REGISTRAR ILL

We regret to report that in April, Kevin Cleary was taken seriously ill just before the final examinations. Father W. A. Stewart, S.J. and Laurie Smith, our Director of Admissions, stepped into the breach and succeeded in running the examinations program off as scheduled.

We understand from the latest reports that Kevin is progressing satisfactorily and should be back in harness early in the summer.

MOST REVEREND

J. GERALD BERRY, D.D.

Archbishop of Halifax 1954-1967

The death on Friday, May 12, 1967, at the Halifax Infirmary, of Archbishop J. Gerald Berry, D.D., until two years ago Chancellor of Saint Mary's University, saddened all the people in the Archdiocese. The many tributes paid to him following his death showed the high esteem in which he was held by people of all faiths and all walks of life.

A native of Montreal, Archbishop Berry was Bishop of Peterborough, Ontario for nine years before coming to Halifax, February 2, 1954.

His outstanding ability had already been recognized in Montreal, Peterborough and Halifax, when in 1960, he received national recognition in his election as President of the National Conference of Bishops.

Although he was an invalid for the last two years of his life, the dedicated leadership he gave to the Archdiocese during the 13 years he served as Archbishop will long be remembered.

Bishop James M. Hayes, D.D., Apostolic Administrator, Archdiocese of Halifax, and Chancellor of Saint Mary's University, in a tribute to Archbishop Berry said, "A great priest who offered sacrifice on behalf of men. The greatest sacrifice was his own life spent completely in service of others and laid down without question when Divine Providence so ordained".

EXPANSION AT SAINT MARY'S

This Spring two new buildings on the campus have been occupied by the University, a chemistry-biography building and the first phase of a student center. These latest structural additions to Saint Mary's 30-acre campus will both have Inglis Street approaches. Both buildings are of exterior precast concrete and brick, designed to harmonize with the University's present and future buildings.

The million-dollar chemistry-biology building contains four biology teaching laboratories on the first floor and the same number for chemistry on the second floor, each with adjoining instructor's offices and research laboratories. The building is designed so that three additional floors may be added in the future.

The student center, costing approximately $350,000, is designed as a series of 43-foot-square blocks, with provision for upward or outward expansion by the addition of further blocks of the same size.

The architects and supervising engineers for both buildings were C. A. Fowler, Bauld and Mitchell, Halifax. Alumnus F. C. O'Niell and Associates Limited were consulting engineers on the chemistry-building and Alumnus J. Philip Vaughan and Associates, Limited, with F. C. O'Niell and Associates, Ltd., were consulting engineers on the student center. Eastern Contracting Limited, New Glasgow, were the general contractors for both buildings.

Dear Father O'Donnell:

Possibly an item from the following would be of interest to some Alumni:

Brother Charles A. Lynam, a former and well known professor of Philosophy at St. Mary's, on Saturday, April 29th, celebrated his 70th anniversary as a Christian Brother of Ireland at Saint Gabriel's College, Lakewood, New Jersey, where he resides in retirement.

Brother Lynam spent a vigorous day, welcoming the large group of friends who gathered for the occasion, participating in the Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving, and climaxed the day with a speech enjoyed by all.

Brother John V. Birmingham, a Brother for 60 years himself, and one of the four Brothers who assumed the direction of Saint Mary's University in 1913, came from Chicago for the celebration.

Two alumni from St. Mary's, Brother William C. Penny and Brother Edward C. O'Connor, represented the Alumni of St. Mary's at the occasion.

Brother Lynam enjoyed the messages from Very Reverend Father Fischer, the Alumni Association and from individual former students in Halifax.

Yours in Christ,

BROTHER EDWARD C. O'CONNOR,
Vocation Counsellor

FACULTY OF COMMERCE HOSTS TAX CONFERENCE

The report of the Carter Royal Commission on Taxation was studied at a special one-day course developed by the Institute of Chartered Accountants and sponsored by the Commerce Faculty of Saint Mary's University in co-operation with the Canadian Tax Foundation. The Conference was held Friday, May 12, with around 100 people in attendance.

Intended for accountants, barristers, businessmen and others, the course included lectures by Prof. Michael Hare of the University of Toronto and Bruce B. Philip C.A., secretary of the Chartered Accountants' Institute's special committee on taxation.

