who singlehandedly helped ease the collective conscience of an entire nation (see "Rambo"), and has since gone on to battle the Russians in his latest box office blitz, "Rocky IV". Can't you just see it, American over-enthusiasm taking over, flags flying and banners bearing the battle cry, "Vote Rambo! Vote Rambo!!"

As it turns out, the latest "Rocky" epic is very much what it appears to be, lots a hype and glitter, but little substance. Too much glitter really. "Rocky IV" lacks the depth and humanness of the previous sagas. Instead, it's been replaced by a mash of glitzy scenery and misplaced emotionalism. Gone are the days when Rocky fought for something, to better himself and make a life for his family, to achieve his own goals as a fighter and as a man. No, none of that here, just a lot of hate.

Granted, the fight scenes are as fantastic and realistic as ever, so the entertainment value is intact. They were so realistic in fact, that at one point in the filming, Stallone and his opponent, champion kick boxer Dolph Lundgren, decided to drop the choreographed fighting and fought for real; (ironically, Lundgren hit Stallone so hard that he drove his diaphragm up into his heart, hospitalizing him for a matter of weeks).

Maybe next year ole Rock can take on the terrorists, with Ronny Reagan (a sort of Rambo on Geritol) at his side. Who knows? Who cares?? The latest "Rocky" incarnation is helping to carry on the tradition of East-West animosity that started with "Rambo," and it's curious that in this time of hopefully better relations with the Russians, the movie industry is pushing hatred. Seems dangerous to me.

Dal Tigers Down Huskies 80-71

by Mary MacDonald

The Saint Mary's Huskies met Dalhousie, currently ranked 7th in the CIAU, last Saturday at the Dalhousie Dalplex. SMU started off with a good ball handling game that looked promising to the few fans that were present, (at least 20). The Huskies took a quick lead and held it until too many fouls and turnovers gave the lead to the Tigers.

Gary Bratty had three defensive fouls in the early half of the game and although the Huskies played a strong defensive game, breaking Dal's press, they still came up short.

Dalhousie used their on-court experience to keep their lead and finished 80-71 over the Huskies. Veterans David Smith and Mike Williams each had 15 for the Huskies with Rookie David MacIntosh at 14.

"The team has come a long way since they started playing ball together," Coach Allan

Waye commented, "there were still too many turnovers (22) but that's better than when these teams last met, there were 38. We outrebounded the Tigers 22-18 and I still feel that it's the inexperience on the court that's hurting us."

The Huskies have come a long way since October and even with 9 rookies they are playing a good ball game. Rookies David MacIntosh and Tom McCutcheon both started off the game and gave the fans a good idea of what to expect in the future.

The Huskies will be facing the Tigers on home territory on Tuesday, Jan. 21st at 8:00 p.m. Other games to look forward to are on Saturday the 25th and Sunday the 26th when SMU plays UNB and UPEI both at home, respectively.

The Huskies still have a long way to go to continue their road to that "Winning Tradition" so why not get out to their games and give them some support.

Smith Paces Huskies to First Win

by Shane Ross

The Saint Mary's Huskies basketball squad celebrated their first victory of the year, November 30, at the expense of the Mount Allison Mounties, and according to game star David Smith, it's not the last you'll hear from this team.

"We're improving steadily," Smith said. "We've been prac-ticating hard and it's going to pay off. There is a lot of talent on this team and it's just a matter of time before it matures. Even though we did beat Mt. A., we still didn't play up to our potential."

Their improvements were noticeable when they showed little difficulty handling the Mt. A. press, something they had problems with in their season-opening loss to the Dalhousie Tigers. In turn, the Huskies' tough defence forced several Mt. A. turnovers which they were quick to capitalize on.

Smith led the Huskies' balanced attack with a game-high 22 points. Mike Williams' aggressive play under the boards earned him 15 points, while Gary Bratty chipped in with 12.