Among the topics discussed were the effects of the Commission's recommendations on tax planning, corporate financing, business incentives and foreign ownership.

Chairmen for the course, held in Theatre A of Saint Mary's new library building, were F. C. Burton, C.A., and Henry Rhude, governors of the Canadian Tax Foundation.

HOCKEY COACH APPOINTED

Bob Boucher, 29-year-old native of Ottawa has been appointed Arena Manager and Head Hockey Coach at Saint Mary's University.

Boucher will be handling the reins when the Huskies return to the ice this fall after a three years' absence from the Maritime Intercollegiate Hockey League.

No stranger to the game himself, Boucher comes from an illustrious line of hockey greats. His father, Bill, performed with Montreal Canadiens from 1922-29 and held down right wing on the famous line of Boucher, Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat. Frank Boucher, who starred with New York, is an uncle.

The new pilot of the Huskies broke into big time hockey at the age of 16 with Montreal junior Canadiens in 1954. After two seasons with the baby Habs he moved to Toronto where he toiled with St. Mike's Majors and finished third in the OHA junior "A" scoring race behind Frank Mahovich.

The following season, 1957-58, he returned to the Montreal organization and promptly sparked Ottawa-Hull junior Canadiens to the Memorial Cup. The explosive right winger copped the scoring crown with 126 points.

In the fall of 1958 Boucher turned professional with Ottawa-Hull, won the team scoring title and tied for most goals scored.

He accepted a position as playing-coach with a senior team in Chamonix, France in 1961 following an absence of a year-and-a-half from hockey due to a serious eye injury sustained while playing with Ottawa-Hull.

The following season he played for Greensboro, N. C., of the Eastern Pro League where he scored 60 goals and was named to the all-star team. Boucher returned to Europe in 1963-64 as a player and assistant coach with a senior aggregation in Innsbruck, Austria.

After two more years as a player with Greensboro and Jacksonville, Boucher hung up the skates and has just returned from Labrador City, Nfld., where he coached a senior all-star team.

RESIDENT ARTIST APPOINTED

C. Anthony (Tony) Law, who combined painting with Navy service and earned distinction in both, has been named Resident Artist at Saint Mary's University.

Announcement of his appointment was made during an exhibition held in March by the Canadian Atlantic Group of Painters and Sculptors in the Saint Mary's University Art Gallery, by Very Reverend C. J. Fischer, S.J., University president.

Commander Law presented his first one-man show in Quebec in 1938 and exhibited his paintings at the Royal Canadian Academy and the Montreal Art Association the same year. He has twice been awarded the Jessie Dow prize, in 1939 and 1951, for oils exhibited in the open show of the Montreal Art Association.

In December, 1943, while his torpedo boat flotilla was being commissioned, he was appointed a special war artist, and in June 1945 became an official war artist.

He received a mention-in-despatches in February, 1942 for his part in the Channel action against the German battleship Scharnhorst and was given a second mention for his part in fierce fighting off the Dutch coast in March 1943 when he was acting senior officer of his flotilla. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross as a result of 15 successive actions during the Normandy coast landings, in which his flotilla experienced heavy losses in ships and personnel.

Commander Law was executive officer of the former R.C.N. Arctic patrol ship Labrador from 1955 to 1957, including her transit of the Northwest Passage and circumnavigation of North America. During 1964-65 he was in command of H.M.C.S.

Cape Scott on her medical expedition to Easter Island. He retired from the Royal Canadian Navy last November.

In addition to his appointment as Resident Artist at Saint Mary's, Commander Law is also chairman of the centennial visual arts sub-committee for Nova Scotia which is responsible for the operation of the centennial art gallery in the Halifax Citadel and the centennial craft gallery in the Old Town Clock.

CONVOCATION ADDRESS

It is an honour for me to address graduates headed by Doctor MacKeen, the representative in Nova Scotia of Her Majesty the Queen.

It is a pleasure to have this opportunity to congratulate all gathered here on the centennial year of Canada's confederation.

The hundred years of confederation has been a lesson to all the world in co-operation.

I am aware that Nova Scotia was already old when it agreed to enter confederation.