The score at the half was 44-39 in favour of the Huskies, and with 2:30 left to play they had increased their lead to 15 points, 73-58. At this time it looked as though the cheering Huskies crowd would witness a blowout; but not so. The Huskies played downright poorly in the final minutes of the game, hanging on to win it 83-72.

"We took them for granted and got burned for some easy points at the end," Smith said. "We can't afford to do that against any team in this league. We had a chance to bury them and we should have."

Belles Lose in Overtime

by Cathy Watkins

Although the crowd was small, those who were at the Women's basketball game Saturday, November 30, were treated to an exciting contest between the Belles and the Mount Allison Mounties.

It was a close game with both teams gaining and then losing the lead. At the end of twenty minutes the Mounties were up seven points, 44-37.

After a half-time pep talk and a rest the Belles were ready for the second half and began to chip away immediately at Mount Allison's lead. Sandra Mumford and Michele Gaunce came on strong in the second half with 15 and 20 points respectively to bring their game totals to 22 and 35 points. Sandra and Michele were also big on the boards pulling down 8 and 10 rebounds in the losing cause.

After being down 71-70 with 11 seconds left, Michele was fouled and made one of two foul shots to send the game into overtime. It was a tough situation foul-wise as four of the five starters had four fouls and the fifty starter had three fouls. Early into the five minute overtime period, Michele fouled out followed by Sandra.

Although the Belles were down only by three with half a minute left in the overtime period, a pair of foul shots by Mount Allison put the lid on the Belles' coffin and the game was over 85-80, in Mount Allison's favor.

The Belles' first game after the Christmas break was last Saturday as they took on the Acadia Axettes in Wolfville. The game was very controlled and the Belles stayed out of foul trouble completely. Leading by only three at the half, 30-27, they were evenly matched by the Axettes in the second twenty minutes and won the game by a three point margin, 62-59. Top scorer for the Belles was Michele Gaunce with 26. Tracy Vanier added 13 and Sandra Mumford contributed an additional 10 in the victory. Michele St. Pierre was Acadia's top scorer with 12. The Belles are away this weekend as they take on the UNB Red Bloomers and the Mt. Allison Mounties.

MORE GREAT MOMENTS IN SPORTS...

...SMU RUGBY PRACTICE...

Intramural Report

by Department of Athletics

More teams than ever were involved in intramural sports this fall. Not only did more teams play in the traditional men's and women's leagues, but there was a great response to the introduction of new leagues and events.

The season started off with Coed Softball on Sunday nights from 6:00 p.m. to 12:00 midnight. The organizers, Joanne MacKinnon and Troy Snider, were surprised and pleased when 13 teams submitted team lists. The league ran well with very few weather problems throughout the schedule. The Foul Tips, managed by Paul MacLean, won the league championship.

Men's Softball also had a good response with 25 teams competing. The Oland's Gudumpers, who went through the league undefeated, sailed through the playoffs defeating the Ceilidh 2-4's to win the championship.

Women's Softball struggled with poor weather and defaults, managing to finish with the High Rise Homers defeating C2nd and B4th for the championship. Many of the same girls competed on the Loyola 45ers who won the six team Touch Football league. Dons Maureen MacLean and Joanne MacKinnon were instrumental in organizing and leading the teams.

Men's Touch Football started out well with 19 teams playing on Monday and Thursday nights, but once again weather and defaults put a damper on the initial enthusiasm. However, the playoffs were finally completed in November with the Gudumpers again being victorious.

Men's and Women's Soccer leagues also had a good response, and after several overtime games and penalty shots, High Rise I 1101 and 1104 won the men's championship, while B2nd and B4th defeated A House to win the women's championship.

Several new events were introduced and proved very popular. A total of 32 students entered the First Annual Tennis Tournament played in perfect weather in September. Mark Layne, a first year Commerce student, defeated Robert Caissie in straight sets to take the title.

The Golf Tournament was also very successful with 27 people playing at the Hartlen Point Golf Club. Greg Hilliard came out on top with the low gross, while Gary MacDonald was low net and David Newman proved to be the most honest golfer.

A total of six teams participated in the Campus Challenge, another new event. The teams had a great time competing in such events as the Termpaper Toss, Graduation Relay, and After the Bash Stagger. When it was all over, the Biology Society had accumulated the most points and were declared the winners.

An early Coed Broomball Tournament was held in October and Der Flukans, made up of soccer and field hockey players, proved to be the best of 20 entered teams.

Men's Volleyball was also introduced for the first time this year, and ran during the month of November. The Fisherman defeated the Thrashers three games to one in a very exciting final. Women competed in Basketball during the same month. At the completion of the schedule, the Ankle Biters were in first place and continued their winning ways in the playoffs to capture the title.

At the halfway point of the Coed Volleyball schedule, playoff positions are being hotly contested. Among those teams owning 3-0 records are Jabberwocky, Boss Hoggs, Toledo Mudhens, Q-Tippers, and the Non Athletic Supporters. Organized and conducted by the Residence Society, the 28 team league is running very smoothly.

Intramural Hockey, as usual, is again extremely popular. Nearing the completion of the first half of the schedule, the standings are very close. The Oland's Export Division is led by Bad to the Bone, Lofus IV leads the Oland's Light Division, while the Chiefs are first in the Schooner Division. Games will resume in January.

Students are reminded that the winter sports — Men's Basketball, Women's Volleyball, and Coed Basketball — will start during the second week of classes. The deadline for registration is Friday, January 10, 1986. Pick up your team or individual entry forms at the Department of Athletics and Recreation (Room 417 Student Centre).

The dates for the Badminton Tournament have been set for February 8th, the Curling Tournament for February 14th, and the Indoor Soccer Tournament for March 14th and 15th.

Ramblings of a Sports Fan

by Scott Gillis

On the thirteenth day of Christmas your sports editor gives to you: the "Gillis Pick".

I didn't plan to put my Super Bowl XX prediction in print this week but I felt the need to respond to the numerous requests. Actually, "requests" is a kind term. Usually the conversation goes something like "Okay, who are you (chuckle, chuckle) picking this year? (the chuckling crescends to delirious laughter) You see, I haven't picked a Super Bowl correctly in a few years. Some people say I jinx football teams. Mr. Ditka phoned, after his Bears blew away the Rams 24-0 on Sunday, urging me not to pick his club. Well, I'm picking them anyway: Bears by two touchdowns.

I was surprised and as happy as the next guy to see the Patriots upset Miami 31-14 in the Orange Bowl. There will be no such upset on January 26th in New Orleans. It's not that the Patriots are a weak club — their three consecutive playoff upsets certainly prove otherwise — it's that Chicago has too strong a defence. Take this past weekend: The Patriots ran Miami into the ground; the Bears shut down L.A.'s Dickerson who is arguably the best running back playing today. I think the "Monsters of the Midway" can shut down the Pats, too.

In fact, I would have given Miami a better chance of beating the Bears because of their explosive passing game. The Dolphins already beat the Bears once this year on a Monday night game. The Bears' defence puts a lot of pressure on its cornerbacks and Clayton and Duper via Marino might have been able to take advantage of the one on one situations.

Chicago's incredible defence has accumulated four shutouts this season, including two in the playoffs. But don't forget that offence led by MacMahon and Payton. They can kill you in the air or on the ground. And don't forget the "Refrigerator", Walter Perry. He can just plain kill you.

Anyway, for the record again: Chicago by 14 for the Super Bowl XX "Gillis Pick". Anymore egg on my face from Super Bowl mistakes and they'll name a breakfast after me at McDonalds. See you in front of the tube in two weeks.

Oh yes, one more thing. If you're not fond of President Ronny (yes, as in Reagan), you might want to duck out for the first five minutes because he's scheduled to do an interview just before the game.

SPORTS TRIVIA: This may be a tricky one. The patriots started as a wildcard team and won the right to go to the Super Bowl by winning three playoff games on the road. What was the last team to do so?