The first letter from Canada received by a Superior General of the Society of Jesus, in Rome, was written from Annapolis Royal. It was written in the year 1611 by Father Biard.

Five years later, Father Biard, in France, published his Relation de la Nouvelle France. The reading of this book stimulated the desire of St. Jean de Brébeuf and his early companions to come to Canada.

Before they could come, the lure of the Saint Lawrence had drawn traders to Quebec. The Jesuits did not forget Nova Scotia. Ships bound for Quebec disembarked Jesuits at St. Ann's Bay in Cape Breton, where they established a settlement at the site now known as Englishtown. From there they journeyed to the mainland, and as far south as Guysboro.

When compared with the habitation at Annapolis Royal, the buildings of Saint Mary's University are, as it were, a milestone on the way. In three hundred years from now, they will be the worse for the ravages of time.

Man's contribution to the world has to take account of changing times.

Indeed, it was changing times which moved the provinces of Canada to confederate. One hundred years ago, a dominant issue was communications. A transcontinental railway was deemed to be advisable. Co-operation was needed to make it feasible.

Today, communication is not only by land and sea, but also by air and by radio waves. What happens in the Congo one afternoon may be seen that evening on the TV screen.

One benefit of modern communications is that it makes known to one-half of the world how the other half lives. This is a benefit in more ways than one. It generates sympathy for less fortunate people, and makes us wonder what we can do for our fellow men.

It is now commonplace to say that poverty is, in large measure, due to cultural disorder, and that cultural disorder is due to lack of education.

An educated people have enlightened rulers. Uneducated masses are easily led by a demagogue.

President Johnson has gone as far as to say that education is the answer to all the world's problems.

The interest taken by political leaders in the education of youth is most helpful.

Governments today, while harnessing natural resources are not unaware of the need of developing the moral, intellectual and spiritual energy of man,—a genuine source of power for the social situation of the future.

The Church has always rated highly the importance of education, and its influence on social progress.

The Society of Jesus, from its beginning and throughout its history, has made education one of its primary works. It has persevered in this work for more than four centuries in every quarter of the globe. It has been faithful to the admonition of its Founder that procedures must be adapted to times and places.

The methods of education must needs change with the times. It is this continuing change that makes it as difficult to define education as to define poetry.

A seven-year old boy, in New York, when asked what education was, replied: "Education is how kids learn stuff."

Prime Ministers and Premiers and University Presidents would wish that the whole problem were as simple as that.

Not all wisdom is to be garnered from books. Nor is it all to be gathered from the gadgetry of electronics. To be educated one has to mingle with one's intellectual peers and listen to one's elders.

Over the world today there is a glow of hope coming from the galaxies of students in universities who are seeking to learn more about history and political science and economics, in order to know more about their own duties and the rights of others.

It is heartening to see so many taking to the mental discipline which education necessitates.

Discipline of mind makes the university graduate potent in the sphere in which he works. He is not vague or vapid, with ill-informed or shifting opinions. He is not a mere mental barometer of the thoughts and feelings of the circles in which he moves.

Today, we have need of such trained minds to guide the destinies of the world.

The world is not yet destitute of men who have evaded all mental discipline while growing to man's estate. There is the facile talker who contradicts himself in successive sentences without being aware of the fact. There is the distressing person who returns again and again to opinions from which logic has already driven him out.

The mental infirmities from which these men suffer are due to a lack of education.

Their numbers can be reduced by the influence upon their fellow men of those who have had the advantage of a university career.

An understanding and sympathy with one's fellows is a contribution to order, tranquility and prosperity, within the nation and in the family of nations.

One hundred years ago, it was with understanding and sympathy that the provinces of Canada united, sacrificing provincial preferences for the common good.

Today, the problems of neighbouring nations are close enough to us to be our concern. We know enough to know that all men are our fellow men, that all men are our brothers. No one asks: "Am I my brother's guardian?" We know the answer. And we know that the question has a tainted origin.

You, young graduates of today, are going out into the world rich, not materially, but intellectually.

Towards your less fortunate brother, I am sure, you will be, by virtue of your education, sympathetic.

To those who come begging you can give a helping hand, saying, with St. Peter: "Riches and gold have I none, but what I have I give in the name of Jesus Christ, the Nazarene."
